ROOSEVELT TO ASK FOR ADDITIONAL BATTLESHIPS; FEELS 'GROWING CONCERN' AT RECENT WORLD EVENTS

First Actual Photographs of Bombing and Sinking of Panay—Other Pictures on Pages 6 and 7

The first actual photographs of the Panay sinking reach the United States. This photograph was made immediately following the bombing of the ship by Japanese warplanes and before the vessel went down in the mighty Yangtze river. The arrow is pointing to the American flag painted on the American gunboat. The photo arrived in the United States yesterday aboard the China Clipper and was transmitted to Atlanta by Acme Telephoto. Lieutenant J. W. Geist, an engineer officer on the Panay, in testimony regarding the bombing and sinking of the vessel, said that three heavy Japanese bombers began their attack on the Panay without warning. Other survivors said the victims were machine-gunned from a launch.

BORAH IS AGAINST BIG ARMS OUTLAY

Nye To Oppose Increase; Taylor Says U.S. Should Be Ready 'To Lick Those Tramping on Our Toes,'

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP) President Roosevelt announced a possible increase in the naval building program today because, he said, the facts of the troubled world situation "are facts and the United States must recognize them."

Without referring to the recent sinking of the American gunboat Panay, or any other specific incident, and disclaiming any unfriendly gesture toward any particular nation, he said merely that recent events had caused him "growing concern."

His intentions were announced at a press conference in which he referred correspondents to a letter he had written Chairman Taylor, Democrat, Colorado, of the house appropriations subcommittee on the navy, advising him that he might expect additional estimates for naval building.

At the conference, the President answered a barrage of questions which the reporters fired at him.

Type Not Known.

How many vessels would be added to the present program, he could not say, nor could he tell what types of ship would be constructed. That awaited further study.

Nor did he know whether additional authorizing legislation would be needed. That depended on the type of vessel to be built. If it should be decided to build warships falling into the categories authorized by the Vinson act, new legislation would not be needed.

For the present, at least, no increased naval personnel would be necessary.

Direct Negative.

And one more question:

"Mr. President, is this part of a preparedness program?" he was asked.

To that, he replied with a quiet and direct negative.

The letter to Taylor, in effect, told the latter that the estimates for naval building which will be included in the budget that goes to congress next week were to be regarded as incomplete.

"The preliminary estimates submitted by the director of the budget to the naval subcommittee were prepared some time ago and called for appropriations to commence during the fiscal year 1939 (which begins next July 1), two battleships, two light cruisers, eight destroyers, and six submarines," he wrote.

"Since that time world events have caused me growing concern. Under the constitution the President is commander-in-chief of the

Underground Attack Forces Rebels From Teruel Citadel

Bombs Hold Attention as Loyalists Tunnel Under Ancient Seminary.

MADRID, Dec. 28.—(AP)—A Spanish government communique tonight reported government shock troops had occupied the massive Insurgent-defended seminary at Teruel, one of the last three Insurgent citadels.

The besieged Insurgents, who had held out in the seminary for six days, were reported to have retreated to a yard in the adjacent convent of Santa Clara.

Both the convent and the seminary were reported in flames.

Dispatches from Barcelona said government troops fought their way into the seminary through one of the ancient tunnels that honeycomb the foundations of most Teruel buildings.

While detachments assaulted the walls with hand bombs and machine guns above ground, a mining crew dug steadily for three days beneath the huge structure.

Surprise Entry.

The government soldiers made a surprise entry from the tunnel through a floor opening. Startled Insurgent defenders failed to rally as more government troops poured in.

Defense Minister Indalecio Prieto, in Barcelona, said none of the defenders was left in the seminary—which had been held by part of the 6,000 Insurgents reported in the seminary and two other strongholds.

The communique said Insurgents still were entrenched in the civil government palace, which was reported in flames, but expressed confidence they would "not be able to hold out much longer."

Major Role.

The government said aviation played a major role in the fighting around Teruel as Insurgent forces sought to retake the city and rescue the Insurgents beleagured within.

Four squadrons of government planes, it said, engaged several Insurgent bombers and pursuit planes over the Teruel front. Four Insurgent planes were reported shot down and one government plane lost.

Government military leaders were said to have planned a trap for Insurgent forces if they try to rescue Insurgent soldiers and civilians.

This is the reason, government sources said, that no effort has

FIGHT TO FREE CITY OF DEBT PICTURED

Atlanta, in the brief period of one year, has become one of the few American cities operating on a cash basis and with good credit.

It is probably the only city of its size in the nation which has wiped out a serious deficit in that period and brought about legislation to prevent another such debt burden.

Headlines tell the story of Atlanta's success to the nation. But there's a story behind that success that headlines cannot tell. It's a story as human as any success story taken from the pages of an Alger novel.

There were heavy odds to overcome—a floating deficit of $1,700,000 at the outset, hundreds of thousands of dollars in salary and merchant scrip, indifferent public opinion, poor methods of financing.

Look Back Year.

At any rate, you should take a look at the situation a year ago and another at the position today.

When Mayor Hartsfield took office January 1, 1937, there was the floating deficit, another $1,300,000 in outstanding relief certificates issued on a 10-year basis, more than $800,000 in salary scrip issued to pay employes and several hundred thousand dollars of merchandise scrip.

Looking back yesterday, Mayor Hartsfield said one of the heavy drains on the city was the method of financing relief.

"Sums as high as $50,000 per month were expended, but the money used was that intended to

Maximum Penalty Is Given to Bombers

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Denying motions for a new trial, Federal Judge Charles G. Briggle today imposed the maximum penalty of four years' imprisonment and $20,000 fines on each of the 36 defendants in the mine and train bombing conspiracy case.

The defendants were sentenced to two years and fined $10,000 for conspiracy to obstruct the mails and one year imprisonment and $5,000 fine on each of two counts charging violation of the Sherman anti-trust act. Sentences were to run consecutively.

Judge Briggle said perjury "ran rampant" in the case, and urged government attorneys to continue their investigation of the 1932-35 outbreak of dynamitings in the Illinois coal fields interunion strife.

JAPAN THREATENS 1,000-MILE DRIVE

General Matsui Warns Hankow and Shungking May Yet Be Attacked.

BULLETIN

TOKYO, Dec. 29.—(AP)—The British embassy today informed the Japanese foreign office that it could not accept the Japanese military version of attacks on the British gunboats Ladybird and Bee.

Foreign Minister Koki Hirota delivered to the British ambassador, Sir Robert L. Cragie, the Japanese apology for shelling the British gunboat Ladybird.

He explained the "confusion" caused by the army's mop-up campaign around Nanking led to a "mistake" in which Japanese shore batteries fired on the British warship, killing one sailor.

By The Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 29.—(Wednesday.)—General Iwane Matsui, the Japanese commander, threatened today to press Japan's attack 1,000 miles into China's interior.

Americans at Tsingtao, on the North China coast, at the same time were fleeing from a threatened attack by another arm of the Japanese army striking swiftly across Shantung province.

Unless the Chinese government ends "its anti-Japanese policies," Matsui warned, Japanese forces "may find it necessary" to advance to Hankow and Chungking and "may repudiate the national government of China."

MOTHER POISONS 2 CHILDREN, SELF

Father Makes Gruesome Discovery of Dead and Dying Huddled in Bed.

SHELBYVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 28. (AP)—Two small children were found dead and their mother, Mrs. Ray Gowan, 36, wife of a prosperous Bedford county farmer, was found dying late this afternoon, Sheriff Brown reported, at their farm home about 10 miles from here. The mother died later.

Sheriff Brown said the death of all three was caused by the administration of chloroform and poison.

"The mother gave the children poison and then chloroform," Brown asserted, "then took her own life in the same way."

The children, Sara Jean, 3, and Ray Jr., four months old, were dead when their father, who had been out working on the farm, discovered the tragedy.

The sheriff attributed Mrs. Gowan's actions to "ill health,"

Dangerous Weather Delays Films Of Panay Attack on Flight to East

Reel Reaches U. S. by Clipper, Is Speeded Toward Washington.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Dangerous flying weather halted tonight the eastward flight of an airliner speeding to Washington the news reel film of the bombing of the United States gunboat Panay in the Yangtze river.

United Air Lines officials said the plane probably would take off between 7:30 and 8 a. m. tomorrow (8:30 and 9 a. m., Atlanta time.) They said adverse conditions near Omaha, Neb., caused the flight delay.

Two California state police officers, guarding the film aboard the plane, arranged that the reel should be kept at the Cheyenne police station overnight.

The reel of historic film, picturing the bombing and destruction of the United States gunboat Panay in the Yangtze river, was carried eastward from San Francisco by special plane tonight, under the eyes of armed guards.

The film, stowed in a traveling bag, reached San Francisco by clipper plane from the orient this morning in care of Norman Alley, Universal Newsreel photographer,

CAMERAMAN RISKS HIS LIFE FOR FILMS

The dramatic Acme telephoto pictures of the Panay bombing in The Constitution today were taken by Weldon James, United Press correspondent.

James, with a group of other correspondents, was on the gunboat watching the advance of the Japanese forces at Nanking.

At Shanghai, which James and the other refugees reached after much difficulty, the navy agreed to carry the films to Manila, the only way they could reach there in time to catch the Pan-American clipper for Hawaii.

At Honolulu, arrangements were made for transfer of James' negatives to a clipper ship which roared away to California.

CAMPBELL DEATH RULED 'ACCIDENT'

Daughter Freed After Coroner's Verdict, Attends Guarded Funeral.

WARREN, Ohio, Dec. 28.—(AP)—A coroner's verdict of "accidental death" and brief, closely guarded funeral services brought reunion today to 28-year-old Louise Campbell and other descendants of James A. Campbell, wealthy steelmaster.

Miss Campbell, held without charge since her mother, Mrs. Cordelia Campbell, fell fatally wounded at a family Christmas Eve gathering, sped away from Trumbull county jail within an hour after announcement of the Orange Seed Lodges In Wind Pipe, Kills Boy

An orange seed lodged in the windpipe of three-year-old William Allen Eggler resulted in his death last night before his frantic father could take him to Grady hospital from their home at 754 Pulliam street.

His father, Mike M. Eggler, said the lad swallowed the seed shortly after dinner and immediately began to strangle. Doctors said the seed had lodged in his windpipe. The father rushed him to the hospital, where physicians said he had died en route.

Surviving are his parents; two sisters, Mrs. Ransom Morgan and Miss Elizabeth Eggler, and four brothers, James P., John A., Frank H. and Raymond Eggler.

REID SAYS GEORGIA WILL RAISE QUOTA TO HELP DEMOCRATS

Pitt Maner, Head of Young Democrats, To Speak on Jackson Day Here.

Georgia will not fail in its effort to raise its share of funds needed by the Democratic party nationally, State Chairman Charles S. Reid declared yesterday in a statement issued through Jere N. Moore, managing director of the Jackson Day Committee of Georgia.

The Jackson Day Committee is seeking contributions of $25 each from party loyalists, the appeal to be concluded by a dinner January 8 at the Ansley Hotel simultaneous with the Jackson Day dinner in Washington. Pitt Maner, newly elected president of the Young Democrats of America, will speak at the Atlanta dinner.

In his statement, Chairman Reid said:

Example of Party Faith.

Georgia Democrats must not and will not fail to do their full share toward contributing funds with which to meet the party deficit and thus not only express Georgia's enduring loyalty to the Democratic party, and to its peerless leader, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, but give an example of their faith in the future of the party and of the country.

Georgia and Georgians today occupy a more important place in national party councils than ever before in the history of the state and party, and no state has a greater reason to be loyal to the Democratic party than has Georgia.

During the past few years Georgia has benefited as greatly as any state in the Union from the vast program of useful public enterprises undertaken by the government under the Democratic administration of President Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Only Appeal for Year.

Now, for the only time during the year 1938, Georgia Democrats are being afforded an opportunity to express their party faith and loyalty in the most important and concrete manner; namely by contributing funds with which to liquidate the indebtedness of the Democratic national committee, and to provide funds with which to assure another great Democratic victory in 1940.

The Jackson Day committee has wisely decided to ask only those loyal Democrats whom the committee feels are amply able to contribute $25 each to make contributions this year. Committees have been organized in every county in the state to prosecute this campaign and results so far reported are most encouraging.

Mr. Reid said plans of the committee contemplate the publication of a souvenir program of the event, in which the names of all contributors will be listed. Copies of this program, suitably inscribed, will be sent to President Roosevelt, National Chairman Farley, members of the Georgia congressional delegation, and others prominent in party councils, Mr. Moore said.

Presbyterian Leaders Arrive for Youth Convention

With more than 1,000 young people in attendance at the opening of the convention last night, men and women prominent in Presbyterian ranks as ministers, educators, and missionaries arrived in Atlanta yesterday to take part in the program. Here, Dr. Donald W. Richardson, professor of missions at Union Theological Seminary, is pictured on his arrival. He will speak at the afternoon meeting Thursday.

Dr. C. Darby Fulton, of Nashville, Tenn., executive secretary of the committee on foreign missions, paused in his hotel room yesterday to review the program for the three-day Presbyterian youth convention. Dr. Fulton is general chairman of the convention committee and presided over the opening session last night. In addition, he will deliver the principal address at the final meeting of the convention Thursday night.

DAILIES IN TAMPA RAISE HOME RATES

Heavily Increased Cost of Production Set Forth as Reason.

TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Both of Tampa's newspapers today announced increases in subscription rates.

The Times, published daily except Sunday, advanced its prices from 15 to 18 cents a week, and the Tribune, published seven days a week, from 20 to 25 cents a week.

The Times' announcement follows:

"Beginning next Monday, January 3, the subscription prices of the Tampa Daily Times will be raised 3 cents a week, one-half cent a day, from 15 cents to 18 cents. Monthly, quarterly and yearly rates will be increased in the same proportion. The single copy price of 5 cents will remain unchanged.

"In Tampa, as in other cities throughout the United States, the heavily increased cost of production forces the raising of subscription prices. Newsprint paper, for example, has gone up 25 per cent in the last three years and taxes have more than doubled in the last two years. Other costs have risen relatively, making an increase in subscription rates imperative in order to maintain news and feature standards on the plane of excellence to which Times readers are accustomed."

The Tribune's announcement follows:

"In accordance with the announcement already made to subscribers by letter, the home-delivered price of the Tribune (including Sunday) will be 25 cents a week, beginning January 2."

Atlanta Firemen Win Prevention Award in State

The Atlanta fire department has won first place in Georgia for fire prevention and clean-up week activities, with a rating of more than 90 per cent, it was revealed yesterday by the National Board of Fire Underwriters.

The Atlanta department also was among 10 cities in the country with a more than 90 per cent rating. The competition involved approximately 800 cities and towns throughout the United States. A certificate of award will be presented within a few days.

Fire Chief O. J. Parker said he "wished to thank the people of Atlanta for their splendid cooperation." He added that the city is "entering another year of fire prevention efforts with the hope loss may be kept to a minimum."

HEFLIN 'BETTER,' DOCTOR REPORTS

Ex-Senator Held 'Probably Past Crisis.'

LAFAYETTE, Ala., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Former Senator J. Thomas Heflin, stricken with pneumonia in the midst of a "comeback" campaign, was "probably past the crisis" of his illness today, his physician said in announcing Heflin was "much better."

Dr. N. A. Wheeler, who diagnosed Heflin's ailment as lobar pneumonia yesterday, said the former senator "spent a rocky night, but is much improved now. I believe he has passed the crisis."

The physician said Heflin, one of three candidates for the senate post now held by Dixie Graves, wife of Alabama's Governor, "may be able to cast his ballot next Tuesday."

GARBAGE SYSTEM IN FULTON PLANNED

Collection Outside City Limits Will Be Paid by Assessments.

Garbage collection districts will be established shortly after January 1 for densely populated districts of Fulton county outside of Atlanta, County Commissioner George F. Longino announced yesterday.

M. C. Bishop, county public relations agent, will be appointed temporary assistant superintendent of public works to handle the new project, Longino said. He will supervise construction of several hundred miles of new sewers planned for the year.

The number of districts will be determined by a survey of population density, particularly in the Peachtree and Buckhead districts. Twelve or more garbage trucks will be operated in the selected areas, the cost to be paid by assessments on benefiting property owners.

Commissioner Longino declared the cost would be less than the present cost of private disposal. He added the commission hoped to have a complete garbage system worked out shortly.

The garbage will be under the control of the county health board.

New sewage construction after January 1 will include several hundred miles of lateral branches to connect with main lines outside the city, now under construction. Cost of the projects will be paid entirely by assessment of property, replacing the old system by which the county furnished labor to supplement materials bought b property owners.

PATRIOTIC GROUPS TO UNVEIL TABLET

Constitution Signing To Be Commemorated Sunday.

A bronze tablet commemorating the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution of the United States will be unveiled at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the rotunda of the state capitol.

Officials of the Sons and Daughters of the American Revolution and the state of Georgia will participate in the dedicatory program.

Mrs. John S. Adams, regent of the Georgia society, Daughters of the American Revolution, will deliver the dedicatory address. Scott Candler, member of the Atlanta chapter, S. A. R., will make the presentation. Dave Parker, assistant attorney general, will accept the tablet in behalf of Governor Rivers and the state.

NEW SEWER LINES COST CITY $151,240

Drains Laid This Year Total 17.24 Miles; Agreement Made With DeKalb.

Atlanta this year built 17.24 miles of new sewer lines in the city at a cost of $151,240.12, it was revealed yesterday as the annual report of the city sewer department was turned over to the sewer committee of city council.

In its last meeting of the year, the sewer committee yesterday reached an agreement with DeKalb county officials on maintenance of the metropolitan sewer system disposal plant in DeKalb. It also heard the annual report of W. A. Hansell, assistant chief of the city construction department in charge of sewers.

DeKalb county officials advanced a proposal by which they propose to put up $11,000 for maintenance of plants and lines. They originally had rejected the city's proposal for DeKalb to pay on a percentage of cost basis.

Hansell's report showed Atlanta's sewer system represents an expenditure of $7,657,900.96. The total number of miles of sewers in the city is 572.86.

Atlanta's sewer program last year cost $249,517.66 for 20.83 miles of sewers, the report indicated.

Lateral sewers built by the city alone were two and one-half miles in length and cost $24,052.43. Sanitary bond sewers built in co-operation with Works Progress Administration cost $53,072.95 for 12.27 miles of sewers.

Storm bond sewers built in cooperation with the WPA cost $68,316.24 for slightly less than two miles of sewers. Working with Fulton county, the city built 969 feet of sewers at a cost of $5,798.50.

Cases by Police Increase 7,338 Over Last Year

Atlanta police have booked a total of 58,708 cases so far this year, an increase of 7,338 over the previous year, it was revealed yesterday in figures announced by the department.

The drive against traffic violators was credited with the increase. So far this year, a total of 57 persons have been killed in traffic mishaps within city limits, as compared with the 1936 total of 84.

The number of accidents increased, however. Comparative figures show 1,639 persons have been injured in 4,972 accidents this year, as against 1,232 injured in 4,137 accidents last year.

A total of 974 automobiles have been stolen in 1937, but 1,034 cars recovered. During the year, the department has seized and destroyed 13,794 gallons of liquor, recovered $306,070 worth of stolen property, and fingerprinted 4,115 persons.

SPREAD MISSIONS, YOUTHS ARE URGED

Presbyterian Convention To Reconvene at 9 O'Clock This Morning.

Extension of the Christian message through the mission fields, both at home and abroad is the heritage which challenges young people today, delegates to the Presbyterian Youth Convention on World Missions were told last night by speakers at the opening session of the three-day conference at the First Presbyterian church.

Emphasizing the work which has been done by gospel pioneers in the past, from Paul to the more modern missionaries who have traveled the remote reaches of the world, Dr. Samuel M. Zwemer, professor of missions at Princeton Theological Seminary, in the opening address of the night, told the more than 1,200 delegates who crowded the church auditorium, that "yours is the heritage to finish the task which was started by Jesus and His Apostles."

Relates History.

Prefacing his remarks with a history of what had been done since the dawn of Christianity, Dr. Zwemer said that the past accomplishments only emphasized the truth that Christianity is alive today and will flourish.

"The harvest is greater than the seed time," Dr. Zwemer declared. "There are more Christians in Korea now than there were in the whole Roman empire at the close of the Apostolic age. We have today approximately 400 missionary societies in Portestant Christendom; 30,000 foreign missionaries; 190 colleges and universities in the near and far east and 700 missionary hospitals with over 4,000,000 patients."

Dealing with home missions, Dr. Homer McMillan, of Atlanta, executive secretary of home missions of the Southern Presbyterian church, declared that the heritage which was left in the hands of the young people today was one that had its origin in the landing of the Pilgrims.

Civilization Bedrock.

Terming home missions as the very bedrock of American civilization, Dr. McMillan observed that from it had sprung the home, the church and the school, the three basic principals on which are based the high ideals of this country.

The convention will reconvene at 9 o'clock this morning to hear Dr. John A. MacKay, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, and to hold a series of discussions during the morning and afternoon. Features of the meeting tonight will be addressed by Dr. MacKay and Dr. Oscar F. Blackwelder, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Reformation, Washington, D. C., and a leader of young people of the Lutheran Church in America.

A mass meeting for adults also will be held at North Avenue Presbyterian church at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

GEORGIA LINT GRADES 42 PER CENT STANDARD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The Agriculture Department reported today Texas cotton ranked first this season in quality.

It said the 4,492,400 bales of Texas cotton ginned prior to December graded 53.7 per cent white middling or better. Tennessee percentage was 53.4.

The percentage in other states follows:

North Carolina, 45.2; Virginia, 27.3; Alabama, 51.1; Louisiana, 38.4; Arkansas, 47.5; South Carolina, 34.8; Oklahoma, 25.3; Florida, 23.3; Mississippi, 49.5, and Georgia, 42.9.

STATE WILL QUERY 500,000 AUTOISTS

Data on Fees and Full Taxes Is Sought.

Half a million questionnaire cards will be sent Georgians with their new 1938 automobile tags, W. L. Miller, chairman of the state highway board, announced yesterday.

The cards will seek information to determine the proportionate amount of registration fees and motor fuel taxes paid by the rural and urban residents of the state, officials of the highway department's division of highway planning said.

Miller appealed to automobile owners for co-operation in assembling the facts with which it is hoped highway planning in the state can be improved. He pointed out that no postage is necessary in returning the cards.

Officials said the 500,000 card order was the largest single purchase of its kind by any state department.

SPLAWN IS TO BE HEAD OF I. C. C. ON JANUARY 1

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—A Texan, Walter M. W. Splawn, becomes chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission January 1.

The I. C. C. announced today Splawn's election for a one-year term, succeeding Carroll Miller. Under a policy adopted in 1911, the chairmanship is changed annually.

Splawn, a former member of the Texas railroad commission and a former president of the University of Texas, became a member of the I. C. C. February 1, 1934, by appointment of President Roosevelt.

LETTERS LAUD MAYOR FOR SAFE, SANE YULE

Letters of congratulation for "giving Atlanta a safe and sane" Christmas holiday season, as well as a "good city government," were pouring into Mayor Hartsfield's office at the city hall yesterday as his first year in office neared its end.

Congratulating the mayor, city council and the police department for putting into effect a strict ban on fireworks inside city limits, letters came from prominent members of Atlanta's Parent-Teacher Associations and private citizens.

"You have given us a good city government, and for one, I wish to express my appreciation," Dr. Louie D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church, wrote, commending the administration's entrance into the new year debt-free. Letters were also received from Mrs. J. Elmer Slider, Mrs. Katherine T. Weathersbee, and Elise Boylston, all of the P.-T. A., and from Mrs. A. K. Williams, of 219 Racine street.

TWO HELD IN THEFT FROM STORE WINDOW

Two suspects were arrested a few hours after thieves smashed a display window of Lloyd's jewelry store, 109 Peachtree street, and escaped with $1,000 worth of wrist watches and other articles early yesterday morning.

They were booked on charges of suspicion. They identified themselves as J. D. Foster, 35, of 201 Ivy street, and Clarence Ellis, 32, alias Charlie Wilson, who was released last week from Bellwood prison camp.

WORKERS ADVISED ON SECURITY CARDS

Keep Your Records Straight, Murphy Warns.

Joseph R. Murphy, manager of the Atlanta field office of the Social Security Board, urged wage-earners yesterday to safeguard their social security accounts to insure them against the loss of any benefits which might accrue to their credit.

The following suggestions were issued for the guidance of employes:

Keep the name and address of each employer for whom you work, as well as the record of your own wage earnings in every job you hold.

Make your account number known to each and every employer for whom you have worked since the last day of December, 1936.

Your social security account number is your safeguard that your wages will be credited to you and not to someone else with a name like yours.

You should have only one social security account number. If you lose your account card, ask your Social Security Board field office for a duplicate.

If there are any questions, visit, telephone or write Joseph R. Murphy, manager of the Atlanta field office, Social Security Board, Room 321 Ten Forsyth Street building, Atlanta.

AIKEN BACK TAX SUIT GOES TO HIGHEST COURT

The action of G. Seals Aiken, Atlanta lawyer, to break the contract between the state and John Armistead for the collection of back intangible taxes has been appealed to the supreme court, it was revealed yesterday.

The suit, brought in the name of C. P. Aiken in Fulton superior court, was dismissed by the court upon demurrers by the State Revenue Commission, but was carried to the highest court by the attorney. Armistead has a contract which gives him a 20 per cent commission on back ad valorem taxes collected on intangibles.

CLOUDS, LIGHT RAIN PREDICTED FOR TODAY

Mostly cloudy skies will be accompanied by light rain today, Forecaster George W. Mindling predicted yesterday.

A low temperature reading of 40 degrees is expected this morning after yesterday's extremes of 44 and 59 degrees. The weatherman indicated the rain would not last long and that fair skies would probably follow. Atlanta is a part of an extensive area experiencing unsettled weather.

KREML TRAFFIC PLAN WOULD COST $27,200

Plans for conferences with Police Chief M. A. Hornsby before making recommendations concerning the Evanston traffic system were revealed yesterday by Mayor Hartsfield.

The mayor's announcement followed a letter from Lieutenant Frank Kreml, who established the Evanston system here two years ago, stating a $27,200 expenditure would be required to carry out recommendations made by traffic engineers.

Mayor Hartsfield said he would confer with Chief Hornsby before asking Kreml to return to Atlanta to discuss the traffic system with the city council.

DISMISSED OFFICER SEEKS NEW TRIAL

Says He Did Not Receive Fair Hearing.

S. L. Gurley, Atlanta policeman recently dismissed from the force, filed suit yesterday in Fulton superior court against members of the city police committee asking a new trial on his discharge.

The petition for a mandamus to force the committee to rehear his case stated he was discharged without a fair trial as required under civil service law.

Gurley alleged he was dismissed because he did not come back from a leave of absence he had taken because of illness, and that he received first notice of his trial when he returned to work.

GEORGIAN IS ELECTED TO GEOLOGY SOCIETY

Richard W. Smith, state geologist, has been elected to corresponding membership in the Geological Society of Washington, according to an announcement made yesterday by H. D. Miner, president of the Washington organization.

Dr. Smith has for many years made a close study of the geological formations of Georgia, and results of his research have gone far toward keeping Georgia in the forefront of the mineral producing states of the Union.

$74,000,000 SLASH IN SOCIAL SECURITY, TVA FUNDS SOUGHT

(Copyright, 1937, by United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—The budget bureau, with President Roosevelt's tacit approval, has asked congress to slash $74,000,000 from appropriations for the Social Security Board and the Tennessee Valley Authority for the next fiscal year, it was learned tonight.

This new step in the chief executive's uncompromising budget-balancing campaign was revealed after disclosure that the $350,000,000 Civilian Conservation Corps appropriation may be cut by $123,800,000, necessitating the scrapping of 404 camps and sharply reducing enrollment personnel.

With few exceptions, Mr. Roosevelt is riding rough-shod over departmental heads who are demanding appropriations which both the White House and the Budget Bureau insist can be cut. This was evidenced in both the social security and TVA estimates.

The Social Security Board asked the Budget Bureau for $397,000,000. This was slashed to $329,000,000, a reduction of $68,000,000.

The TVA—the administration's controversial power rate yardstick—asked for $46,000,000 originally, but revised it to $42,000,000.

The Budget Bureau sliced off another $2,000,000 and sent congress a $40,000,000 estimate.

AZA DINNER-DANCE TO END CONVENTION

H. A. Alexander, a Founder of Atlanta Chapter, Will Speak.

H. A. Alexander, a founder of the Atlanta chapter of Aleph Zadik Aleph, of the Junior B'nai B'rith, will address the southern regional tournament of the group tonight at the closing meeting of a three-day session.

The meeting will be a formal dinner-dance, it was announced yesterday. The AZA chapter winning the largest number of points in tournament competition in debating, oratory and basketball held this week, will be awarded the Alexander-Triest trophy. Arthur Gottesman will make the presentation.

The Augusta debating team, represented by Harry Popkin and Perry Smolen, will meet the Charleston team, of Arnold Prystowsky and Max Zucker, this morning in the last debate concerning the British Royal Commission's report recommending partitioning of Palestine.

Irvin Daitch, of Augusta, yesterday was announced winner of the oratorical contest held Monday night on "Jewish Contribution to Democracy." Second place went to Dave Baker, of Columbia, South Carolina.

Officials Open New Trackless Trolley Link

Constitution Staff Photos—Roton.

Scenes and Lines Of 'The Women' Given Approval

"The Women," famous Broadway play which opened last night at the Erlanger theater, is a liberal education in the ways of the female of the species and the coed class which attended the opening lesson last night probably graduated with honors.

The cast of entirely female "instructors" took six or eight curtain calls as the audience clamored for a post-graduate course.

Atlantans laughed loud and long at the ribaldry of Clare Booth's hit show that tells a dramatic story of love and divorce and love again in a most engaging manner.

With news of its lines and scenes arriving before, some Atlantan asked that the show be reviewed by the Atlanta police department and two policewomen were in attendance last night. Both said "the show is swell," and declared it had their approval.

Lois Wilson, motion picture star and a former resident of Birmingham, had the leading role. Despite a heavy cold, she was both clever and appealing.

The cast is made up of 30 women and every one did excellently last night, with too many for listing doing exceptionally well. Outstanding were Alice Buchanan, Celeste Holm, Emily Smiley, Emily Ross and Doris Packer.

Any adult male (or female, for that matter) who misses "The Women" at one of its showings today will miss a treat, as this play puts the spotlight on that side of women which men point out but women deny. In other words, it tells one what women say and think behind the scenes.

There's a matinee and performance tonight.

SAMUEL R. KIRTON, ARCHITECT, IS DEAD

WAYCROSS, Ga., Dec. 28.—Samuel R. Kirton, 70, architect and civil engineer, serving his second term as Ware county surveyor, died at his home in Emerson Park yesterday, after an illness of several weeks.

He had a wide and varied experience as an architect and engineer. He designed the Union station in Montgomery, Ala., and assisted in designing and superintending the construction of the Union station in Atlanta.

Funeral services were held this morning at the chapel of W. L. Hinson & Company, conducted by the Rev. John S. Sharp, pastor of Trinity Methodist church. Burial was at the family burial ground at Homerville.

TRACKLESS TRAMS RUN TO HAPEVILLE

Trolleys Will Operate on Six-Minute Headway to Atlanta.

A new trackless trolley sped silently over a new two-mile highway into Hapeville yesterday on a trial run inaugurating service between Atlanta, East Point and Hapeville.

Officials of Hapeville, East Point, Fulton county and the Georgia Power Company rode from the center of Atlanta to the heart of Hapeville on the maiden trip.

Opening of the new link—recently named Willingham drive in memory of the late Baynard Willingham—marks completion of trackless trolley service for East Point, Hapeville and College Park.

Operator H. F. Landrum, who piloted the last street car over tracks from East Point to Hapeville June 25, drove the trackless trolley yesterday.

Since street cars were abandoned last summer, Hapeville residents have had to transfer from trackless trolleys at East Point to gasoline buses for a round-trip on to Hapeville.

Hapeville's Mayor J. Raymond Cathy accepted the trackless trolley service yesterday from power company officials at brief ceremonies in Hapeville.

Trackless trolley service, beginning this morning, will run at intervals of six minutes from Atlanta to Hapeville by way of Lee street, the East Point underpass and Willingham drive, into Hapeville, returning over the same route.

RAVEL, COMPOSER, 62, DIES IN PARIS

PARIS, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Maurice Ravel, France's most celebrated modern composer whose works included the widely known "Bolero," died today at the age of 62.

Death was caused by a cerebral hemorrhage after he had undergone grave head surgery. The musician had been failing in health for years.

The musician, a bachelor, passed his last years virtually alone at his home, west of Paris, declining to be decorated by the government and plunged into despair by the illness which cut short his career.

In addition to "Bolero," his best known works included "Jeux d'Eau" and "Miroirs," piano compositions; "Quatuor en Fa;" the symphonic "Rhapsodie Espagnole," and "La Valse;" the ballet "Daphnis et Chloe;" "Scheherazade," and a late piano concerto.

Ravel was born March 7, 1875, at Ciboure, France. He studied composition, harmony and pianoforte at the National Conservatory in Paris.

Death occurred in a private hospital. Tonight a line of mourners filed past the bier in the chapel of the hospital where the body was placed pending arrangements for the funeral by Ravel's brother, Edouard.

MRS. J. T. J. LIPSEY DIES; BAPTIST EDITOR'S WIFE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 28.—(AP) Mrs. Julia Toy Johnson Lipsey, 70, wife of Dr. P. I. Lipsey, editor of the Baptist Record, died at the Memphis clinic today to which she was admitted for treatment several days ago.

Mrs. Lipsey was the mother of Dr. James Lipsey, Memphis, and P. I. Lipsey Jr., professor of journalism at Stetson College, Deland, Fla. The body will be sent to her home at Clinton, Miss., for burial.

POWERS HINT LOANS TO IL DUCE, HITLER

Credits Without Political or Military Promises Considered.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—(UP)—Britain, France and Belgium were understood tonight to be engaged in diplomatic discussions over proposals to grant credits to Germany and Italy without exacting political and military guarantees.

The discussions were understood to be based on the main points of the economic report of Paul Van Zeeland, former Belgian premier, who will arrive in London in a few days to outline his proposal for an international economic commission.

Whisky and 'Helper' Are Seized at Jail

The shadow of Dawson county's jail and courthouse failed to shield Thomas E. Cooper, 23, of 550 Venable street, from the penetrating eyes of agents of the federal alcohol tax unit.

Arrested during the seizure of 144 gallons of nontax-paid whisky within 50 yards of the courthouse in Dawsonville, Cooper yesterday was held for grand jury investigation under $500 bond after a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith.

Federal officers said Cooper was arrested as he aided in the transfer of the whisky from one automobile to another. He denied the liquor belonged to him, declaring that he was only working as "a helper."

'KILL HIM!' SHOUTED AT ALLEGED SLAYER

Man Who Police Say Drove Car Over Girl Causes Court Uproar.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 28.—(AP) Spectators and relatives of slightly-built Vincent Franco and of the girl whom police say he killed because she rejected his proposal of marriage, caused a courtroom uproar today at Franco's arraignment on a charge of murder.

A brother and uncle of the slain Antoinette Imperiale, 22, over whose body police said Franco drove his automobile Sunday after shooting her twice, swung at the 26-year-old factory worker; relatives of the prisoner encouraged him to "Be brave, Vincent, be brave," and women spectators shouted, "Kill him, kill him."

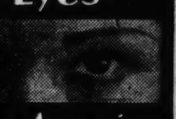

Short-lived as it was—it lasted less than a minute before guards, acting on emergency orders from Judge Seymour Klein, cleared the room except for kin of Franco and Miss Imperiale—the dramatic scene surprised authorities because precautions had been taken against just such a demonstration.

When the proceedings resumed, Franco pleaded innocent and was held without bail for the grand jury.

ATLANTA, GA., DECEMBER 29, 1937.

INTERNATIONAL TRADE PACTS

Secretary of State Cordell Hull will devote his chief attention during 1938, providing no untoward developments in international affairs divert his program, to negotiations for more trade agreements between the United States and other countries.

Since inauguration of these efforts in 1934 such agreements have been reached with 16 nations and, if the discussions already slated for 1938 prove successful, the number will mount to 21. Such a consummation would mean that approximately half the foreign trade of the United States would be conducted under these treaties.

Observers with understanding of the large part that international trade plays in determining the relationships between different nations believe that Secretary Hull, through these trade treaties, has done more to advance the cause of world peace than any other man of his day.

Practically all national rivalries and national friction arise from the need of each nation for sources of raw material and for markets for its products. Artificial barriers to the free flow of world trade, such as prohibitively high tariffs, embargoes, etc., act as potent irritants between nations. Countries dependent upon others for the necessities of life, nations with large surplus populations which are barred from their natural markets, turn to arms to take what they cannot secure by peaceful means. Thus originate such ruthless national adventures as the Italian seizure of Ethiopia and the Japanese attack upon China.

Chief among the trade agreements now under way through Secretary Hull's department is that between the United States and Great Britain. While there is not even remote danger of war-producing friction between the two great English-speaking democracies, a lowering of the tariff barriers on many articles produced by each nation, and needed by the other, will draw the two even closer together in friendship and will add to the prosperity of all business of them both.

If Britain, through such a treaty, is enabled to ship more goods to this country and thus build up her commercial credits here, payment of the overdue war debts to America will become economically possible. Lack of such credits, combined with the concentration of gold in this country, have thus far made payments on that debt impossible. Despite the shallow arguments of people unfamiliar with the laws of international finance, it is this high-tariff induced disability that has prevented payment of the debt, rather than lack of desire to pay by the debtor nation.

Every trade agreement negotiated by Secretary Hull encourages freer flow of trade through the channels of international commerce. And, as world trade thus increases, prosperity among all people becomes more uniform, rivalries grow fainter and the cause of world peace is advanced.

NEW GROWTH FOR ATLANTA

During 1937, new factories, distributing sales or executive organizations to the number of 132 were established in Atlanta. These companies employ 1,014 persons with an annual pay roll of $1,525,000. In addition to these, 87 resident representatives of national companies came to Atlanta to establish their southeastern headquarters.

Atlanta thus marches steadily on in her position as the greatest city of the southeastern section of the nation. Year by year the city absorbs more important enterprises, adds thousands to the roster of its wage and salary earners and attracts millions in new dollars to be spent in its stores.

Atlanta is a far greater industrial center than many who live here realize. Hundreds of busy factories dot the city and encircle its boundaries. A wide variety of products pour from these factories and are sent all over the country and, many of them, to distant lands. The very diversity of local manufacturing interests is assurance of the permanence and stability of the city's prosperity.

The new factories, the 132 which came in 1937, have been absorbed, almost unnoticed, into the city life. Their executives have taken their places among the civic workers for the good of the city, their people have established homes here, have become valued members of the churches and other organizations and their children already regard themselves as truly Georgians as all the other youngsters they meet in school.

The result of this new population is reflected in increased retail trade, in record post office receipts and in the mounting figures of the bank clearings of the city.

The addition of these industries and the new population demonstrates, once again, the quiet but effective work being done by the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce. It was through the efforts of the industrial bureau of that organization that most of these new industries and citizens were first informed of the advantages of this city as a site for their activities, and it is through that same bureau that many more new companies will be brought to Atlanta in the year so soon to begin.

GOOD WORK BY POLICE

During the Christmas week, while traffic upon Atlanta streets reached proportions greater than for any like period of the year, observant citizens noticed one outstanding improvement in public service. That was the work of the police. Not for many years has the Atlanta police department met the problems of the Yule season so efficiently and competently as this year.

Traffic was directed with proficiency. The traffic squad worked untiringly, night and day, and the result was noticeable in the rarity of snarls of automobiles and the reduction in time required to drive through downtown Atlanta. At every important corner the officers were fully on the job, combining quiet insistence with real helpfulness and making the problems of the crowded streets less onerous for drivers and pedestrians alike by their practically unfailing courtesy.

The entire police department should share in general public appreciation for their work during the holiday season. It is many years since Atlanta has enjoyed such freedom from the peculations of the pickpocket and the ravages of the sneak thief, burglar or yegg man. The record of the week shows but few robberies or crimes of violence and the effect of good police work was reflected in the comparatively few arrests made necessary for drunkenness or other disturbances of the peace.

The department has shown an improvement in method, in efficiency and in effectiveness that has been noticeable for months, but it reached its peak during the holiday season.

Chief Hornsby and his men have every reason to feel proud of the service they are rendering to Atlanta and all her citizens.

INTELLIGENT OPTIMISM

The business outlook for the nation, as the final week of the year gives time for careful analysis, is revealed as brighter today than it has been at any time during the past three months. There are definite indications that the recession, which has been noticeable in the north and east though the south has, almost entirely, escaped, is about over and that the upward turn may be expected with the new year.

The Guaranty Survey, publication of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, gives a conservative summary of the situation. In view of the known restraint always apparent in this Survey, the generally optimistic tone carries much more weight than similar statements from some other sources would hold.

"Many believe," says the Survey, "that there is nothing of a purely economic nature apparent at present to suggest that we are entering a depression."

There are three main problems, the Survey states, which "must be solved before business may regard the longer-term future with assurance."

These problems are listed as the need for a long-range plan of relief expenditure, with a view toward cutting waste; a definite plan for balancing the national budget and reducing the public debt and a solution to the labor problem.

Business, says the Survey, can work out its own problems, provided no untoward developments, such as additional legislative handicaps or intensification of the international political uncertainty, come to interrupt all planning.

The Survey is conservatively optimistic. Encouragement from such a source and with such careful consideration of all angles is worth much more than a mere statement of confidence based upon nothing more than the wish of a comparatively uninformed spokesman.

THE INCONSIDERATE SHRIMP

The United States Bureau of Fisheries has launched an investigation into what can only be described as a crustacean conspiracy against the welfare and prosperity of the nation.

It is revealed that, with the coming of cold weather, all the larger shrimp in the Gulf of Mexico habitually disappear, leaving only the smaller varieties to fill the nets of the fishermen. This, of course, sharply reduces the profits of the shrimp industry and is, to say the least, inconsiderate of the larger shrimp. It indicates a reprehensible and to be condemned indifference for the economic well-being of the nation which, surely, no loyal American shrimp should permit.

The trawler Pelican has been assigned to the investigation. It will seek out and follow all clues to the winter hiding place of the shrimp and, it is hoped, will conduct successful negotiations with the crustacea, to induce them to remain within reach of the shrimp nets all year.

It is, indubitably, the duty of all loyal American shrimp to make the pathway from ocean to salad dish as easy and as profitable as possible. Shrimp habits and shrimp preferences must be sublimated to the greater good.

Let us hope that this basic truth can be properly impressed upon the fugitives from the waters of the gulf.

The gay and handsome calendars for '38 all show the customary 12 months. There must be some, then, who feel the planet will pull through.

By an odd coincidence, the shortest days of the year—meteorological and fiscal—fall within a couple of weeks of one another.

A western college outlaws mistletoe lest colds and lagrippe be spread about the campus. But love—achoo—will find a way.

From many points in distraught Europe come cheering reports of unusually low temperatures. Maybe the diplomats will have some thick ice.

Editorial of the Day

IT'S A LOT OF BUNCOMBE

(From the Charleston News and Courier.)

In Washington they talk sobbingly of their earnest purpose of assisting the ill-clad, the ill-housed and the ill-fed. They know all the while that they are harsh on the "underprivileged," for they are sweating them for federal taxes.

In proportion to their income, the poorest in the land pay more taxes than the well-to-do pay, for the federal government has imposed cruel taxes on foodstuffs. The politicians are careful to keep these taxes hidden. It is buncombe to set up that the ill-clad, the ill-housed and the ill-fed have been favored by the taxing powers.

Politicians are also aware that the more they grab from the well-to-do the less there is for charity.

PublicOpposesSpendingProgram

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP,

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Government spending was the key by which the Roosevelt administration attempted to unlock the depression in 1933, but a majority of voters in an Institute of Public Opinion survey oppose new government spending today as a means of checking the recent business slump, as is revealed in this release of "America Speaks."

The Institute conducted tests in every state and among voters in all income groups on the question:

"Do you think the government should start spending again to help get business out of its present slump?"

A majority of 62 per cent answered:

"No, no more spending at this time."

Thirty-eight per cent said:

"Yes, the government should start spending again."

Will Pump-Priming Return?

Actually, of course, the federal government is still spending large sums for relief purposes, but the great bulk of its pump-priming expenditures for public construction has been brought to a halt.

Washington observers are trying to guess what the President proposes to do to halt the slump, in addition to indicating that the administration will make concessions to business in the way of tax reform at the regular session of congress.

Many believe that the White House is waiting to have congress ask for renewed spending rather than initiate it directly. But today's Institute survey indicates that the major pressure on congress is still the pressure for economy and budget-balancing rather than for new spending.

East Leads Demand.

There is more demand for a resumption of spending in the east than elsewhere. Analysis of the Institute's figures shows that 46 per cent of the voters in the area composed of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware and West Virginia think spending should be renewed.

Elsewhere the vote for spending is below 40 per cent, save in the Democratic south.

Start Spending Again?

	Yes	No
New England	39%	61%
Mid-Atlantic	46	54
East Central	36	64
West Central	30	70
South	41	59
Mountain	30	70
Pacific Coast	34	66

Average Man Optimistic.

A survey conducted by the Institute at the end of October revealed that only 26 per cent of the voters thought the stock market crash meant the beginning of a new depression, while a great majority of voters expected better business conditions during the next six months.

Least optimistic in this survey were persons on relief and others at the bottom of the economic pyramid. In today's survey the same groups show the greatest desire for renewed government spending, as the following figures indicate:

Start Spending Again?

Income Group	Yes	No
Better-than-average	19%	81%
Average	30	70
Below average	47	53
Poor	47	53
On Relief	69	31

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES

Mist hangs low o'er the city,
The flag drops down from its mast,
It seems as if heaven, in pity,
Broods on man's foolish past.

To Help the Tubercular.

More than 10,000 out of 34,000 Fultor and DeKalb county residents who received supplies of Christmas seals through the mails this year have not yet responded to that appeal for funds to carry on the local war against tuberculosis.

The fight to aid Atlanta victims of that dread disease, one of the worst in its effects upon its victims, depends chiefly upon funds derived from the annual sale of these Christmas seals, to carry on. Without those funds the work that has been done in the past must be largely undone. The progress that has been made against the feared enemy of health and of life will be lost. And hundreds of helpless men, women and children will be doomed to death, when they might have lived, will face slow months of torture instead of cure for their diseased bodies.

Please, if you haven't yet done so, send in a remittance, large or small, to the Atlanta Tuberculosis Association, in acknowledgement of the seals you received and as your share in this most important work for the benefit of us all.

For, remember, tuberculosis is a contagious disease and everything done to check its ravages and spread, is done for you and for me and for all of us.

Canine Horrors At Christmastime.

City ordinances against shooting of fireworks are not effective at our suburban home in Decatur. So there was, as always, quite a lot of banging and exploding going on in the neighborhood last week.

Bootsie, the family poodle, was nearly driven insane. For she is a terrible coward about sudden noise. I've seen her, many a time, run quivering into the darkest available corner because of a backfiring motor on the highway, a block away.

She spent four or five days around Christmas cowering in the shoe closet, under the refrigerator or in the corner of a bedroom. She practically refused food and, when it came to putting her outdoors, there was no more of the eager readiness for a final dash around the lot. It was necessary to grab her and push her through the door, then close it quickly before she could squeeze in again. For the out-of-doors was a terrible, noise-ridden place, full of exploding dangers for a little dog, don't you know?

We All Felt Sorry.

We all felt sorry for her, but what could we do? We think, just as decent humans, that firecrackers are altogether unsuitable for celebrating the birthday of the Prince of Peace. But, apparently, others don't feel the same way about it.

And Bootsie could not be made to understand that there was no real danger. She heard the noise and that was enough. Perhaps the concussions do bring pain to her eardrums, you know. For they say a dog's ears are far more sensitive than ours.

Even the example of Spookie, the black cat, was useless. Spookie went about his calm and dignified way, with habits unchanged and fur unruffled. He looked, as always, as though his thoughts are far above those of these strange, fussy creatures called humans. But don't cats always look that way?

I hope, for Bootsie's sake, that the firecracker period is over, at least until the Fourth of July.

Then, I suppose, there'll be new agonies for a small dog and a new pre-empting of the shoe cupboard.

Lighted Trees Lovelier Than Ever.

I thought Atlanta's lighted trees and homes for Christmas more beautiful this year than ever.

It is a lovely custom, anyway. And, as I drive along the residential streets and see display after display, I think of the time, just a few years ago, when The Constitution and the Camp Fire Girls used to plead, every Christmas, with Atlantans to adopt the "lighted living tree" habit. It was slow going for a year or two, but finally we put the idea across. And now it is almost universal in the city.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From The Constitution of Sunday, December 29, 1912:

"Entry blanks are out for the annual Mardi Gras road races, which will be held in New Orleans on February 1. Entries from all over the south will probably be received."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From The Constitution of Thursday, December 29, 1887:

"The Atlanta and Florida railroad was practically opened yesterday. At 7 o'clock the first passenger train passed over the road from Atlanta to Fayetteville, the terminus of the first division of the road."

CHRISTMAS POEMS.

I have enjoyed the Christmas poems this year. I took down a number of the treasured volumes of poetry the other night and read them again, especially the Christmas poems. The Oxford Book of English Verse, the Chief American Poets, the Poets and Their Theology, From Milton to Tennyson, the World's Great Religious Poets, etc., etc. And then I browsed through a stack of current magazines and literary supplements to catch the note of the contemporary writers of verse. I was delighted with what these poets of today are saying. Poets have a way of telling us the truth, if only we will stop and listen. Here, for example, is one of the very best Christmas poems I have anywhere found, appearing on the front cover of last week's Christian Index:

This Is the Night.

This is the night that a Star should shine
As it did at the Christ Child's birth,
To light the path and guide the way
Of the questing feet of earth.
But the eye of man looks up tonight
As war lights search the air,
And marching feet are straightway led
By its sudden, fleeting glare.

This is the night that a Song should swell
From a joyous, heavenly throng.
Its melody sweet to the lonely heart—
With Peace the theme of the song.
But the ear of men is deaf tonight
To all save the shrill, hard cry
Of bursting bombs, and human walls
That mingle their shrieks—and die.

This is the night that Love should reign
As it did when Christ was born,
To hallow the ways of striving man
And brighten the promise of morn.
But the heart of man is shut tonight
And the voice of love is vain,
For the heart of man is filled with strife,
And death comes down like rain.

Farmers' Alliance.

In 1889 farmers and factory workers joined the first time in a radical national class political movement. The Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union and Knights of Labor met in St. Louis and adopted a platform demanding free coinage of silver, abolition of national banks, issue of legal tender treasury notes, prohibition of land ownership by aliens, and prohibition of dealing in agricultural and mechanical production futures.

FAIR ENOUGH

Japanese Back Up

NEW YORK, Dec. 28. A lot of us have been talking about the weather since the Japanese sank the Panay in recognition of the fact that the President has stood up to one of the most reckless and notorious guys in the world and said, in not much different words, "one more move out of you and somebody is going to the hospital," everybody was reaching for a chair leg or a half-brick just in case, and everybody will be relieved now to see that he has made the Japanese back away.

The President's Chicago speech about the dictators and the idea of a quarantine around the crazy countries was a different matter. In that case he was just sounding off. His remarks didn't commit the nation, and he soon discovered that he had overspoken himself, for public opinion didn't go along with him.

But when the President puts a direct challenge in writing the situation becomes grim, and in his affair with the Japanese he was so dead right and the Japanese were so dead wrong that it would have been a serious disservice to give the Japanese ambassador any ground for reporting back to Tokyo that he was speaking only for himself, or at least for a country which wouldn't back him up.

But now that that is over, how about examining the conditions which led to the trouble? How come we to have a naval station and warships and soldiers and marines in a country which is supposed to be a competent nation and friendly to us? Would we permit the British and Germans, the Japanese, Italians and Chinese to divide up New York into little outposts of their respective nations, each with a garrison, and to keep naval vessels in the Hudson river to protect their interests? And if we did, wouldn't that be an admission that we weren't sovereign in our own country? And isn't it one of the facts of life that any country which can't take its own part or doesn't join a gang for protective purposes and make at least an effort to be a nation eventually gets taken over by one that can and does?

Great Reform

The Japanese are poor, but proud and ambitious, and seeing a great spread of geography going to waste close to their own country, have decided to take China for the same reasons that the British took over everything that wasn't nailed down, the same reason that Mussolini took Abyssinia and the same reason that we took this country from the Indians. After the big war the successful musclers decided that it would be a nice thing, now that they had all they could use, for everybody to turn square and agree not to do that any more, not forgetting, however, to swipe the colonies which the Germans had stolen in the same way, as a prior condition to the great reform. It is a common practice. Rockefeller didn't turn philanthropist until he had more than he could use or even count.

It isn't nice of Japan to steal other countries, but that is what she is doing, and we know it, and when we read of a land whose people for centuries have been unable to raise enough food to avert periodic famines and whose government is just banditry we have to recognize the temptation to the Japanese.

Apathetic Chinese

China has allowed her franchise to lapse, and the Japanese obviously think that once they get beyond the war phase and move in they will be able to establish government and exploit the people in the same way that the British exploit their colonial subjects. There need be no nonsense about any intention on their part to improve the condition of the Chinese for the sake of the Chinese, but any government at all would be an improvement on the chaos which we read about as characteristic of China.

There comes the question whether, after the Japanese have mopped up, they will apply the squeeze and move us out of the business field in China, and that, in fact, is the question which we are avoiding now while kidding ourselves with sentimental objections to the conquest. It is concealed in the Panay correspondence, but it isn't settled, and it will one day come to a matter of whether we and the British can work ourselves up to fighting pitch over our trade interests.

Meanwhile, the Japanese are going right ahead with the intention, once they have consolidated their position, of having their Chinese Charlie McCarthy advise us that a stable, able and responsible Chinese government now exists, and will we be good enough to get the hell out of their country with our warships, soldiers and marines unless we want to back them up with the full military strength of the U. S. A.

Weather Becomes an Interesting Subject If the Speaker Is a Weather Man

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Since time out of mind, the authorities who lay down the law concerning good manners have forbidden any mention of personal afflictions, the weather and "shop" in polite conversation.

Since the first purpose of polite conversation is to provide mild entertainment without straining the intellect, this prohibition may be wise and useful; but any conversation that doesn't include "shop talk" is likely to be dull and unprofitable.

Some days ago an English short-wave broadcast included a talk by a London taxi driver. Would you say, off-hand, that the taxi driver's job is interesting enough to justify broadcasting a discussion of it?

Well, it is when a taxi driver does the talking. And so it every other man's job.

A dull person can make any subject dull, but ordinary run-of-mill people, who are neither dull nor brilliant, provide excellent entertainment when they talk about their jobs.

Of course, the truth of this statement depends on the taste and capacity of the audience. As pearls are wasted on swine, so the best of "shop talk" will bore people who don't care how the other half lives and have no wish to learn anything.

The idea that any person is most interesting when he talks about his job is based on a sound principle of salesmanship. As a salesman is most convincing when he believes what he says, so another person is most interesting when he himself is interested. And since the subject most interesting to each of us is himself and his affairs, he must be at his best when he talks about his job.

Kipling, in his autobiography, tells how he got the better part of his education by listening to fellow club members in India, who had the most interesting jobs in the world and talked of little else.

People will talk about their own concerns, in spite of polite rules—if not their work, then their children, servants, employers, possessions, neighbors and mishaps. And if they must talk about themselves in any case, it seems rather absurd to leave out the part that is most interesting.

If you mustn't eat meat on Friday, there is no virtue in eating cheap hamburger and denying yourself a good steak.

WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

U. S.-Japanese Crisis.

NEW YORK—Most newspapers agree that the sudden crisis in Nippono-American relations is extremely grave. Some go so far as to say that the tension is quite as serious as in 1917 when a German submarine torpedoed the Lusitania. That the incident of the sinking of the gunboat has not blown over entirely following Japan's humble apologies, and solemn pledges to respect American rights in future, is caused by new reports of eye-witnesses. It is now fairly well established that the bombing of the Panay and the three Standard Oil ships was not an accident.

Japanese officers boarded the American ship a short time before the fatal moment to verify its papers and business. Both were found to be perfectly in order. And yet, not an hour elapsed until shore batteries subjected the Panay to a bombardment, airplanes flew overhead and dropped their deadly loads and sprayed the decks with a shower of machine-gun bullets. All the time the Panay was flying several American flags in addition to having the Stars and Stripes painted on her upper deck and on her bows.

How can an incident of that sort be explained? Obviously, the Tokyo government is genuinely concerned over the affair. The Japanese people as a whole are deeply sorry for the "mistake." Individual Japanese are apologizing to individual Americans all over the far east. The admiral in charge of aerial operations has been recalled, what else can be done to appease an outraged American sentiment?

Responsibility Rests With War Department.

The trouble seems to be that the military chiefs operating in China acted on their own hook. This was indicated first of all by President Roosevelt's request that the Japanese Emperor himself be informed of America's protest and demand for redress. The State Department did not consider the Japanese foreign minister's assurance as sufficient, because the foreign minister has little to do with the running of the war in China. The War Department and the Japanese general staff are solely responsible.

What kind of sentiment is prevailing in those military circles is not difficult to guess. The officers have been carried away by their enormous and easy successes in China and are now in that well-known mood where they fear neither man nor devil. Dosch-Fleurot, the old New York World's correspondent, who accompanied the German armies into Belgium in 1914, told me once of an incident which typically illustrates that frame of mind on the part of the officers in a victorious army.

He was driving along a Belgian road in September, 1914, with an American consular agent in a car which carried an American flag on its hood. Four or five German officers, out for a stroll near Louvain motioned them to halt. One of them took hold of the fanion and said: "See what I do with the Old Glory," and he spat upon it and then throwing it in the mud ground it under his jack-booted heel. Fleurot reported the incident in Brussels to the German Kommandantur and General von Bissing himself apologized. But the very next day another officer did the same thing saying: "We don't care to see you Americans around here. We will go insulting you till you leave or declare war. In the latter case we will give you the trimming of your lives."

These incidents showed the true German sentiment, at least that of the army toward America, even when the Berlin government was expressing deep regret for them.

I myself had a similar experience. At Arleux my platoon captured a German colonel and his staff. I was having a talk with the gentleman. He wanted to know how the war was going. "Well," I lied, "latest reports have it that the U. S. A., Holland, Sweden, Denmark, Norway and Finland have joined the allies against your Fatherland." He laughed outright. "The pig-dogs," he said, "let them all come. Germany will crush them all."

That man had lost his sense of reality and of proportion. And that is exactly the trouble with the Japanese commanders who apparently ordered the bombing of the Panay. They have the "we-don't-care-a-heck" attitude. But that is not the attitude of Tokyo.

Talmudic Tales

By DAVID MORANTZ.

(Based upon the ancient legends and philosophy found in the Talmud and folklore of the Jewish people. From time to time David Morantz will also answer in this column questions he has been asked on the religion, customs, ceremonies, institutions, etcetera, of the Jews.)

QUESTIONS I'VE BEEN ASKED.

What was "Jacob's Staff"?

It was an instrument invented by Levi ben Gerson, a Jew, in 1321, used by all mariners in the middle ages to ascertain their position at sea. He also invented a device, known as camera obscura, for throwing an image on a screen, which device was the basis of the modern camera.

Was Rosa Bonheur, the great animal painter, a Jewess?

Yes, and she was the first woman awarded the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor of France. This was in 1894. She died in 1899.

What is the meaning of the name Judah?

It is from the Hebrew, meaning "Praised."

Is the proverb, "Spare the rod and spoil the child," from the Talmud?

You probably refer to the proverb: "He that spareth his rod hateth his son; but he that loveth him chasteneth him betimes," which is found in Proverbs 13:24.

An attractive 195-page autographed gift volume containing 128 of the Talmudic Tales and 500 Pearls of Wisdom may be ordered from The Constitution, $1.50 postpaid.

BALL WILL LAUNCH SESQUICENTENNIAL PROGRAM SATURDAY

Dance To Be Modeled After Historic Function Staged in 1788.

Georgia's observance of the 150th anniversary of its ratification of the United States constitution will open Saturday night with a ball at the American Legion home in Augusta, which was capitol of the state at the time of ratification—January 2, 1788.

The state celebration, however, begins officially Sunday with a military review, an address by Governor Rivers, a pageant depicting the ratification, and a dinner Sunday night at an Augusta hotel.

Governors Invited.

The ball will be modeled after an entertainment held in the old state capitol in 1788, complimenting members of the special convention which unanimously ratified the federal document.

Invitations to the dance bear copies of the inscription appearing on the invitations to the ball at the statehouse in 1788 when George Matthews was governor of Georgia and John Wereat was president of the convention.

Text of Invitations.

The invitations read: "In honor of delegates to Georgia convention considering the ratification of the proposed constitution of the United States of America. George Matthews, governor of Georgia, and John Wereat, president of convention, request the pleasure of your company on Saturday evening, the first of January, at o'clock, statehouse."

That same program, carried out 150 years ago, will be followed Saturday night. The ball begins at 9 o'clock—8 o'clock Atlanta time—and will be attended by Governor Rivers, members of his staff and visitors to Augusta for the sesquicentennial celebration.

The Richmond Academy R. O. T. C., the 18th battalion, fleet marine corps and Battery "A," 118th artillery of the Georgia national guard from Waynesboro, will take part in the military review.

SILVER PACT MADE BY U. S. AND MEXICO

F. D. R. Promises Statement on Buying Policy Before Midnight Friday.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—A temporary silver agreement with Mexico indicated tonight that the United States might continue to collaborate with other nations to buoy the price of the white metal.

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and the Mexican finance minister, Eduardo Suarez, announced after a morning conference that the United States would continue to buy newly mined Mexican silver at a delivered price of 45 cents an ounce through January, and would confer again about longer-range program.

The understanding involved the first definite, international commitment by the United States for any period after the London silver agreement expires Friday night.

President Roosevelt said today there would be a statement before midnight Friday on the government's new silver-purchasing policy.

Man Ends His Silence, Keeps Date Broken With Family 15 Years Ago

Henry Hay, Who Was Scheduled To Attend the Marriage of His Sister in 1923, But Didn't Show Up, Visits Relatives Here.

A date broken 15 years ago was finally kept when Henry Hay, of Louisville, Ky., arrived here yesterday with his wife and their 2-year-old daughter for a reunion with his family.

Smiling, Hay declined to reveal why he failed to attend the wedding of a sister in June, 1923, and why his family had not heard from him.

At the time Hay was scheduled to attend the marriage of his sister, Ola Hay, to C. B. Funderburk, he was living in Nashville. The wedding took place in Dallas, Ga., where the Hay family was living at the time. Shortly after, the Funderburks moved to California.

Hay's mother died, and his father, J. M. Hay, moved to Atlanta.

Meanwhile, the Funderburks returned here from California.

Hay, who had married a month after his sister's wedding, broke the long silence when he sent a telegram to his old home in Dallas a few weeks ago. The message was forwarded to his father here, who telephoned Henry and told him of the death of his mother 12 years ago.

On arrival here, Hay went to the home of Mrs. Funderburk at 486 East Ontario avenue, where the family reunion took place. He told his sister she "hadn't changed a bit and he would have known her anywhere."

His father revealed that Hay's failure to arrive for his sister's wedding in 1923, and the subsequent silence, "worried him a little, but he had an idea the boy was all right."

QUAKE KILLS 25, REPORT.

CERRO DE PASCO, Peru, Dec. 28.—(UP)—Twenty-five persons were reported killed at Huancabamba tonight in an earthquake which rocked this high Andean region. Seventy-five additional victims, dead and injured, were reported without confirmation at Oxapampa.

Pup 'Dead' 8 Hours, Saved in 40-Ft. Well

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 28.—(AP)—The dogged determination of a chow pup and his master was credited today with saving the animal after he had been imprisoned for 10 hours in a 40-foot well.

The dog tumbled into the abandoned well Sunday morning. When efforts by his owner, De Long Rice, and the Humane Society failed to extricate the animal, a rag saturated with chloroform was lowered into the narrow outlet.

Eight hours later Rice still heard the frightened pup whimpering. He made one final attempt. He fastened a coat-hanger to a rope and dropped it down the well. After "fishing" for two hours, Rice felt the hanger catch. He pulled gently on the rope. The chow yelped. A minute later the dog was hoisted out.

The chow was doing nicely today.

G. M. WILL LAY OFF 30,000 JANUARY 1

Other 'Big 3' Auto Manufacturers Also Curtailing Operations.

DETROIT, Dec. 28.—(AP)—General Motors Corporation announced today that because of the "recession in business" approximately 30,000 employes in its automotive plants in the United States would be laid off, effective January 1.

William S. Knudsen, president, who made the announcement, said no plant would be closed completely, and that the workers retained would work a 24-hour, three-day week.

Others of the "big three" of the industry also have curtailed operations. In Chrysler's Detroit plants, which have operated on a four-day, 32-hour work week, assembly lines will be idle until after January 1. Ford sources reported about 40,000 of a normal 87,000 employes are working this week at the huge Dearborn plant. Ford assembly lines are not operating but their resumption is planned tentatively for next week.

Knudsen explained 20,000 General Motors dealers have on hand about 60,000 more cars than at this time last year.

"The used car market is stopped," he said, "and when that is stopped our employment stops."

MAYOR OF DAYTONA IS DANGEROUSLY ILL

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Dec. 28. (UP)—Edward H. Armstrong, Daytona Beach's fighting mayor, whom former Governor Dave Sholtz unsuccessfully tried to oust, was reported critically ill in a hospital here tonight after an "exploratory" operation.

The mayor, subject to heart attacks, also was found to be suffering from gall bladder and liver disorders. He was reported conscious and able to talk to members of his immediate family. Armstrong was re-elected last December 7 by a 6-to-1 majority over Millard B. Conklin, one of the local leaders in the Sholtz attempt to oust the mayor about a year ago.

Letter by Baker On Immortality Read at Funeral

CLEVELAND, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Newton D. Baker's belief in man's immortality, expressed only eight days before his death, was read today at funeral services in Trinity cathedral.

While colors were lowered to half-staff at all United States army posts, services were held for President Wilson's secretary of war.

Bishop Warren Lincoln Rogers, of the Ohio Episcopal diocese, departed from the Episcopal ceremony to read part of a letter Baker wrote to an ailing friend.

"'My mind has adhered to the idea of immortality, and I think the idea has grown more rational as I have grown older,'" Bishop Rogers said. "'I am very sure that God in His wisdom has some plans which perfect our spirits for participation in a higher kind of life.'"

The plain gray casket was buried in Lake View cemetery, near the bodies of President James A. Garfield and John D. Rockefeller.

Scores of Baker's associates in his long public and legal career attended the services, including General J. G. Harbord, chief of staff of the A. E. F. and now chairman of Radio Corporation of America; David Sarnoff, president of RCA, and Bainbridge Colby, secretary of state under Wilson.

Baker, ill nearly a month, died Christmas Day of coronary thrombosis. He was 66.

FLYER FAILS TO SET WORLD SPEED RECORD

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Horace Dodge, of Detroit, made two unsuccessful attempts today to set new world speed records with his 4,300-pound hydroplane Delphine IX and said he would try again Thursday.

Dodge sought to break records for 625 cubic inch, 10 litre and 12 litre classes. On his first attempt, two runs over a mile straightaway, he averaged 77.6 miles an hour, considerably slower than any of the three records. His second attempt was spoiled by motor trouble.

THIRD TERM SEEN FOR SCHOOL HEAD

Re-election of Ed S. Cook as Board of Education President Forecast for Monday.

Ed S. Cook, president of the Atlanta board of education, is slated for re-election for a third term when the board meets for its annual organization Monday afternoon, it was reported yesterday.

Dr. H. J. Penn, veteran member of the board, said yesterday he will nominate Cook and asserted he felt sure other members of the group will support the nomination.

If Cook is re-elected, it will be the first time in 14 years that any president has held that post three consecutive terms.

Mrs. Peterson Considered.

Though no official announcement has been made, politicians at the city hall report Mrs. Z. V. Peterson, second ward board member, has been considered a candidate for the board presidency.

However, it was known that opposition to her election has developed within the board and it was said that this bloc has obtained sufficient strength to prevent her holding the office.

Four votes from the six-man board are necessary to elect the president. In addition to Cook, Penn and Mrs. Peterson, D. F. McClatchey, Ernest Brewer and Mrs. D. R. Longino are members of the city board.

Cook Widely Praised.

Cook, whose work as president has been widely praised by the school administration and by Atlanta newspapers, was first elected president in 1936. He was re-elected in 1937, the first year of the board's operation under the reduction of wards from 13 to six.

Dr. Penn has served as chairman of the finance committee during the past year, and Mrs. Peterson has been chairman of the important buildings and grounds committee. Whether any changes will be made in the committee setup of the board was not known.

CONGRESS INQUIRY INTO TVA BOOMED

Agency's Sponsor, Norris, Says He Won't Object; McNary Favors Probe.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Talk of a congressional investigation of the Tennessee Valley Authority developed today as a result of differences among the agency's three directors.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, the Republican leader, said he favored a broad inquiry and added the senate agriculture committee might want to make it.

From Senator Norris, Independent, Nebraska, came a statement if "enemies" of the TVA wanted an investigation he would not object. Norris is the congressional father of the vast project.

Suggests Three Points.

McNary said there were three points he thought any congressional investigation should cover—friction among the directors, rate-making policies and the litigation between TVA and Senator Berry, Democrat, Tennessee, over marble leases held by Berry and others.

It was the Berry litigation which recently brought into the open differences between the TVA directors.

Chairman A. E. Morgan, of the agency, testified independently in the case, saying the leaseholders had claimed a value for marble on flooded land "as an afterthought."

The two other TVA directors—H. A. Morgan (no relation of A. E.) and David E. Lilienthal—joined in saying the TVA chairman had given testimony with "false and malicious" inference.

"Falsity and Viciousness."

Berry issued a statement accusing A. E. Morgan of "falsity and viciousness."

McNary did not say he would press for an investigation. Other senators generally were reluctant to comment.

Senator Logan, Democrat, Kentucky, said he would "welcome" an investigation "if it is designed to get at the truth. But, if such an investigation is to be merely a device for distributing propaganda, I want no part of it."

Child Bride Receives Final Divorce Decree

WARTBURG, Tenn., Dec. 28. (AP)—Alma Ruffner Honeycutt, 14, became a divorcee today.

The "child bride" received a final divorce decree from Chancellor J. H. Wallace after she informed the court that a reconciliation with her 23-year-old husband, Harold, was an impossibility.

The chancellor gave her full custody of their one-year-old baby and $17.50 per month alimony. The action was not contested.

Santa Gets Stuck In Texas Chimney

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The accident children always fear—that Santa Claus might get stuck in a chimney—happened before their very eyes here.

Santa started down a specially built chimney at a Salvation Army party last night and became wedged in the walls. Frantic attendants finally pulled him down.

A hundred childish faces, lined with dismay, broke into smiles. A disheveled Santa went about the business of distributing his gifts.

Science Can Solve War, Poverty, Farm Authority Tells Association

Travelers Can Speed Along Six and Seven Miles Above Earth at 275 Miles an Hour Within Five Years, Research Flyer Prophesies.

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 28.—(AP) A scientific solution of the problems of war and poverty was suggested today to the American Association for the Advancement of Science by an agricultural expert.

Speaking in the symposium on science and society which the association is conducting this week at its annual meeting, Gove Hambridge, research writer of the United States Department of Agriculture, declared that scientists hold the key to solution of the world's greatest problems if they will apply the same approach used in such fields as medicine, chemistry and astronomy.

Surpluses Cited.

In spite of the advances of science which have created surpluses in agricultural and other goods so that no person or nation should be poverty-stricken, Mr. Hambridge said, there are still many individuals who cannot afford the minimum diet for proper existence and many nations "which sometimes seem to be on the way to smashing civilizations" for lack of food and other materials.

"Science has succeeded," he continued, "in increasing production to the point where there is no longer any need for much of the poverty and suffering that still plague the world, but the relative abundance created by science threatens periodically to ruin us because our social and economic institutions are not equal to distributing it where it is needed."

One example of what can be accomplished by socially-minded institutions in cutting across economic boundaries, Mr. Hambridge added, was the purchase of surplus farm commodities which were holding prices down and distribution of them by the federal government to poverty-stricken families on relief.

275-Mile Speed.

The traveling public will be offered air transportation at altitudes of six and seven miles with speeds of 275 miles an hour and above within the nex five years, D. W. Tomlinson, research flyer, said today in a paper prepared for presentation before the association.

Within two years transport service will be available at heights between four and five miles, he added.

Substratosphere experimental aviator for Transcontinental & Western Air, Tomlinson has been doing research work for the last four years to determine what technical difficulties had to be overcome and what advantages could be obtained at high altitudes.

He predicted: "Regular transport operation at 30,000 to 35,000-foot levels, which will revolutionize long-range, non-stop transcontinental and oceanic flying, will be with us within the next five years.

"Within the next two years great transports, of the type to be put in service at T. W. A. next summer, will be flying between 20,000 and 25,000 feet at altitudes free from fog, storms and turbulent air 95 per cent of the time, the year around."

Pear-shaped stars were described to the association here today as an explanation of one of the great celestial puzzles.

Light Puzzle.

The puzzle has been the fluctuating light of thousands of stars known as cepheid variables. They apparently pulsate, expanding and contracting, acting much like firecrackers. All are giant suns, but so distant from earth that telescopes do not see their details.

Dr. William A. Luby, University of Kansas astronomer, reported that their baffling antics are solved if it is assumed each one has a small, dark star revolving around it. Verified cases of small, satellite stars are common.

The unseen, black companion star, Dr. Luby explained, raises incredibly high tides on the giant "cepheids." The tide flows around and around the big molten sun, its depth millions of miles. The tides are so high they pull the stars out into permanent pear shapes.

GATE WHERE HELEN SAW TROJAN WAR DESCRIBED

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28.—(AP) Discovery of ancient Troy's gate from which Helen watched the Grecian and Trojan heroes in battle 3,000 years ago was described today by Dr. Carl W. Blegen, field director of the University of Cincinnati's archaeological expedition to the site of the famous city in Turkey.

Dr. Blegen told the Archaeological Institute of America at its annual session here that his expedition uncovered massive foundations of walls which surrounded Troy at the time Agamemnon and Ulysses led the Greeks against it. The foundations, found at the northwest side of the city, were approximately 20 feet thick and supported, Dr. Blegen estimated, walls 30 to 40 feet high.

A clearly defined break in the foundations was described as the Scaean gate, through which, Homer recounted, the Trojans went out to battle and where Helen watch the fighting.

Dating back even further than the 3,000-year-old gate, however, was a stele, or stone slab, which Dr. Blegen's expedition discovered this year, the sixth of its excavations. Its age estimated by the archaeologist at almost 5,000 years, the slab has a rough heart-shaped outline of a face cut upon it.

"Discovery of the stele pushes back our knowledge of existence of monumental art about 1,000 years," Dr. Blegen declared.

FOUNTAIN OF DEATH CAN KILL ANIMALS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—A newly developed fountain of death can kill germs, and even small animals, the Society of American Bacteriologists heard today.

The fountain is made by submerging a small quartz crystal in a few gallons of harmless liquid. The liquid is a dielectric, something which will not conduct electricity. The crystal is connected to high frequency electric wires.

When the current is turned on, the crystal vibrates, at the rate of 300,000 to 1,000,000 shivers a second. The vibration causes the liquid to rise above the crystal. It stands in a fountain about two inches above the surrounding surface.

A mouse suspended in this fountain, so that he can breathe, dies in four minutes. Death is caused by the hammering of the tiny liquid vibrations.

An experiment in which sunlight was caught in bottles and turned into solid matter, cold and hard, was reported to the association today by Dr. Earle Augustus Spessard of Hendrix College, Conway, Ark.

Dr. Spessard sealed some algae, common water plants, in tiny glass bottles. They were treated in such a way that he said nothing could get into the bottles to add to the algae's weight.

Some of these bottles were kept in the dark. Others lay daily in sunlight.

At the end of nearly two years the bottles in the dark weighed exactly what they had at the start. But those in the sun had increased in weight.

NEW CHEMICAL USED TO HEAL SERIOUS BURNS

CINCINNATI, Dec. 28.—(AP)—St. Mary's hospital officials disclosed today they had successfully treated 50 persons during the past year with a mysterious new chemical made by injured yeast cells which heals terrific burns quickly and without scars.

They said the chemical also had been used in therapy for malignant infections.

NEW BERLIN ENVOY CAREER DIPLOMAT

Hugh R. Wilson's Nomination Is Expected To Reach Senate Next Week.

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The nomination of Hugh R. Wilson, now assistant secretary of state, to be ambassador to Germany is expected to reach the senate early in the regular session beginning next week.

When he takes his post, all corners of the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo triangle, which bulks largely in the troubled world scene, will have been intrusted to career diplomats rather than political appointees.

Whether this masks a definite policy step by the Roosevelt administration toward ultimately complete reliance on a career foreign service is a matter of speculation.

Most observers attribute the Wilson selection more to decreasing pressure on the White House for political diplomatic plums. They explain that, in the ordinary course, such political jobs could be expected to last only three years because President Roosevelt is serving his second term. The career service, it is said, has made its most notable advances, as a rule, in presidential second terms.

GERMANY KEEPS SILENT AS DODD STARTS HOME

HAMBURG, Germany, Dec. 28. (AP)—William E. Dodd, resigning United States ambassador, quietly awaited a boat back home tonight, departing in a cold silence on the part of Germany.

Leaving Germany more unceremoniously than any other departing American envoy, Dodd and Mrs. Dodd planned to sail tomorrow on the liner Washington.

(His relations with the German government have been strained for some time, especially since last September when he objected to American official representation at the Nazi party congress at Nurnberg).

ICKES IS EXPECTED TO ATTACK CRITICS

Talk on Government, Business Predicted When Secretary Goes on Air.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Signs that the administration would make an aggressive fight against its business critics increased today when it was announced that Secretary Ickes would speak by radio Thursday night on the subject, "It Is Happening Here."

Associates of the sharp-tongued chief of the Interior Department said they expected the address to deal with relations between government and business.

Reminiscent of Novel.

Ickes is scheduled to speak over a coast-to-coast network at 9 p. m., eastern standard time (8 p. m., Atlanta time).

His broadcast will follow by only a few days a speech in which Robert H. Jackson, assistant attorney general, charged that monopolies had caused the business slump by increasing prices excessively.

It may give added significance to recent reports that President Roosevelt, instead of abandoning administration policies, blamed by some business spokesmen for the recession, would make a vigorous fight for completion of his legislative program at the regular session of congress beginning next week.

Reports Spread.

Such reports spread through the capitol after a conference between the President and a group of his senate supporters.

Presidential aides announced today that the President's annual message to congress would be delivered Monday, the first day of the new session. They said it had not been decided whether Mr. Roosevelt would deliver the message in person. However, Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, recently expressed belief that the message would be delivered in person.

FASCIST ORGANIZES RUMANIAN CABINET

Goga Government Believed Move for Dictatorship Under King Carol.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Dec. 28.—(UP)—Octavian Goga, leader of the Fascist national Christian party and an ardent admirer of Adolf Hitler, tonight formed a new government which, it is believed, may lead to a camouflaged dictatorship under King Carol.

Immediately after taking their oaths of office, the new cabinet members went to church and prayed, a new note in Rumanian politics.

The Telecomp News Agency reported that one of Goga's first measures would be regulation of the press and "prohibition, once and forever, of the activities of Jewish-Communist writers."

The government of Goga, who seeks adherence to the German-Italo-Japanese pact against Communism, probably will be a transitional one because he holds only 38 of the 387 seats in the newly elected chamber of deputies.

The monarch empowered Goga to form a cabinet following the resignation earlier in the day of Premier George Tatarescu and the latter's government, which failed to obtain a parliamentary majority in last week's chamber of deputies election. Carol previously had withheld acceptance of Tatarescu's resignation.

Don't take needless risks with COLDS

Relieve their misery this Proved way

WHEN there's a cold to treat—especially if it's a chest cold—that's no time to experiment. Relieve the misery with the treatment that has been doubly proved for you.

Here's What To Do: It's best to stay in bed and get lots of rest. Eat lightly, drink plenty of water, and keep elimination regular. And use your dependable Vicks VapoRub without delay.

VapoRub has been proved by everyday use in more homes than any other medication of its kind—further proved by the largest clinical tests ever made on colds. (Full details in every VapoRub package.) Only Vicks give you proof like this.

No Long Waiting for Relief to Begin... Vicks VapoRub is direct external treatment. No "dosing"—no risk of stomach upsets. You simply massage it on throat, chest, and back (as illustrated). Then—to make its long-continued double action last even longer—spread a thick layer on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth.

Almost before you finish rubbing, you begin to feel warm and comfortable as VapoRub goes to work direct through the skin like a poultice. At the same time its medicated vapors, released by the warmth of the body, are carried direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath.

This double action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation and coughing—helps break up local congestion. And long after you relax into restful sleep, VapoRub keeps right on working—hour after hour.

COMMUNIST REVOLT TO CAPTURE FRANCE CHARGED AT TRIAL

Rightist, Accusing Red Envoy, Declares General Staff Nipped Plot.

PARIS, Dec. 26.—(AP)—The accused chief of a secret Rightist organization today told an investigating magistrate the French army's general staff foiled a Communist revolution which had been planned for mid-November with "support of the Soviet ambassador to France."

Eugene Deloncle made the assertion during the inquiry into activities of the "CSAR"—Comite Secret Action Revolutionnaire—uncovered in a nation-wide series of raids last month.

Warned Chief of Staff.

The naval engineer said he had communicated with Major General Marie Gamelin, chief of the general staff, when he learned of the Communist plots through his agents.

Deloncle testified the Communist attempt to overthrow the government was to break out November 16 with widespread strikes and assassination of members of the government.

He asserted all the details of the abortive Communist revolution were in the files of the army general staff.

On the morning set for the coup d'etat, Deloncle said, the nation was to be paralyzed by simultaneous strikes in the food industries and the public services, such as transportation and communication.

Resemble Revolt Plans.

Deloncle asserted the present strikes in France resembled strategy the Communists had planned for November.

TRAGIC VIEWS OF AFTERMATH OF PANAY SHELLING

Lieutenant L. G. Grazier of the Panay is shown here standing guard and shielding Lieutenant Commander J. J. FIGHT TO FREE CITY OF DEBT PICTURED

Acute Situation.

Result was the situation grew so acute that local banks served notice that unless some drastic change was made in conduct of city finances all further credit would be withdrawn.

That was the situation faced by the administration a year ago. But today the debts are paid, the books are out of the red and drastic changes have been made to insure the city against another such situation.

Operating under a new rigid budget law, the city will be unable to incur a deficit in 1938. Atlanta is the only city in the south that has the new budget law, but Savannah is following suit and is laying plans for doing what Atlanta has done.

"The fault has been in basing our expenditures on anticipated revenue for the coming year," Mayor Hartsfield said.

Change This Year.

"We change this year from an anticipation basis of spending money to a provision whereby we can spend no more than the cash receipts of the prior year. After five years the city can make a budget contemplating only the expenditure of 95 per cent of the cash receipts of the prior year. If more comes in, it can be spent only as received.

"This is a very vital thing to our taxpayers. It means that never again can we run another deficit. If, in spite of the above safeguards, we should exceed our revenue, then that sum must be appropriated the very first thing in the next year's budget. By this means all future deficits will be prevented.

"Next year we must stay very close to shore. It must be remembered we operate under a very rigid budget law.

"The permanent expenses of the city must be held to a minimum. Any extra money should be spent for badly needed repairs and improvements. Let's give the taxpayers a break and spend some money on them where it will result in better service."

Solution of Problem.

But just how has the city surmounted its financial obstacles, inquire. The mayor outlines it simply:

First step was to try to take the hurdles by drastic economies. A 5 per cent salary restoration voted by the outgoing council in the face of a heavy deficit was rescinded. A drastic finance sheet was adopted holding down all departments to a bare operating minimum. A 6 per cent personnel cut in all departments dropped more than 175 employes from city pay rolls.

But it soon became apparent the public would not stand for any material reduction in services. A suggestion that the tubercular sanitarium be abolished was dismissed and the state refused to assume responsibility.

Then, with the public against further retrenchment in municipal services, legislation seeking further revenue was sought. But first the finances of the city were thrown open to the public. Anyone who could suggest a solution, or any organization who had a plan, was invited to come in and lay it before the city.

The two burdens to overcome were the 10-year relief certificates representing $1,300,000 due and the floating deficit which continually called for issuance of scrip at 3 per cent interest rates.

Consults Taxpayers.

Groups of taxpayers were called in, leading bankers, businessmen, real estate men, organized labor—the mayor decided to take all Atlanta into his confidence. To them he said:

"Tell us how we can continue to operate and retire the deficit on the present sources of revenue. Here are our present sources of revenue and here are the minimum demands of our departments—tell us how we can do it."

Result was a plan worked out by the city and various citizens' committees.

Relief was financed by a special one-mill tax. The city was allowed to charge more for its sanitary service, and certain waterworks improvements are being financed by an increase in the rate and allocation by law of 10 per cent of all water receipts for improvements.

The deficit was taken care of by allocation of another special one-mill tax levy for a period of five years.

A constitutional amendment was obtained authorizing Atlanta to fund and retire the deficit with five-year certificates of indebtedness.

Another constitutional amendment authorized the city to refund as much as $2,000,000 of its outstanding bonds. This took care of the relief certificates, $1,200,000 at refunding time, and left $800,000 to take up slack between anticipations and actual cash received during the year.

Go on Cash Basis.

"This allows us to go on a cash basis next year," Mayor Hartsfield said.

But still a third constitutional amendment clarified the city's borrowing power and authorized the city to borrow as much as 50 per cent of the ad valorem tax revenue each year, to be repaid that year.

And here's the effect of those measures:

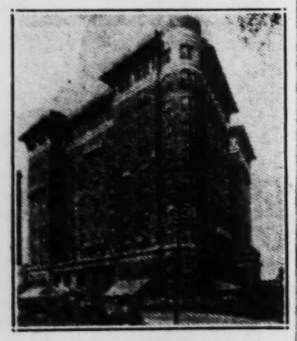

1. Relief funds were obtained by appropriation of current revenue through the one-mill tax.

2. Waterworks improvements were put on a five-year "pay as you go" plan.

3. Relief certificates were refunded on a 30-year basis at a low rate of interest.

4. The deficit was taken care of with the one-mill tax and the funding operation. Result: all bills paid up and the debt out of the way.

5. The city's borrowing power was clear and it's now possible for Atlanta to get lowest interest rates in any money market.

5 and 10 Chains Boycott Goods Made in Japan

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Two of the nation's largest five and ten-cent store chains—the F. W. Woolworth Company and the S. S. Kresge Company—disclosed today their withdrawal from the market for Japanese-made goods.

"Our policy is to buy only merchandise that is acceptable to the public," R. R. Williams, vice president in charge of merchandising for the Kresge Company, said in Detroit.

T. J. Mullin, assistant to the president of the Woolworth chain, said here the Far Eastern war was responsible for his company's stand.

"What we have left on our counters was bought and paid for months before the outbreak of the war," Mullin said, adding his company purchased from Japan only those articles not readily obtainable on the American market. These, he said, were not more than 1 per cent of total purchases.

Williams said merchandise his chain bought for the holiday trade was ordered and paid for as far back as last January.

Some importers handling Japanese business said there had been a noticeable decline in imports of Japanese novelties.

An executive of one importing firm said he had noticed a "tremendous" decline.

Department stores handling the higher priced goods reported no let-down in sales of Japanese goods.

An official of one Fifth avenue establishment where silk stockings can be bought for $1.98 to $50 the pair, said:

"If it wasn't for Japan we couldn't have silk, for she is the chief source of the world supply.

"We have been approached on the question of a ban against Japanese products, but I'm afraid our American women would never reach the point where they'd stop wearing silk stockings."

BRITISH PLANE TESTS SYDNEY, AUCKLAND RUN

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The British flying boat Centaurus, of Imperial Airways, landed here today after flying 1,300 miles across the Tasman sea from Sydney, Australia, in eight hours.

Local officials gave the airmen an enthusiastic welcome.

bell would "go somewhere for a rest."

Coroner J. C. Henshaw said all witnesses "stated that the shooting was accidental." He disclosed also "a statement was made by Mrs. Campbell before she expired that it was an accident."

Miss Campbell testified, her attorney said, that she shot at a Christmas candle "to attract attention." Her revolver discharged into Mrs. Campbell's abdomen when she sought to grab the gun, Hodge recounted. The girl had drunk some "eggnog and possibly a beer."

Receives Clothing.

The only other witnesses, Miss Campbell's sister, Mrs. Uretta Bronch, and Lucius Cochran, a family friend, took a package of clothing to the jail just before she was freed.

The attractive, blonde girl, described by friends as "unnerved" by the events which marred the family's holiday, left through a mist fast turning into rain.

At the mausoleum, the Rev. S. J. Purvis, of a Youngstown Presbyterian church, read from Scripture. Hodge and Albert Williams, of Chicago, a close friend of Miss Campbell, were the only persons present except the family and old servants.

Even some intimate friends had not been advised when the services were to be held. Several plainclothesmen were stationed at the cemetery.

JUDGE LECTURES OIL CASE LAWYERS

Says Conduct Resembles 'A Saloon Brawl.'

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 28.—(AP) In a stormy session of federal court today, Judge Patrick T. Stone refused to declare a mistrial in the federal government's gasoline price-fixing case and lectured attorneys for conduct which he said resembled "a saloon brawl."

Much of the session—first following a Christmas recess—had been consumed by running arguments between Colonel William J. Donovan, chief defense counsel, and the government prosecutors.

Judge Stone said he perhaps had been too lenient and asserted he would hold a "tight rein" on proceedings henceforth.

ONLY TWO LABORITES GET JOBS WITH DEWEY

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Thomas E. Dewey, elected Manhattan's district attorney by a Republican-American Labor party coalition, in a series of appointments today gave laborites but two of 14 posts in his office, indicating its personnel would be heavily Republican.

Dewey, himself a Republican, chose 10 Republicans and one Democrat as assistants. In three previous appointments to key jobs, he had selected two registered Republicans with a third having no announced regular party affiliation.

been made to silence short-wave radio appeals from the buildings calling on Generalissimo Francisco Franco for aid.

INSURGENTS ATTACK IN RESCUE ATTEMPT

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Spanish Insurgent troops tonight stormed the heights dominating Teruel in a determined drive to retake the captured provincial capital and rescue a force of beleaguered comrades.

They had orders from Generalissimo Francisco Franco to win back the city, strategic point on the eastern front, "regardless of cost."

Insurgent dispatches said government forces had been compelled to abandon recentiy-won territory northwest of Teruel following terrific infantry and artillery battle initiated by a reinforced Insurgent army.

DELBOS REFUSES TO DENY MINORCA OCCUPIED

PARIS, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos declined today to deny "rumors" in the French senate that a division of French troops had landed on the Island of Minorca, last Balearic stronghold of the Spanish government in the Mediterranean.

Delbos only said, "I protest against the allegations."

Leftist leaders have declared Italy plans to hold permanently the near-by Spanish islands of Mallorca and Iviza.

explaining she had been despondent and in poor health since suffering body burns at her home several months ago.

Brown said Mrs. Gowan still was alive when Dr. Alfred Farrar, of Shelbyville, arrived, but that she died shortly afterward.

He added he planned no investigation of the incident.

Brown said the Gowans had been living in this section for many years and were among the leading citizens of the community.

Bodies in Bed.

The bodies of the children were in a bed alongside Mrs. Gowan, who had pulled the bed covers over her head.

Gowan said he left the house about 4 o'clock and was gone only a short while before returning to discover the bodies.

Brown said that the family had been staying recently with the husband's father, Finn Gowan, also a farmer, who lived near by and that Mrs. Gowan had insisted early this afternoon on returning to her own house.

GUESTS FLEE HOTEL IN MISSISSIPPI FIRE

TUPELO, Miss., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Guests fled in scanty attire early today when fire virtually destroyed the Southern hotel. Estimates of the loss ran as high as $75,000.

Several guests had narrow escapes. A young woman was rescued from the roof, clad only in a jacket she had been able to grab before flames and smoke forced her from her room.

Dangerous Weather Delays Films Of Panay Attack on Flight to East

ing of the film, insured for $350,000. Prints will be sped to the State Department at Washington, D. C., and to every corner of the nation for public showing.

"There was no possible chance," Alley declared here, that Japanese pilots mistook the Panay for a ship of other than American registry. "The colors were painted on the deck and a flag was flying from the mast," he said. "The planes power-dived toward us and let loose with bombs and machine guns."

"Both lifeboats from the Panay, which were machine-gunned, showed American flags," he said.

Fly Over Gunboat.

Three observation planes first flew over the gunboat, Alley related. These were followed 30 seconds later by the bombers.

"When the bombers power-dived toward the Panay," he continued, "at the base of the dive, with the motors almost shut off, I could hear machine guns popping from the planes."

Alley's wife and three children met him here.

After the Panay bombing, Alley said, he and his party walked 15 miles the first night to Hoshien. As soon as the party boarded the rescue ship Oahu, the photographer related, "the films never left navy charge until they arrived here."

Show Attack.

He said his pictures show the attack by the Japanese planes, the actual sinking of the Panay, and the ship being abandoned under fire, as well as the rescue by other vessels.

The 43-year-old veteran cameraman described the shrapnel injury to his right leg as "very minor." Asked if he were going back to China, he laughed "Yeah, maybe in 35 years!"

PANAY FILMS SHOWN IN FIRST EXHIBITION

By HAROLD W. WAGONER.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 28.—(UP) The sinking of the United States gunboat Panay in the Yangtze river was shown today in the first exhibition of news reel film made at the scene.

The film, however, showed no Japanese planes nor was the American flag seen flying over the stricken boat.

The news reel, taken by a Fox Movietone cameraman, was displayed before a small private audience, preparatory to being exhibited in commercial theaters.

The attacking planes could not be seen in the motion pictures, but their presence was made known by scenes of American sailors training machine guns on them as they roared past.

Shot From Decks.

The first shots of the attack were taken from the decks of the Panay, and the rest from navy launches that took occupants ashore, and from the banks of the Yangtze.

The film showed victims dropping to the decks of the Panay as they were wounded by the attacking planes. Civilians and seamen carried them below decks. There was no evidence of confusion. One of the wounded men smiled broadly as a Good Samaritan bent over him to treat his injuries.

The news reel included several action shots of the Panay crew turning machine guns skyward and letting loose a blast of bullets when the unseen attackers swooped low over the vessel.

After the order to abandon ship, navy launches were shown putting off from the Panay with wounded and other survivors.

Bombs Dropping.

Several bombs could be seen dropping near the launches as they sped for shore. A few survivors were swimming ashore and hiding in the reeds that line the river's banks.

The camera, trained from a distance, caught the Panay settling into the water, but the shot did not reveal any signs of an American flag floating above the vessel.

The films, however, did not disprove American claims that the flag was flying from the Panay as it moved up the Chinese river. The camera was set up in sections of the boat where the flag could not be seen and long-range shots were taken from too great a distance to reveal an object as small as a flag.

An American flag could be seen fluttering from the stern of a Standard Oil Company boat, which also was bombed and sunk. The film showed that the weather was clear.

The camera turned to scenes on shore after the wounded were brought off the Panay. They were receiving medical care and being carried on stretchers by Chinese into Wuhu.

Wounded on Lighters.

The wounded again appeared while being placed aboard lighters which carried them to the British gunboat Ladybird. More scenes were taken aboard the Ladybird as she steamed down the Yangtze toward Shanghai.

The most dramatic shot was of a flag-draped coffin being placed aboard Admiral Harry Yarnell's flagship Augusta with the crew standing at attention.

The final shots of the film were of the wounded and survivors aboard the Augusta and in the Shanghai hospital.

The film was shown to a small audience of 100 newspapermen, including this correspondent, radio broadcasters and workers in the Western Avenue-Sunset branch of 20th Century-Fox studios.

Several women were horror-stricken at the severe wounds of navy men and civilians aboard the boat. The scenes of bravery under fire were many.

Staggers Along Deck.

One shot showed a young American officer staggering along the deck, giving orders for loading of other wounded aboard a small boat alongside the Panay.

The film showed a civilian dragging a wounded seaman below deck past a fighting gun crew of bare-headed marines.

Another shot showed a well dressed civilian, apparently an Englishman or an American, abandoning a place of safety in a patch of reeds on shore to crawl to the side of a man, apparently dying, who wanted someone to hold his hand. All during the picture, those unhurt seemed more concerned with caring for the wounded than they were for their own safety.

CRUISERS TO TAKE AUSTRALIAN TRIP

American Warships To Join Anniversary Observance.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The navy announced today that four cruisers of the American fleet would leave the San Pedro, San Diego, Cal., naval base early in the new year for Sydney, Australia, to participate in observing the 150th anniversary of the founding of the commonwealth.

The light cruisers Trenton, Milwaukee and Memphis and the heavy cruiser Louisville will make the trip.

SCENES AND PERSONALITIES IN BOMBING OF U. S. WARSHIP

Damage done to H. M. S. Ladybird by Japanese shore batteries is shown by the holes in the superstructure of the British warship. The attack on the Ladybird brought protests from Great Britain to Japan. The reply of Japan, just delivered, said "confusion" in the "mop-up" campaign around Nanking caused a "mistake."

These six American sailors are burying at sea from the U. S. S. Augusta one of those killed on the U. S. S. Panay when Japanese planes bombed and sank that vessel in what Japan called a "blunder."

Roosevelt To Ask More Battleships; Feels 'Growing Concern' at Events

army and navy and has, therefore, a very specific duty to safeguard the defense of national interests.

"In speaking of my growing concern, I do not refer to any specific nation, or to any specific threat against the United States. The fact is that in the world as a whole many nations are not only continuing but are enlarging their armament programs. I have used every conceivable effort to stop this trend and to work toward a decrease of armaments. Facts, nevertheless, are facts, and the United States must recognize them.

"Will you, therefore, be good enough to inform the subcommittee on naval appropriations that after the next session of the congress has met, it is possible that I may send supplementary estimates for commencing construction on a number of ships additional to the above program?"

Vinson Act.

The Vinson act, to which Mr. Roosevelt referred as possibly containing authorization for the vessels he may ask to have constructed, was passed in 1934. It authorized the construction of such vessels as would bring the fleet to the strength provided under the Washington and London naval treaties.

Those treaties are now defunct, but nevertheless the ruling policy has been to adhere to the treaty navy idea. It has been intended that the fleet would reach that point in 1942. Some observers were quick to express the opinion that Mr. Roosevelt now wants that level in naval strength reached much more quickly.

The questioning of reporters brought out that presently contemplated increases in the national defense concerned only the construction of additional warships. The President replied in the negative to a question whether he expected to recommend additions to army or navy air corps or to the army itself.

He was asked, too, whether the navy yards would participate in the new construction and replied that they would. He did not know, however, whether the construction in them of new ways and other facilities would be necessary.

Views of Solons.

At the capitol, most legislators were reluctant to discuss the step immediately, but there were some who were quick to speak their minds.

"All I desire to say at this time," said Senator Borah, of Idaho, ranking Republican on the foreign affairs committee, "is that I sincerely hope the President will not find it necessary to call for a large armaments outlay."

From Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, came this statement:

"I see no necessity for spending millions and millions of dollars for armaments and battleships when one-third of our people are ill-housed, ill-fed and ill-clothed. (The last clause of the sentence was a quotation from a Roosevelt speech).

"If the United States government will keep out of entangling alliances with Europe, no country on the globe is going to attack us. There is no fear that we will become involved in a war unless we permit ourselves to be led into it."

Senator Adams, Democrat, Colorado, said he "lacked initial enthusiasm for the idea," but "might be persuaded that it is the thing to do." He added that he would reserve judgment, however, until a request for additional ships reaches the appropriations committee, of which he is a member.

Oppose Naval Plans.

Senator Johnson, Democrat, Colorado, said he was "very, very much opposed to putting any more money into the navy," but that "if they want to build some air cruisers for defense purposes," he would "support it."

From Representative Taylor, the recipient, came this prepared statement:

"The President's budget is not officially in the hands of congress and until it is formally presented, such details as have been supplied to my committee with a view to expediting our work must be treated as confidential.

"Disturbed conditions abroad, both to our east and west, and the activities of foreign powers in building up their armed forces have focused the attention of our people upon the state of our national defense establishments and have aroused more than usual interest in seeing that they are brought up to the standards conforming with the present judgment of the commander-in-chief and his advisors in the State, War and Navy Departments."

Must Be Prepared.

Taylor said, "We want peace," but added, "we must be prepared to lick hell out of them if they tramp on our toes."

Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, who always frowns on larger military appropriations, served notice he would oppose any increases.

"The militarists have worked this Japanese scare in the United States and in Japan," he said. "Over in Japan the militarists call it the American war scare and over here we call it the Japanese war scare."

Senator Pope, Democrat, Idaho, of the senate foreign relations committee, said:

"A request for an additional navy appropriation, if made, certainly should be accompanied by a request for a sufficient appropriation to guarantee parity prices for farmers.

"The welfare of agriculture at this time seems to me a good deal more important than additional battleships."

President's Letter.

The President's letter to Taylor:

"My Dear Mr. Chairman:

"Confirming my conversation with you the other day, I would be glad if you would tell the chairman and members of the naval appropriations subcommittee the following:

"The preliminary estimates submitted by the director of the budget to the naval subcommittee were prepared some time ago and called for appropriations to commence during the fiscal year 1939, two battleships, two light cruisers, eight destroyers and six submarines.

"Since that time world events have caused me growing concern. Under the constitution the President is commander-in-chief of the army and navy and has, therefore, a very specific duty to safeguard the defense of national interests. In speaking of my growing concern, I do not refer to any specific nation or to any specific threat against the United States. The fact is that in the world as a whole many nations are not only continuing but are enlarging their armament programs. I have used every conceivable effort to stop this trend, and to work toward a decrease of armaments. Facts, nevertheless, are facts, and the United States must recognize them.

"Will you, therefore, be good enough to inform the subcommittee on naval appropriations that after the next session of the congress has met, it is possible that I may send supplementary estimates for commencing construction on a number of ships additional to the above program?

"Very sincerely yours,
(Signed)
"FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT."

NAVY HOP TO HAWAII NEXT MONTH FORECAST

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 28.—(AP) Navy sources said today the next transpacific mass flight of patrol planes from here to Honolulu probably will be some time next month instead of in February, as previously announced.

Official announcement of the date of the flight could not be obtained. The navy made two massed flights from San Diego to Honolulu this year. Twelve patrol planes made the hop in January and another dozen in April.

FLOGGING CASES TRIAL SET.

WAR MATERIALS AID AMERICAN EXPORTS

Trade Balance Gain of $165,000,000 Over 1936 Is Shown.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Foreign trade experts of the Commerce Department said today that "enormous exports of war materials were keeping American sales abroad at a high level and providing a cushion for declining business at home.

At the same time, they estimated that final figures for 1937 would show that American firms and individuals sold abroad at least $200,000,000 more in commodities and manufactures than they purchased in other lands.

This excess of exports, long termed a "favorable" balance of trade, would represent a gain of some $165,000,000 over 1936, but otherwise would be the smallest "favorable" balance in the last six years.

Asked for an opinion of the year's foreign trade developments, one department expert said:

"It's been a great year for preparation for war."

He went on to say that exports of iron and steel, especially scrap, copper and aircraft, "have been enormous," and that sales of gasoline have been "keeping up pretty well, too."

Turning to the trends of the last month or so, he noted that although total November exports were less than the total for October, there was, simultaneously an against-the-trend increase in foreign sales of automobiles, aircraft and iron and steel products.

Films of Panay Attack To Show Here This Week

Sensational newsreel pictures of the bombing and sinking of the United States gunboat Panay will be shown this week in Atlanta motion picture theaters.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer "News of the Day" reels will be shown for a week at Loew's Grand theater, beginnng Friday, Manager Edwin Pentecost announced last night, and an exclusive feature-length Universal newsreel will be shown for a week at the Georgia theater, beginning Saturday.

The Georgia's picture, which is 4,500 feet in length, was filmed by Norman Alley, of Universal Newsreel, and more than 90 per cent of the scenes are exclusive. President Roosevelt will see the newsreel today, after which it will be sent to Atlanta.

The film tells the story of the Panay incident. It starts with the Japanese attack on Nanking, shows the flight of refugees up the river from Nanking on the Panay, the attack, the sinking, rescue of survivors and their return to Shanghai.

Uncle Sam's navy rushed Alley out of China to Manila by torpedo boats so he could catch the China Clipper to the United States. Army planes will fly him to the White House today.

The Georgia's feature picture, "The Barrier," which was scheduled to open Saturday, has been cancelled so Atlantans may have the first opportunity to see actual scenes of the bombing which rocked the nation.

where the Chinese government moved from Nanking, its fallen capital.

The United States gunboat Sacramento was expected here tomorrow (Thursday) with about 45 American refugees from Tsingtao. Americans, other foreigners and natives were said to be preparing to leave the city before a threatened Japanese attack.

U. S. Warships Stand By.

The United States cruiser Marblehead and destroyer Pope were standing by to evacuate about 250 other Americans, some of whom were expected, however, to flee aboard small coastal steamers.

The fall of Tsingtao appeared inevitable after Japanese troops occupied Tsinan, the provincial capital, and extended their line to within 100 miles of the coast. Japanese possession both of Tsinan, about 200 miles west of Tsingtao, and Weihsien, halfway between, severed railroad communications.

Chinese emphasized, however, that only provincial troops were defeated at Tsinan and that strong central government forces were entrenched at Taian and Lincheng, south of Tsinan.

At Shanghai, Japanese authorities declared they were dissatisfied with efforts of the municipal council to rid the International Settlement of hidden arms. Officials, who have decreed military law for Japanese-dominated areas, insisted there must be effective police measures before Shanghai can return to normal.

Studying Military Courts.

(Secretary of State Cordell Hull, in Washington, declared the United States was trying to ascertain the full scope of military courts set up in Shanghai by Japan's army and whether they violated American rights.)

(British officials at Hongkong were believed to have aimed an order, prohibiting use of wireless by merchant ships in the Hongkong harbor, at Japanese vessels.

(Reports from Macao, Portuguese colony near Hongkong on the south China coast, said a Japanese cruiser had shelled Wongkam Island, over which Portugal claims jurisdiction. Two hundred Japanese bluejackets were said to have landed on Wongkam, across the Canton river estuary from Hongkong.

British Get Japan's Reply.

(In Tokyo Foreign Minister Koki Hirota delivered to the British ambassador, Sir Robert Leslie Craigie, Japan's reply to a protest against a Japanese attack on the British gunboat Ladybird on the Yangtze river the same day the United States gunboat Panay was sunk. The note was not published.)

Matsui told Japanese newspapermen "There is no hurry about future military operations so soon after the capture of Nanking."

"Our troops, after more than four months of hostilities, need a rest," the general declared. "At the same time we give the Chinese time to reconsider their attitude, but if they persist in their anti-Japanese policies, we will be forced to act."

Japanese planes raided a wide area, nevertheless, virtually destroying the main street of Kinhwa, capital of Chekiang province since the fall of Hangchow; disrupting service on the Canton-Hankow railroad by blowing up a bridge at Yingtak, Kwangtung province, and bombing Chinese hangars in Kwangtung and Anhwei provinces.

WARSHIPS AT TSINGTAO TO RESCUE FOREIGNERS

By The Associated Press.

TSINGTAO, Dec. 28.—Forty-five Americans sailed from Tsingtao today aboard the United States gunboat Sacramento in flight from a feared Japanese attack on this Shantung province port.

The Americans, part of about 300 living here, left on the advice of the State Department at Washington to the Tsingtao consulate. Other Americans and foreigners were preparing to follow aboard the American cruiser Marblehead, destroyer Pope and small coastal vessels.

(Reports from Tsingtao to the Tokyo newspaper Asahi said 280 Americans had evacuated Tsingtao and were heading toward Shanghai.)

With Japanese within 100 miles of here and expected to strike in retaliation for the burning by Chinese of Japanese property, largely cotton mills, worth about $100,000,000, evacuation of natives also was in progress.

Postal Employes Desert.

Desertion by postal service employes paralyzed the mails, and further interrupted communications with the interior.

Large numbers of Chinese employes of foreign-owned firms fled, and the native newspapers virtually were silenced by the flight of their staff members.

According to Japanese reports, the forces that occupied Tsinan, about 200 miles west of here, have launched a drive toward Taian, about 35 miles south.

(Chinese dispatches to Shanghai declared only provincial troops had defended Tsinan but that strong central government forces were entrenched against the Japanese advance toward Taian.)

"Mopping up" details at Tsinan, the Japanese declared, were "attempting to restore order and extinguish fires which the retreating Chinese started."

Rail Communication Cut.

Despite its proximity to the war zone, Tsingtao was isolated from Tsinan by Japanese possession of communications lines and rail centers and received scant word of fighting in the interior.

Chinese sources, however, said natives were fleeing Weihsien, Japanese-held railroad junction midway between here and Tsinan, where Japanese were stretching their line deeper into the province.

(An Asahi dispatch direct from Tsinan said the newly-created Peiping government, including the five North China provinces Japan already controlled, probably would extend its influence now to Shantung.

(The report said the Chinese withdrew from Tsinan, allowing bloodless occupation. A report to the Domei-Japanese News Agency, however, said the Chinese commander, General Li Tsung-jen, had declared the surrender of Tsinan did not mean the loss of the whole province.

(Li, it said, had called for general mobilization to support General Han Fu-chu, the provincial governor.)

AMERICANS CAUTIONED TO EVACUATE KULING

KULING, China, Dec. 29.—(Wednesday) — (AP) — Wholesale evacuation of the large number of Americans and other foreigners in Kuling was requested today by consular officials at Hankow, China's temporary capital 135 miles northwest.

The consuls feared the probable spread of Chinese-Japanese warfare up the Yangtze to Kiukiang, Kulin's river outlet, would endanger foreign citizens remaining in this mountain resort near Lake Poyang.

The consular plan called for evacuation of all foreigners, including the entire membership of the American school, by boat to Hankow and then their immediate entrainment for Hongkong aboard an international refugee train. Hongkong lies about 600 miles due south of Hankow.

'Wife-Trainer' Finds His Spouse Is Boss

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 28.—(AP) It's now official that the Mrs. is boss in the household of J. P. McEvoy, globe-trotting author of advice on how to train a wife.

A new McEvoy heir is expected soon, and Mrs. McEvoy, formerly Margaret Santry, newspaper woman, reported today:

"It's marvelous. I'm getting away with murder. Never had so much attention in my life.

BYRD SEES DANGER OF WORLD CLASH

Rear Admiral Says Activity of 'Acquisitive Nations' Will Bring War.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 28. (AP)—Accepting a medal for his peace efforts, Rear Admiral Richard Byrd said in a letter tonight that continued activity of "acquisitive nations" would "end in world war as sure as the sun rises."

The letter was read at a meeting of Pi Gamma Mu, national social science honorary society.

"I recommend in the strongest terms," wrote the explorer, "that the democracies and other peace-loving nations form an alliance that would be close enough to prevent the world war which may any day loom over the horizon. Such an alliance is the only way to meet the threat of brute force and save from destruction the rights of individuals and of nations.

"We must start with the sad fact," he added, "that, generally speaking, neither international agreements nor laws can be enforced. So long as this situation exists, acquisitive nations that are strong are going to continue to take what they want. This will end in world war as sure as the sun rises."

JAPANESE DENIES HATING CHINESE

Students of Both Countries Join for War Relief.

OXFORD, Ohio, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Chinese and Japanese delegates to the National Assembly of Student Christian Associations worked together today to relieve war suffering, and one leader warned Americans against anti-Japanese propaganda which he said might lead to war.

T. Z. Koo, executive vice president of the World Student Christian Federation, addressed the assembly on the Miami University campus.

Tou Matsumoto, Japanese student at New York, discussed activities of the committee for the far eastern emergency fund for the relief of Chinese students in China. He said that individually Chinese and Japanese did not hate each other.

TRAIN KILLS MAN IN AUTO.

PALATKA, Fla., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Merivale Wesley Sylvester, 23, was killed today when his loaded truck was struck by a Florida East Coast Railway train at a crossing on the farm of his father-in-law, George Stone.

Moving One of the Wounded on the Panay After Bombing by Japanese

A wounded survivor of the Panay is shown above being taken aboard a Chinese junk in the Yangtze after the bombing and machine-gunning. He is surrounded by other survivors of the American gunboat. The Panay was bombed and sent to the bottom of the Yangtze river Sunday a week ago as it was doing patrol duty in the war zone. The Japanese government has taken full responsibility for the bombing and has assured the United States that other incidents of this kind will not take place in the future.

Eddie Moore Named Player-Manager at Spartanburg

The Train to Hillerod Was Filled With Pretty Blond Skiers.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark—(By Mail to U. S.)—We were going to the old town of Hillerod to see the castle which sits on three islands with a series of moats about it.

It is called Frederiksborg castle and it has been, most of it, at any rate, there for a few hundred years. It had been snowing for two days and the train was filled with handsome young blondes, men and women, in ski costumes. One must be slim to wear one. The platforms were all filled with skis and when the train stopped they teetered and the crowd rushed out to catch them. But they never quite seemed to fall.

They chattered away and it was entertaining to listen. Danish is an especially intriguing language because no one word is pronounced at all like it is spelled. And to one who, after five lessons, could speak and write—"Is he here? Yes, he is here. Is she there? No, she is here!"—it was all very exasperating to discover no familiar words in the fast-running conversation which was, the young man with us said, about the snow and the probability of good skiing.

From the windows we could see the clean little houses and barns on the farms. There were people on skis on almost every little hill and on the small lakes there were skaters. Children were out with sleds and it was a very gay Sunday morning.

AT HILLEROD.

At Hillerod, which cannot be correctly spelled in English because there should be a line drawn through the "o," from top right to lower left, they examined the tickets again. It is a very simple system. They examine the ticket as one goes through the gate and they take it up as one leaves the station at his destination. There is no conductor on the train.

We walked over the packed snow to the narrow street with the small shops, all decorated for Christmas,

MOORE IS LIKELY TO GET PER CENT OF NET RECEIPTS

Ex-Atlanta Pilot Will Take Over Sally League Duties Soon.

SPARTANBURG, S. C., Dec. 28. (AP)—Eddie Moore, former major league star and manager of the Atlanta club of the Southern association for the last three seasons, accepted today the job of player-manager of the new Spartanburg, South Atlantic league, club.

Moore came to terms at a conference with Arthur M. Willis, head of a group of businessmen sponsoring the city's return to professional baseball.

Salary terms were not divulged, but it was understood Moore would receive a percentage of the net proceeds in addition to his salary.

REPLACED BY RICHARDS.

Atlanta won two Southern association championships while Moore was manager. He was released at the end of the 1937 season and replaced by Paul Richards.

Moore played with the Pittsburgh Pirates, New York Giants, Brooklyn Dodgers, Boston Braves and Cleveland Indians.

Moore returned to Atlanta tonight, but will come back to Spartanburg in about ten days to take over his new duties.

Moore was the only Atlanta manager to win two pennants in a row. His 1935 team was out of first place only one day. His 1936 team was never out of first place. The Atlanta team drew 632,006 paying customers in the two seasons.

A highlight of his colorful major league career was a home run off Walter Johnson in the 1925 World Series between the Pittsburgh Pirates and Washington Senators.

SOLD FOR $17,500.

Atlanta acquired Moore from the Florida State league in 1922 to play shortstop and the following year sold him to Pittsburgh for $17,500.

He remained with Pittsburgh about four years and subsequently played with the Boston Braves, Brooklyn Dodgers, New York Giants and Cleveland Indians.

Atlanta obtained him again in 1934 from Cleveland to play third base. He succeeded Spencer Abbott as the Crackers' manager near the end of the season, and the team won nine of the remaining ten games.

His team finished third in 1937 by beating New Orleans in a playoff game.

Moore was born in Barlow, Ky. He was a four-letter man at St. Stanislaus College, Bay St. Louis, Miss., during his college days, starring in baseball, football, basketball and track.

FIVE GOLFERS TIED FOR LEAD

HOLLYWOOD, Fla., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Five golfers turned the $4,000 Hollywood Beach hotel open into a wild scramble down the home stretch today as they rounded the halfway mark all even at 138, two below par for 36 holes.

Horton Smith, of Chicago, and Leonard Dodson, of Springfield, Mo., first-round leaders with 67's, slipped to 71's today and found themselves tied with three who came from two strokes back.

Johnny Revolta, of Evanston, Ill.; Craig Wood, of Rumson, N. J., and Frank Moore, of Mamaroneck, N. Y., all clipped a stroke off par again today after opening with 69's.

Three others—Dick Metz, of Chicago; Bruce Coltart, of Haddonfield, N. J., and Willie MacFarlane, of Hollywood, Fla.—were tied at 139, a stroke off the pace.

Denny Shute, P. G. A. champion; Bill Heinlein, of Indianapolis and Sam Byrd, of Philadelphia, former Yankee baseball player, stayed even with par at 140.

Ralph Guldahl, national open champion, blasted himself into the running with a 68 today, after an erratic start at 73, and was even with five others at the 141 notch. One of these, Maurice Walsh, of Scarsdale, N. Y., scored the lowest round of the day, a 67. The others were Jimmy Hines, of New York; Ray Mangrum, of Dayton, Ohio, Ed Oliver, of Wilmington, Del., and Tommy Armour, of Boca Raton, Fla.

Sam Snead, of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., still off the form that won the recent Nassau and Miami opens, put a 71 with his previous 73 and at 144 was tied for 28th position.

Two Games Slated For Civic League

Two games will be played in the Civic league Wednesday night at the Y. M. C. A., one being postponed on account of the holidays. The two leading teams will be lined up against the lower brackets but there is no certainty that the leaders will win. Both Rybert Printing Company and Georgia Power Company have many good games in their systems, and this may be the day for one of them to come out.

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 29, AT Y. M. C. A.
8:00—Georgia Power Company vs. Gold Shield.

WARNER CLAIMS DEFENSE AHEAD OF GRID OFFENSE

By KENNETH GREGORY.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 28.—(AP) Glenn S. (Pop) Warner, whose 43 years of coaching have led him from coast to coast, said today that foootball's defense has got too far ahead of the offense.

It was back in 1895 that Pop Warner took his first coaching job, a position at the University of Georgia, and a lot of water has passed under the bridge in the years that saw him directing the Carlisle Indians, Stanford and on through to his present assignment at Temple University.

"For years," said Pop, "the rules committee has been building up the defensive strategy until it is hurting the game. The offense needs some help.

"People don't want to pay their money to see scoreless ties, and we had plenty of them this past fall. They don't want to see close games. What they want is action and the only way we can accomplish that end is to keep the offense ahead of the defense."

ANNUAL MEETING.

Warner is one of the some 1,500 coaches, athletic directors and faculty representatives here to attend the annual sessions of the American Football Coaches' Association and the National Collegiate Athletic Association, opening tomorrow.

To lessen the defensive advantage, Warner suggested a change in the rules to require a standard formation on defense, such as six or seven men on the line of scrimmage. In behalf of the offense, he believes that help would come from allowing forward passing anywhere back of the line of scrimmage, removal of the goal posts to the goal line and moving of the ball 15 yards instead of 10 from the sidelines.

Pop Warner was chatting with Chester A. (Chet) Wynne, of Kentucky, a former Notre Dame fullback who agreed heartily with the Temple pilot's suggestions and added a point that he though high school teams should play universally under the same rules as collegians.

VIEWS CONTRAST.

The views of Warner and Wynne contrast considerably with those of other coaches, a large number of whom take the slant that too many football professors are concentrating on defense and not giving the needed attention to offense.

There were a number of coaches who were ready to insist that the government committee, which goes into session at Gulfport, Miss., next Sunday to lay down the playing laws, leave the rules alone. On the whole there is a cross-section of views that may or may not encourage the committee in its deliberations.

Lou Little, of Columbia University, chairman of the coaches' rules committee, has rounded up a national questionnaire on the proposed changes. He will report his findings at the opening session tomorrow morning. Little as well as several other coaches and officials was scheduled to reach the scene during the night.

Alonzo Stagg Says Football Is Great Game.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 28. (AP)—Amos Alonzo Stagg, dean of American football coaches, reminisced a half century of the game today and said he felt that despite some abuses to which it is subjected, football is a fine builder of character and bodies.

The famed exponent of open style football during some 40 years of coaching at the University of Chicago, Coach Stagg drove to New Orleans for the American Football Coaches' convention from Stockton, Cal., where he pilots the College of the Pacific.

Now going on 76 years, Stagg was accompanied by his own "head coach," Mrs. Stagg.

'Jock' Sutherland Will Resign, Report

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The Sun-Telegraph said today Dr. John B. (Jock) Sutherland is preparing to resign as football coach of the University of Pittsburgh, effective at the end of next season.

The newspaper said that was the conclusion drawn by his friends from developments since close of the 1937 season with its aftermath of spurning an expected invitation to play in the Rose Bowl game on New Year's Day.

Sutherland was en route to New Orleans with Coaches Bill Kern, of Carnegie Tech, and Clipper Smith, of Duquesne.

Spartanburg's New Pilot

Eddie Moore, who brought Atlanta pennants in 1935 and 1936, the first since Bert Niehoff's championship team of 1925, and who was released in favor of Paul Richards at the end of the past season, was signed yesterday as player-manager of the Spartanburg (S. C.) Sally league club.

He Forgot To Introduce One Tide Coach-Thomas

Actress Gail Patrick, Birmingham Girl, Wields Powerful Influence Over Sports Writer.

By JACK TROY.

One Roy Riegels ran the wrong way against Georgia Tech in the Tournament of Roses.

And it was during Alabama night at the Biltmore Bowl that Braven Dyer, a fine sports writer on the Los Angeles Times, and a good friend of Alabama, lost his sense of direction, so to speak. At the microphone, Braven introduced the sports writers and members of the Alabama party, including all assistant coaches. Then he took a bow and sat down. The orchestra swung into the strains of a waltz.

Suddenly, Braven was back in front of the microphone. "It must be the influence of Gail Patrick," he said.

"There is one gentleman connected with the university who should be introduced. He really needs no introduction, but it would not do to pass him up the little woman has informed me."

BEST RECORD.

"This fellow has compiled the best coaching record in the country over a period of years. I refer to Coach Frank Thomas."

Gales of laughter greeted the announcement. It was a clever cover-up and might even have been prearranged, but it wasn't. The influence of Gail Patrick, the Birmingham girl who has made good in Hollywood, is a bit devastating.

You see, Dyer had introduced her last. And when she had pulled a line about how fine it was to see all the old s-s-folks, he completely forgot about the head coach of the Crimson Tide.

A REAL HIGHLIGHT.

The trip through the Warner Brothers studios was another real highlight of a great trip for the members of the championship 'Bama team.

The fellows saw production work going on in the final scene of "Robin Hood." Errol Flynn and Basil Rathbone being instructed in the finer arts of duelling.

On the movie lots, of course, it is no trick to step into a side door and find yourself in almost any country you could imagine. The settings are a revelation.

The boys saw a scene of "Jezebel," starring Bette Davis, George Grant and Henry Fonda, and the scene of which was southern enough to bring a pang to a few hearts.

"WOO-WOO."

Hugh Herbert, one of the better comedians, was the first to meet the boys when they started their tour. Herbert is working with Wayne Morris and Priscilla Lane in the picture "All Men Are Foolish."

One of the chief thrills for the boys was running across Howard Hill, who played end for Auburn

GEORGIA ALUMNI PLEDGE SUPPORT TO NEW MENTOR

Atlantans Back Selection Committee; Troutman Is Named President.

By BILL MUNDAY.

Members of the Atlanta University of Georgia Alumni Association, meeting Tuesday night at the Georgian Terrace, formally passed a resolution pledging wholehearted, unstinted and "mouth shut" support to their alma mater's new football coach as yet unnamed. He is scheduled to be chosen by a committee of five which will meet early in January. It includes President Harmon Caldwell, Dr. W. O. Payne, faculty chairman of athletics; Marion Smith, of Atlanta; George Woodruff, of Columbus, and Watson Walker, of Macon.

The action was taken after a round-table talk of athletic conditions at Athens by alumni, new and old, and a multitude of suggestions had been offered.

TO QUIT GRUMBLING.

"It is time," declared Howard McCall in presenting the motion to back up the quintet of selectors, "that we quit grumbling and begin to back up our team with all our hearts. Let us go on record here and now that we stand solidly behind our committee regardless of whom they hire."

The chapter voted to back up the selection "with money and moral support."

A brisk discussion of the relative importance of coach and material in "big time" football brought the names of dozens of coaches before the group and the proposal that the association provide more scholarships. No action was taken to indorse any man or set up a "slush fund."

An amendment that the coach be picked from the state of Georgia, offered by Dudley Cook, was lost.

During the discussion, Ernest P. "Jelly" Rogers delivered an impassioned plea that "Harry Mehre be proffered a two-year contract," pointing out his splendid record.

But McCall's motion was carried unanimously as originally stated with no mention of Mehre.

The session was called by E. E. "Shorty" Andrews, president of the local association, who stated that its purpose was to "feel out alumni" on the coaching situation. "And to acquaint our fellows everywhere that we are banded together harmoniously."

Troutman President.

Frank Troutman, prominent attorney, was elected president for 1938; Virlyn Moore Jr., vice president, and Sims Bray Jr., secretary-treasurer. Board of directors are Gene Smith, Welborn Cody, Jesse Draper, Harry Harmon, Artie Pew, Buck Cheves, Dan McDougald and Hamilton Lokey.

Not a single member of the committee was present. Dr. Caldwell and Dr. Payne were en route to the American Football Coaches' annual convention in New Orleans.

It is understood they have been empowered to procure a coach hands down by their three fellow members and that they will interview several mentors while in the Crescent City.

So something may pop out like the measles any day now.

Anyway, the Atlanta alumni have vouched their unselfish aid.

J.P.C. Battles Union Quint Tonight

Seeking their fourth straight victory of the season, the Jewish Progressive Club quintet will battle Union College, of Barbourville, Ky., at the J. P. C. court on Pryor street tonight. The game will begin at 9 o'clock and will be preceded by a preliminary game featuring the J. P. C. Cubs.

Coach Shep Lauter will start his strongest lineup of Katz and Medintz at forwards, Browdy, center, and Minsk and Greenberg at guards.

The J. P. C. has bowled over all opposition in easy manner thus far and bids fair to regain southern championship laurels. Sunday night they smothered Columbus Manufacturing, 61-34. Two weeks ago this Columbus team lost to Warren, southern invitational champs, by only seven points. The Progressives will play Nehi, the team which beat Warren, here on January 9.

The J. P. C. five defeated Union last year in a close game.

Union College Beats Warren Five, 33-26.

The collegians cashed in on their team work. Warren was brilliant at times, but erratic passing and shooting left them behind virtually all the way.

WORK WITH ST. PAUL.

DELAND, Fla., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Deland's club in the Class D Florida State baseball league has signed a working agreement with the St. Paul club of the American association, Business Manager Bill Page announced.

DEFENSIVE STARS MAY OPEN GAME FOR CRIMSON TIDE

By JACK TROY.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 28.—For the sake of defense, especially in the first half when California has the reputation of cutting loose, Coach Frank Thomas may start a mixture of first and second-string linemen on New Year's Day.

And in the backfield, Vic Bradford may start at quarterback in place of Henry Cochrane. This is because Eradford is a devastating defensive player. He's a tough tackler.

Changes in the line may find Bobby Wood, 212-pound sophomore tackle, on the firing line in place of Jim Tipton, who weighs less than 190. He would pair with Jim Ryba, a great boy.

It is not likely there will be any change at guards, but the Crimson Tide may open with a new set of ends—Eugene Blackwell and Haywood (Sandy) Sanford—for their defensive durability. They would temporarily replace Tut Warren and Perron Shoemaker.

'Bama may sacrifice a bit of offensive strength at the start just to determine how devastating the Bears really are. If the Pacific Coast champions live up to their advance reputation—they'll be wonders, if they do—then the job for 'Bama will be to wear 'em down, if possible, and think about offense later.

THOMAS OPTIMISTIC.

Coach Frank Thomas remains highly optimistic. He told a gathering of fans during Alabama night at the Biltmore Bowl that "Sometimes the dice come snake eyes. They may do that for us on New Year's Day, but I don't think so."

Alabama is not staking all on the passing game in the hope of winning. The coaches believe they have a few running plays that will gain. They're putting no little reliance in the mouse trap. 'Bama will offer a varied attack from short punt formation.

The players were escorted through Warner Brothers studio this morning. They held a long workout in the afternoon. There was contact work, but nothing resembling scrimmage. Coach Thomas isn't going to take any chances on hurting any of the players.

He feels that what they need largely is a lot of running on the springy turf out here. It's not like the hard ground back home, the ground has a spring to it much as if it were padded with cushions.

To teams that aren't used to it, there is a tendency to get away off in the timing.

Another thing the Tide players are doing is learning the tricks of the Bear linemen, who fake charges in an effort to draw the opposing forewall off side. They're getting it down pretty well.

BEAR TRICK.

There is one other California trick they have been warned about and that is the Golden Bears' habit of spending the maximum time in the huddle simply to exasperate the other team.

They pulled that on Tech and repeatedly were warned by officials. It easily can rattle a team that isn't informed about it in advance. Incidentally, the 'Bama players know a few tricks themselves, but they don't figure on using anything but sound fundamental football in their bid for victory.

Only three days of practice remain before the big game. California will get in one more big scrimmage. And, if I may be allowed to say so, they really need it. One very competent observer—a football star from the south—watched the Bears work out and remarked "they look about two weeks away from condition and have less than a week in which to get ready."

The Golden Bears don't seem to have the spirit about their work that Alabama does.

Atlanta AZA Team Downs Augusta

Led by Gershon and Kulbersh, the Atlanta AZA basketball team yesterday defeated the Augusta AZA to go into the finals of the southern regional tournament of District 5, against the Charleston team at 4 o'clock this afternoon on the J. Atlanta AZA led Augusta the entire game, with the score at the half being 10-7.

Traveler Shortstop Goes to San Diego

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 28.—(AP) The San Diego Padres, of the Pacific Coast baseball league, have obtained John Griffiths from Little Rock, Ark., to replace Shortstop George Myatt, sold to the New York Giants, Owner H. W. Lane announced tonight. Griffiths will report in February when the Padres start spring training at their home park.

ENRIGHT DELAYS NAMING OF AIDES

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Rex Enright, new football coach at South Carolina, announced today he probably would make a statement regarding his 1938 assistants immediately after the New Orleans meeting of the American Football Coaches' Association.

Enright, backfield and head basketball mentor at Georgia since 1931, left today for New Orleans.

Dr. W. O. Payne, faculty chairman of athletics here, said nothing definite could be done about appointing a successor to Enright now. Some sources indicated Vernon Smith would be in charge of Georgia's cagers until a new basketball coach is named.

Enright was slected last night to replace Don C. McAllister as head coach at South Carolina. Georgia has the same position vacant, Harry J. Mehre resigning recently, effective January 1. A committee has been named to study the head coaching job here.

STAR'S NET GAME PROVES UNDOING OF SCHOOLMATE

By BILL BONI.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Brilliant performances by the two leading contenders for the junior crown and another smashing victory for the favored boys entrant featured play today as the combined national junior and boys' indoor tennis championships advanced to the round of 16.

Standout performers among the juniors were top-seeded William Gillespie, of Scarborough school, and Isadore Bellis, University of Pennsylvania sophomore, who is ranked second.

Gillespie, national interscholastic outdoor champion, whose home is in Atlanta, Ga., won his fourth round bracket with a 6-1, 6-1 victory over a schoolmate and fellow townsman, Don Buffington. Gillespie's net game was unbeatable. Bellis, who has lost only six games in three matches to Gillespie's five in two, was brilliant from all corners of the court as he trounced Morton Heller, Woodmere (N. Y.) high school boy, 6-0, 6-2.

Their victories established these two youngsters even more firmly as co-favorites for the championship won a year ago, by Don McNeill, of Kenton College, in Ohio.

Of the five other ranking juniors, four came through with straight set triumphs, Marvin Kantrowitz, University of Texas left-hander, whose home is in New York, and who is No. 3, eliminated Calvin D. MacCracken, of Princeton, 6-1, 6-1; Joseph Fishbach, of St. Louis University, Brooklyn, metropolitan junior champion and No. 4, won at 6-1, 6-4 from John P. Wendell, of Princeton, fifth seeded. Robert Low, of Stanford and New York, defeated Walter Meserole, of the University of North Carolina, 6-3, 6-3, and Malcolm Weinstein, No. 7, of Penn State, topped Ted Schein, of C. C. N. Y., 6-2, 6-4. Low will probably face Gillespie in the quarter-final round.

BREAK O' DAY

each window announcing special "Julegaver," until at last we could see the castle, huge and cold and old, sitting there on its three islands with the ice-covered lakes about it.

Parts of it are heated now. One wondered what it must have been like in the old days when there were knights clattering up to its gates, and pages running about and great banquets in its halls. It must have been, for one thing, terribly cold, no matter how many fires burned in its chimneys.

It could not have been very cheerful. It was in 1560 that a King named Frederick tore down the old one there and built the new one—which is there today. Men had died in the great court in hand-to-hand fighting with long swords of those days.

There were 79 rooms to see, not counting the great halls. And there, for the place is a state museum, were the things of kings. There were dates—1214, 1186—for Denmark crowned her first King in 826—and one could feel the years marching.

There was the chapel with its pipe organ built in 1612 with more than a thousand pipes of wood and with thick ivory keys, trimmed with silver.

The things of kings—gathering polite dust. There is a King in Denmark today, but he dwells in no palace. He is as democratic as the head of any government and there is none of the pageantry of kings, of the foolishness of pomp. He rides through the streets unattended, bowing to the hundreds who halt to bow to him. It was he who helped make museums of the old castles.

THE KNIGHTS' HALL.

There was one room which all but took the breath.

It was the knights' hall—stretching almost as long as a football field and half as wide. There was a musician's balcony at the left.

One could see the picture back to 1500—more than four centuries ago—with the knights there at the long table at dinner, with the pages bringing platters of food and flagons of wine and ale—and the musicians playing. It must have been cold in winter. The one great fireplace—huge as it was—could not have warmed it.

And one thing worried me. There were many suits of armor about the castle. But no suits for large men. I am wondering if most of the knights of old were not rather small. There must have been large ones, but if so they took their armor to the happy hunting grounds with them.

The knights' hall was magnificent to see—and peopled by the imagination, it was something to stand and look at for a long time. It seemed so terribly empty and even the imagination had to strain a bit to fill and the hall with laughter and sound and a thousand or so knights making merry.

Going out I tapped the heavy armor of some of the old suits. It wouldn't even turn a well-swung broadsword in the days when knights were bold. Today it is almost amusing. The business of war has grown very efficient in its killing. There probably was not much romance to dying in the days when knighthood was in flower. But it looked more romantic, with its lances and its swords and its metal armor.

The things of kings—who knows but what, 400 years from now, the art of mass killing may have become so efficient they will have tanks and our big guns in museums gathering dust, and travelers will come and look at them and smile?

AND AT LUNCH.

We climbed the snowy hill to the village street and stopped in a bakery shop with five small tables in an adjoining room.

We had brought packs of the "Smorbrod" sandwiches with us—the open sandwiches for which the Dane is so famous. We ordered coffee and the lady of the shop was so delighted she helped unwrap the sandwiches, put them on a plate, brought coffee and butter and admired the sandwiches mightily.

A Great Dane dog got up from by the stove and admired them also, but would not take one until his mistress nodded. Then he solemnly and carefully gulped two and wagged his tail for more.

And then there was the train and the skiers going home and all the lights burning at 4 o'clock. The dark comes early.

FENTON STARS AS PLAINSMEN HOLD ROUGH WORKOUT

Another Scrimmage Today; Thirty-Six Make Trip.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

AUBURN, Ala., Dec. 28.—The Auburn Plainsmen, 36 strong, plus a large group of students and supporters, will board the "Tiger Special" tonight at 7:30 o'clock for Miami and their Orange Bowl battle with Michigan State Saturday.

The spirit and condition of the squad, despite the fact they returned from a 10-day Christmas vacation only Monday, brought smiles from Meagher and his assistants.

After the drill today, he announced he was convinced that his team was ready both physically and mentally for the contest with the Spartans.

NO SCRIMMAGING.

And since the players are in such good condition, it is unlikely that Meagher will scrimmage them again.

The team will arrive in Miami Thursday afternoon and light practices are on tap for then and Friday. The last drill on home ground will come this afternoon, after which the Tigers will set sail for the sunshine state.

In yesterday's scrimmage, Jimmie Fenton and Spec Kelly were running at the varsity halfback posts and turned in sparkling exhibitions. Osmo Smith and Milton Howell also showed up well at quarterback and guard, respectively.

VERSATILE STAR.

An excellent kicker—averaging over 40 yards a try this year—he also is a shifty runner and good passer. He is the only back who seems sure of a starting berth against State.

Osmo Smith and Marion Walker are regarded as even choices at quarter, while Kelly, Billy Hitchcock and George Kenmore are fighting it out for the starting call at left halfback.

Either Pelham Sitz or Dutch Heath will start at fullback.

Elmer Salter, the Plainsmen's fine publicity man, motored to Miami last week and will have everything ready for the team when it arrives.

Auburn headquarters will be at the Venetian hotel.

Newspapermen making the trip with the Tigers include Jerry Bryan, Birmingham Age-Herald; Edwin Camp, Atlanta Journal; Harold Martin, Atlanta Georgian, and the writer.

Little Herky Moseley May Be Tide Saviour

Joe Kilgrow's Understudy Is Cool Under Fire, a Brilliant Passer, Splendid Punter.

(Editor's Note: Following is another article by Johnny Mack Brown, former Alabama All-America football player and now a Paramount motion picture star, on the Alabama-California Rose Bowl game. This is the fifth article in the series.)

By JOHNNY MACK BROWN.

PASADENA, Cal., Dce. 28.—(UP)—The memorable performance of little Bucky O'Connor in leading a Rockne-coached Notre Dame team to a smashing victory over a highly favored Southern California squad a decade or so ago may find a counterpart here on New Year's Day.

Little Herky Moseley may be another Bucky O'Connor for Coach Frank Thomas, who, like Rockne, will find his Alabama team the underdog.

Moseley is the sub for Joe Kilgrow, the best known member of the squad. He weighs only 157 pounds, is cool as iced tea, possesses a good kicking toe and owns an arm that can throw a forward pass with the speed of a javelin.

I have stood on the sidelines and watched Moseley pass and punt. Taking the ball from center, he darts quickly off to the wing and while moving at a run, hurls 25 and 30-yard passes with the zing of 30-30 bullets and with great accuracy. He seems to be equally good on long passes, those traveling 50 or 55 yards.

Moreover, he is a fine punter. What makes him valuable in this department is that he is a consistently good punter. His kicks are high and have distance, giving the ends plenty of time to get down under them.

I believe that if California repeatedly invades Alabama territory, Moseley will get to see much service. His coolness and his ability to get off kicks should make him invaluable in such an emergency.

I have a hunch, too, that California's hard-charging backs will know they've hit something when they try coming through the strong side of the line. The obstacle at that point will be Jim Ryba, the Alabama tackle. The way he is showing up in practice makes it appear he will be playing the best game of his career next Saturday.

Budge Apologizes For Listless Tilt With Von Cramm

SYDNEY, Australia, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Pleading that "a man can't be at the top all the time—I'm no machine," Don Budge offered today to meet Jack Crawford to make up for a listless defeat in exhibition tennis at the hands of Baron Gottfried von Cramm.

Bryan Fullet, president of the New South Wales Lawn Tennis Association, announced the redheaded Californian's apology to angry White City tennis fans over the loudspeaker and told of Budge's desire to make amends tomorrow by playing Crawford, the Australian star.

Budge, who was dumbfounded and hurt by the bitter criticism of officials, press and the public, explained his lackadaisical game yesterday in which Von Cramm, of Germany, defeated him, 6-1, 6-3.

"I don't want to be keyed up when nothing is hanging on the match. If I am beaten at home in an exhibition the Americans aren't concerned.

"They naturally say 'Why should he kill himself in an exhibition?' I took the same outlook here."

Errors bounced off Budge's racquet in a steady stream in yesterday's exhibition. One sports editor wrote the American seemed to treat the match as a joke "but it wasn't a joke to the spectators who paid as much as $7.50 to see the world's champion in action."

"I'm sorry the public expected so much and I'm sorry I disappointed them," Budge said. "But I did as well as I could—it was not intentional."

Earle Smith Named Spring Hill Coach

MOBILE, Ala., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Appointment of Earle Smith, captain of the University of Alabama football team in 1929, as head football coach at Spring Hill College was announced tonight by Rec. John J. Druhan, president of the college.

Deland Reds Seek Ruth for Manager

DELAND, Fla., Dec. 28.—(UP)—Babe Ruth, the former home run king, was offered a baseball "comeback" today as manager of a Class D team.

The offer was made by W. J. Page, business manager of the DeLand Reds, of the Florida State league, in a telegram to Ruth.

His offer was as follows: "Offer you managerial job with DeLand club, Florida State league. Have great fishing and good golf course. Cannot pay big salary but will pay enough. Have good town—good league. . . . We consider Florida your second home because of your many spring training trips to this state, and know that you would be happily situated as manager of the local club."

back in the days of Mike Donahue. Hill is expert with bow and arrow and has several bits in Robinhood.

He was a quite a story to tell, does Howard Hill, and it will do for another day.

There was a luncheon for the team and party and then the boys departed for practice, which is, after all, not an incidental part of this jaunt.

Two trainloads of fans arrived from Birmingham today. There now are more than 1,000 folks from Alabama on hand to see the Rose Bowl game.

DOGAWAY WINS

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Dogaway, the Milky Way Farm's three-year-old son of Bulldog, won the $1,500 Hollywood handicap today as Santa Anita opened its first full week of racing this season before a crowd of 20,000.

Bachman Displeased With State's Showing.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Dec. 28. (AP)—The Michigan State football team, here to play Auburn in the Orange Bowl game Saturday, went on display in Burdine stadium today.

After a dress drill with the public looking on, the squad returned to its regular practice grounds and went into secret scrimmage. Coach Charley Bachman said he wasn't satisfied with the team's showing.

The mentor ordered a little more energy and thought thrown into rehearsals. Secret drills will continue, he said.

Air Plays Stressed By Bernie Moore.

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 28. (AP)—Louisiana State devoted its final hard practice today for the Sugar Bowl football game to a checkup of its aerial attack—most potent Tiger offensive weapon.

Coach Bernie Moore directed the Bayou Bengals in a snappy pass drill against third-string players in Santa Clara defensive positions.

The workout was short as L. S. U. is tapering off for the Broncos but the fact Coach Moore chose to spend the last real scrimmage on aerial plays stresses the prevailing belief he plans to take to the air in the Sugar Bowl.

Wallace Butts May Coach Lynx

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 28. (AP)—Wallace Butts, former Mercer College athlete and present athletic director at Louisville Ky., Male High school, revealed today he "was interested" in the athletic directorship of Southwestern College here.

Butts stopped off, en route to New Orleans for the coaches' annual meeting, to confer with officials.

Sources close to the college's athletic committee said Butts had the indorsement of Bernie Moore, Louisiana State grid mentor.

Shorty Propst resigned the Southwestern post several weeks ago.

TIBBETT SINGS—Lawrence Tibbett, distinguished American baritone of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will appear as soloist with Andre Kostelanetz and his orchestra in a new series of programs, the first of which will be heard over WGST at 8 o'clock tonight.

Tibbett will offer no less than five songs on each broadcast and, while not adhering exclusively to American music, plans to include in each weeks' concert what he considers the best songs by native composers. The first program includes numbers by George Gershwin and Cole Porter.

Program music follows:

"Di Porvenza," from Verdi's opera, "La Traviata" (Tibbett).
"Gitano," by Longas (Tibbett).
"In the Still of the Night," by Cole Porter (Tibbett).
"I Got Plenty of Nuthin'," by George Gershwin ((Tibbett).
"Son of the Shirt," by Stothart (Tibbett).
"Once in a While" (orchestra).
"Tiger Rag" (orchestra).

TOWN HALL—His work in his new picture completed, Fred Allen will make his final broadcast from Hollywood before returning to New York in a program to be heard over WSB at 8 o'clock tonight.

Fred will lead his Mighty Allen Art players in a dazaling drama, showing the complete indifference with which Hollywood accepts his decision to return to New York. Portland Hoffa nad Peter Van Steeden's orchestra will be heard as usual.

NEWLYWEDS—Alice Faye and Tony Martin, leading singers of the films, who were recently married, share guest star honors with Rubinoff and his violin on the Eddie Cantor program to be heard over WGST at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

This marks the first appearance of guest artists on the current Cantor series and also the first appearance of Alice and Tony on the same show. The program will also feature the regular members of the show, Deanna Durbin, Pinky Tomlin, Vyola Vonn, Jimmy Wallington and Jacques Renard.

Music to be heard on the program includes.

"Night and Day" (Alice Faye).
"You're a Sweetheart" (Alice and Tony).
"You're Gonna Lose Your Gal" (Eddie and Tony).
"You Can't Have Everything" (Rubinoff).
"Afraid to Dream" (Rubinoff).
"Brindisi," from "La Traviata" (Deanna Durbin).

POETIC MELODIES—Mary Frances Edward's poem, "When the Sun Is Low," will be read by Franklyn MacCormack as a highlight of the Poetic Melodies program to be heard over WGST at 6 o'clock tonight.

Jack Fulton, tenor, will sing a program of popular numbers and the orchestra conducted by Carl Hohengarten will play the background and accompaniments.

Music to be heard includes:

"I'll See You in My Dreams" (Jack Fulton).
"Blossoms on Broadway" (Jack Fulton).
"Dream," by Bartlett (Jack Fulton).

Favorites Win Sugar Bowl Matches

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 28.—(UP)—All seeded stars came through initial contests undefeated tonight in the Sugar Bowl invitational tournament.

Bobby Riggs, Chicago star ranked next to Don Budge nationally apd seeded No. 1 here, pulled away from Eddie Sutter, New Orleans, in consecutive sets. Sutter, member of the noted tennis family, held Riggs on even terms for four games in each set. But Riggs turned on the steam to win both. 6-4, 6-4.

No. 2 seeded Joel Hunt, national junior champion of Los Angeles, overcame the initial lead of Billy McGehee, New Orleans, to win, 9-7, 6-2. Wayne Sabin, Hollywood, Cal., No. 3 seeded, took Tom Stokes, New Orleans, 6-1, 6-4.

Ernie Sutter, New Orleans, downed J. C. Sanford, Mobile, Ala., 6-4, 6-3.

Wilmer Hines, Berkeley, Cal., won over Elwood Cooke, Portland, Ore., 6-4, 7-5.

Bernard Coughlan, Pacific Palisades, Cal., beat Douglas Watters, New Orleans, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Frank Kovacs, Oakland, Cal., downed Warren Doyle, New Orleans, 6-1, 6-0.

Rose Bowl Official En Route With Bride

JACKSON, Miss., Dec. 28.—(AP) Julius Burghard, Southeastern conference football official who will umpire the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, was en route to the Pacific coast today with his bride.

Burghard and Miss Elizabeth Provine, niece of Dr. J. W. Provine, of Clinton, president of the S. I. A. A. conference, were married at Clinton Christmas Day.

U. S. BRIDGE DESIGNER, IRA G. HEDRICK, 69, DIES

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Ira Grant Hedrick, 69, who designed bridges in the United States, Mexico and Canada, died at his home here today.

One of his major accomplishments was the Burnside bridge in Portland, Ore., said to be the first lift span bridge with car tracks and automatic trolley connections.

ROOSEVELT FAVORS MONOPOLIES, SAYS EX-CHIEF OF BUDGET

Lewis W. Douglas Terms Administration 'Capricious and Punitive.'

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 28.—(AP) Lewis W. Douglas, former United States budget director, told the American Political Science Association today that the Roosevelt administration was "capricious, intemperate and punitive" and that its program was "essentially monopolistic."

Douglas, now president-elect of McGill University, declared that "instead of temperately reducing, as it promised in 1932, the powerful vested private interest which had grown up in the soil so well fertilized by its predecessor," the administration had "created a vast array of additional vested interests."

Accepting Monopoly.

"Instead of attempting to make monopolistic tactics less prevalent it has accepted monopoly as desirable," he said.

Douglas asserted this "entire theory is contrary to what was at least up to a few years ago, the traditional American distrust of excessive power, public as well as private."

William Y. Elliott, of Harvard University, proposed government become a "senior partner" in industry where there is "chronic and general public interest."

Under the plan, there would be stock ownership and government directors empowered to vote proxies for any stockholder who so desired.

"Protection Desired."

"I should say that there is an immediate need to exercise this control in the great national public utilities," he said. "Consumer and investor alike require protection. Government is their main hope of safeguarding the true public interest.

"Sheer size dictates need for government participation, though as a partner not manager. The Aluminum Company of America, United States Steel, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company are all good examples of industries whose size makes government participation essential."

JAMES N. MOORE, 78, DIES IN SAVANNAH

Former Atlanta Businessman for 23 Years.

James Norris Moore, Atlanta businessman for 23 years, died Monday afternoon at his residence in Savannah, after a short illness. He was 78 years old.

Born in Marion Center, Pa., Mr. Moore went to Savannah in 1882 and was associated with Peacock-Hunt & Company, as naval stores inspector. He moved to Atlanta in 1893 and was in the cooperage business. He returned to Savannah in 1916, and at the time of his death was president of the Moore Company.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon in the First Presbyterian church, of Savannah. Burial was in Bonaventure cemetery. Surviving are three daughters, the Misses Ethel E. and Lida H. Moore, and Mrs. Robert E. Robinson, all of Savannah; two sons, James N. Moore Jr., of Savannah, and Allen A. Moore, of Macon.

IRA U. KAUFFMAN FUNERAL TODAY

Engineer Will Be Buried at Crown Hill.

Funeral services for Ira U. Kauffman, 55, chief engineer of the Georgia division of the United States Coastal Geodetic Survey, will be held at 10 o'clock this morning from Spring Hill.

Dr. Lester Rumble will conduct the rites and burial will be in Crown Hill cemetery under the direction of H. M. Patterson & Son.

Mr. Kauffman, who died unexpectedly of a cerebral hemorrhage Monday night at his residence, 778 Barnett street, N. E., laid out Druid Hills and other suburban sections of Atlanta with his brother, O. F. Kauffman.

He was a Mason and a member of the Engineering Society of America.

WILLIAM GREEN DUKE FUNERAL CONDUCTED

Services for William Green Duke, assistant department manager of the Fairbanks-Morse Company here, who died yesterday morning at his home, 1777 Charline drive, N. E., after a long illness, were held yesterday morning at Spring Hill. The Rev. W. E. Crane conducted the rites and the body was taken to Gadsden, Ala., for burial.

Mr. Duke had lived in Atlanta eight years, coming here from Birmingham. He attended Emory University and was a member of Phi Kappa Phi, honorary scholastic fraternity. He was born in Duke, Ala., and had been connected with the Fairbanks-Morse Company three years.

MACON STORE OWNER DIES OF AUTO INJURIES

MACON, Ga., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Louis L. Snyder, 51, proprietor of a ladies' ready-to-wear store here, died in a Waycross hospital this morning. He was injured in an automobile wreck near that city Sunday, in which his sister, Mrs. Abe Weiner, Chattanooga, was killed.

The bodies are being brought to this city for a double funeral Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Snyder was a Mason and Shriner. He was a native of Russia, coming to New York at the age of 20.

GILLESPIE SADLER GIVEN GOLD MEDAL

Railway Express Honors Employe for 50 Years Continues Service.

A gold medal was awarded to Gillespie Sadler, superintendent of claims for the Railway Express Agency, yesterday in recognition of his 50 years continuous service. The presentation was made at a luncheon in the Capital City Club.

Beginning his career with the company at Charlotte in 1887, with subsequent assignments at Lynchburg and Richmond, Sadler came to Atlanta in 1918, when all of the express companies were consolidated as a war measure.

W. W. Owens, vice president of the southern departments of the Railway Express Agency, made the presentation address.

LAST CHANCE ASKED FOR STOCK MARKET

(Copyright, 1937, by United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28. Chairman William O. Douglas, of the Securities and Exchange Commission, has proposed to congress secretly that it give stock market officials a last chance to put their house in order but warned that the government must keep a shotgun "loaded, well-oiled and ready for use" behind the door to see that the job is done right, it was learned tonight.

Unless the exchange leaders act to prevent the markets from assuming the "proportions of a casino," Douglas reported that the SEC next year may submit blueprints for an "enlarged program" of regulations.

1,271 Georgians Placed on Jobs Within a Week

Marion A. O'Connor, director of the Georgia Employment Service, said yesterday the state and national re-employment services placed a total of 1,271 Georgia residents in jobs during the week ending December 18.

The state service placed a total of 644, with 342 in positions in private industry and 302 in public works job.

The Macon district led in placements in private employment during the week with 126 while Albany was second with 86.

The state service listed its private placement as follows: Macon 126, Atlanta 81, Savannah 48, Augusta 45, Columbus 12.

The national service listed private placements as: Albany 86, Rome 84, Dublin 27, Athens 16, Valdosta 15, Griffin 14, Tifton 13, Gainesville 8, Waycross 7.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR SCHARF

Services for Captain John A. Scharf, 63, director and organizer of the Atlanta Police band, who died Sunday night, were conducted yesterday afternoon in the chapel of Awtry & Lowndes, with the Rev. H. A. DeWald officiating. The body was taken to Cincinnati for burial.

Formerly of Cincinnati, Captain Scharf came to Atlanta 20 years ago and became connected with the old Excelo Hall Music Company. A few years later he helped to organize the police band and was its leader for 15 years. Five years ago he also was given the post of custodian of the police department which he held until he became ill two months ago.

WORKER HURT IN BLAST AT TORPEDO STATION

NEWPORT, R. I., Dec. 28.—(AP) John J. Goodwin, civilian employe of the United States naval torpedo station, today was injured critically in the explosion of part of a primer at the explosives division of the station.

Goodwin suffered loss of parts of fingers of both hands and deep cuts on his face, chest and left arm. Captain Isaac C. Johnson, inspector of ordnance in charge, appointed a board to investigate the explosion.

CLAUDE RAGAN DIES; EASTMAN BANKER

Funeral Rites Scheduled Today for Dodge County Leader.

EASTMAN, Ga., Dec. 28.—(AP) Claude A. Ragan, 37, banker and one of the best known men in Dodge county, died suddenly of a heart attack at a sanitarium here this morning.

Mr. Ragan, a resident of Dodge county all his life, was cashier and part owner of the Citizens' Clearing Bank, which he organized after the banking holiday which closed all of the nation's banks. Previously he was assistant cashier of the Citizens' Bank of Eastman.

He had extensive holdings in the Eastman Cotton Mills, the Farmers' Bonded Warehouse, Ragan Brothers' cotton gin and store at Greston, near Eastman; Ideal pharmacy and was a stockholder of the Dodge County Advertiser, a weekly newspaper.

He was interested in the Central Cotton Company and also had extensive farming interests.

Mr. Ragan married Miss Vernalee Hardy, of Dodge county, about 12 years ago. She survives, but they have no children.

Other survivors include his mother, Mrs. Nan Ragan; three brothers, R. T., Willie and Herman Ragan; two sisters, Mrs. M. C. Edwards and Mrs. Rufus Barbee, all of Eastman.

Funeral services will be held at the Baptist church here at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Violin Romance Ends in Wedding In N. Y. Tonight

A romance which began three years ago between Jaime de la Feunte, brilliant young Atlanta violinist, and Helen Van Devander Bacchus, of Spokane, Wash., also a gifted violinist, will reach its climax tonight when the two are married at the Riverside church in New York.

The Atlanta violinist is studying under Albert Spalding, who first introduced the couple when they were students at the Juilliard Graduate School of Music in New York. Both violinists are 24 years old, having been born in August, 1913.

Young de la Fuente is now in his last year at the famous school and is being tutored by Spalding for his New York debut. Keeping a 20-year-old custom, he paid a flying visit this week to his aunt, Mrs. John C. Mooar, of 242 Twelfth street, N. E. He returned to New York Monday night.

De la Fuente has played the violin since childhood, and at the age of 16 he won first honors in a statewide contest conducted by the Georgia Federation of Music Clubs. Although a native of New York, he has spent the greater part of his life in Atlanta, having graduated from the Atlanta Conservatory of Music as an honor pupil of Charles Fry.

He has played before numerous celebrated musicians and was recently presented with a violin at one of his recitals in New York. Dr. Emerson Fosdick will perform the wedding ceremony tonight.

30 ARRESTED IN MEXICO ON REBEL PLOT CHARGE

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Secret agents of President Lazaro Cardenas reported tonight they had arrested 30 persons, including public officials, on charges of implication in an "anti-agrarian" plot in Guanajuato state.

Seizure of a supply of rifles, pistols and munitions also was announced. The group, which included 11 women, was accused of aiding rebel bands and distributing seditious propaganda in the state.

Man Who Bluffed Would-Be Bandit Waits Day--Then Gets Frightened

Attorney Who Escaped Death When Pistol Snapped Three Times Didn't Realize Rob Suspect Had Gun Until Latter Began To Pull Trigger.

E. Lee Douglas, Atlanta attorney who nonchalantly bluffed a would-be bandit into arrest Monday, didn't get frightened until yesterday when he reviewed his narrow escape.

"Monday I was calm," he explained, "because I acted on a subconscious impulse. When I bought my first automobile years ago, I told myself that if ever a bandit ordered me to drive on I would remain cool and refuse to obey him. Monday I did just that. But Tuesday, when I thought of the chance I had taken—well, believe me, I got scared."

Douglas was taking the keys out of his car, intending to go up to his apartment home at 8 Collier road, when Jack Lewis, taxicab bandit suspect who gave a Gaskill street address, pushed himself into the car, and ordered Douglas to drive on. The attorney shoved him out. Then Lewis drew a gun and snapped the trigger three times—but fortunately the gun only clicked.

Then Douglas reached over to the pocket of his car, in which there was no weapon, and said, "All right, mister—now I'll shoot you."

Lewis ran into a line of garages between 2 and 8 Collier road, where Douglas and two negroes captured him.

Asked if pushing Lewis out of the car wasn't difficult, Douglas replied: "No. He wasn't much of a man, and offered no resistance. Only when he was out on the sidewalk trying to shoot me did I realize that he had a gun."

BANDIT SUSPECT GRILLED IN GRAND ROBBERY

Jack Lewis, who was captured by an unarmed negro Monday after he attempted to hold up E. Lee Douglas, Atlanta attorney, was being held in Fulton tower without bond last night for questioning about the recent $3,000 robbery of the F. & W. Grand store.

Lewis, 27, of a Gaskill road address, denied any connection with the Grand robbery. He also denied taking $90 from a man on Carnegie way several days ago in a robbery which county police said was very similar to three thefts Lewis admitted staging here recently.

Police records showed that the suspect had been arrested in 10 southern cities, including three former arrests here.

Lewis was captured in front of Douglas' apartment at 8 Collier road after his pistol failed to fire three times as he attempted to shoot his intended victim.

Capture was effected by James Smith, negro spectator, who pretended he had a gun when he trapped the fleeing robber in a near-by garage.

At police headquarters three taxicab drivers identified Lewis as the man who had robbed them on recent dates.

INDUSTRIAL GAINS REPORTED IN SOUTH

Expansion of $1,650,000 Shown; 65,735 Given Permanent Employment.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 28.—(AP)—The Southern States Industrial Council said today that southern industry expanded by $1,650,000 during 1937, giving permanent employment to 65,735 workers.

The council's figures, announced following its annual survey, were based on programs either completed or launched during the year.

"Notable among the new manufacturing enterprises was the expansion of the paper and pulp industry," the report continued, adding that since 1935 some $85,000,000 had been invested in southern plants to provide employment for 13,000. It said production capacity was doubled in the last two years.

New industries cited by the council included:

Manufacture of china in Georgia, pottery in Alabama, various types of chemical plants in southeastern states, trailer manufacture and the manufacture of dairy machinery.

The report added that new interest centered in branches of the chemical industry including rayon, acetates, fertilizer and acids. It also noted that extensive growth occurred in dairy products, canning and preserving, carbonated beverages, breweries, cotton garment, hosiery and lumber.

Employment was reported at the same level as a year ago.

J. M. ASHLEY SERVICES WILL BE HELD TODAY

VALDOSTA, Ga., Dec. 28.—(AP) J. M. Ashley, 68, secretary of the Valdosta Chamber of Commerce, was killed yesterday in an automobile accident near Jasper, Fla.

Miss Williams Weds Henry P. Goodwin At Morning Service

The marriage of Miss Virginia Glenn Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse B. Williams, of Detroit, Mich., to Henry Pierce Goodwin, of Greenville, S. C., was solemnized yesterday morning at 11 o'clock in All Saints Episcopal church. Bishop H. J. Mikell officiated at the ceremony.

The beauty of the church was enhanced with palms, ferns and white roses at the altar, with seven-branched candelabra holding white tapers interspersing the foliage. Preceding the ceremony, a program of nuptial music was presented by Joseph Ragan, organist.

The ushers were John Daniel Knox and J. Thurman Cobb, both of Atlanta. Mrs. John Daniel Knox, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor and only attendant. She was becomingly gowned in burgundy crepe, fashioned with a wide shirred belt, pearl buckles and pearl clip at the neck. A small off-the-face black hat with a veil, black gloves and shoes completed the ensemble. The bride wore a shoulder cluster of Talisman roses and valley lilies.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Jesse B. Williams, and was met at the altar by the bridegroom and his best man, John Marion Lineberger, of Greenville, S. C.

Mrs. Jesse B. Williams, mother of the bride, wore ice blue satin and black accessories. Her shoulder spray was Talisman roses and sweet peas. Mrs. H. P. Goodwin, mother of the bridegroom, wore black crepe trimmed with flesh-colored crepe. Pale pink roses and sweet peas were worn at her shoulder.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin left for a wedding trip through Florida. After the first of the year they will be at home in Greenville, S. C.

Miss Mary Orme Feted at Tea-Dance

The ballroom of the Capital City Club was the scene yesterday of the tea-dance at which Miss Mary Ellen Orme, attractive member of the sub-deb contingent, was honored by her grandmother, Mrs. John S. Cohen, and her mother, Mrs. Jean Bienvenu.

The ballroom was decorated with smilax and palms and the tea tables, placed the length of the room, were adorned by bunches of red poinsettias and the punch bowls embedded in smilax and holly.

Miss Orme wore a becoming frock of brown taffeta with yellow flower print featuring short puffed sleeves and bouffant skirt. Her corsage was of yellow roses and valley lilies.

Mrs. Lollie Markham Pickett, of Griffin, and Mrs. Edward K. Van Winkle assisted in entertaining the 250 members of the young social set who were invited to meet Miss Orme.

Party at 'The Shack' HonorsCollege Belles

Members of the younger college set assembled at "The Shack" last evening as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Wardlaw, who entertained at their country home at Dunwoody, Ga.

Honor guests for the affair were Miss Frances Spratlin, schoolgirl daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spratlin, and her guests, Misses Lyel Glenn, of Winston-Salem, and Jane Lee, of Evanston, Ill.

The interior of the home, which is one of the most picturesque suburban homes of Atlantans, was beautifully decorated with the Christmas greens. A huge tree trimmed in colored lights was placed in the living room of "The Shack" and was laden with Christmas novelties for the guests, who numbered 24.

A feature of the entertainment for the evening was the "Hill Billy" orchestra, which played for dancing and for the Big Apple. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spratlin assisted the hosts in entertaining.

Miss Doughty Honored By Miss Bellinger.

Miss Mildred Doughty, of New York, who is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. H. E. Harman, on Juniper street, was honor guest at the buffet luncheon given yesterday by Miss Lucia Bellinger at her Peachtree road home. Miss Doughty is a student at Mount Holyoke College in Massachusetts. Mrs. Bessie Brady Bellinger assisted her daughter in entertaining.

Red and silver predominated in the decorations in the home, and the lace-covered table in the dining room was beautified with a mound of red roses, and silver candlesticks held red tapers.

Miss Cara Hinman Is Honor Guest.

Mrs. Ruth Hinman Carter and her sister, Miss Dorothy Hinman, were hostesses last evening at an informal party at their home on Piedmont avenue honoring their sister, Miss Cara Hinman, who arrived last week from Washington, D. C.

A feature of entertainment will be an informal program, presenting Miss Cara Hinman, soprano; Miss Dorothy Hinman, reader; Mrs. Paul Bryan, pianist, and Mrs. George Loemker, cellist.

A Lotion Indispensable for Women Who Indulge in Outdoor Sports

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

SEATTLE, Wash., Monday.—Last evening I looked out of my window before I went to bed and everything was white with snow. It was very lovely, if you were just looking at the scenery, but not very encouraging if you were planning to fly east the next day.

Today dawned gray and cloudy and rain is falling. It might be a winter day in Washington. If I could just stay here and sit by the fire and read and knit and talk, I would ask for nothing better.

Part of the joy of winter is the sense of protection that being closed in a warm living room gives one. The closeness of family ties is intensified by the stormy weather out of doors.

Being here has been a great pleasure and I hate to leave, but, if possible, I must be home by Thursday to see something of my family in Washington. I so often wish I could be in two, or even three, places at once.

Now I am to start east, and how shall I go? By this time I think the heads of the various airlines and railroads must think my son-in-law has a strangely uncertain guest who cannot decide what she wants to do nor when she wants to do it. Several newspaper offices have called up to inquire when Mrs. Roosevelt is starting east and I am sure they think I am lying when I say that I haven't the vaguest idea.

I am fairly sure now, however, that by the time this starts over the wires I will be getting on a train. I hope to be notified on the way that I can get out and board a plane.

Before I left Washington, a friend of mine, Mrs. Carl Vrooman, whose husband was assistant secretary of agriculture in Woodrow Wilson's administration, sent me a novel which she had published some years ago. It is a limited edition and has a most charming picture of Mrs. Vrooman with her mother, Mrs. Scott, as a frontispiece. Mrs. Scott must have been a rather delightful older woman. There is strength in her face, but with it all a quizzical expression. She seems to say: "This world is a funny world. Let's get what amusement we can out of it, even if we do have to seem serious about it."

The novel might be called a political novel. It gives a very good picture of the various strains under which a man must live in public life and the temptations that may come to him under different guises.

"The High Road to Honor" may seem improbable to some people, but no one who has watched many political battles will deny the possible truth of most of the incidents. Though we may not be able to duplicate these occurrences exactly in our own experience, we can remember many happenings of a similar nature. It is a readable book and I think many people will find it enlightening.

Pleasant Homes

By ELIZABETH McRAE BOYKIN.

TO VARY THE USUAL.

I want some excitement around here.

When she said: "I want some excitement around here!" she didn't mean that she wanted the fire trucks to come screaming up to her door or craved a little larceny of the family plate—she was looking at her dining room and wondering how a very usual dining suite in a quite usual dining room could be made just a little more interesting. She thought a while, called up a painter, and now she has excitement and interest aplenty. And not too expensively, either.

Her furniture was nice mahogany, but not of the more fashionable type. It had been bought when dining furniture was inclined to be slightly hybrid as to design and included a long, oval table, a sideboard, upholstered chair seats and a china closet. First she splurged and had broadloom carpeting in a lovely deep rose placed on the floor. The walls and ceiling were painted a soft hydrangea blue, almost white, with just a touch of blue. Over ninon glass curtains dyed to match the walls exactly she hung simple swags of hydrangea pink satin—that delicate, new blue-pink that is so smart now. The seats of the dining room chairs were upholstered in a lighter shade of the rug.

Silver Highlights.

Of course, highlights came with her really lovely silver tea service on the sideboard and the collection of Wedgwood in the china closet. The entire effect was surprisingly modern yet really homelike, too.

The whole trick was to catch the rosy tones of the mahogany, pep them up with touches of rosy blues and bright spots of silver, and thus "sink" the out-dated furniture into the depths of a beautiful setting. This lady keeps the top of her oval table shining to perfection, and she's very careful to have the decoration in its center not too flamboyant or compelling. The sideboard is a nicely proportioned piece of furniture so here she centers interest with bouquets of flowers in harmonious colors or interesting arrangements of her silver.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: During the new year I am planning to be married to a widower with two children, a daughter 12 and a son 14. As I am most anxious to make a success of my marriage, can you tell me how to go about the task of being a stepmother to these children?

ABOUT-TO-BE-MARRIED.

Answer: In a sentence: curry favor with them, make friends with them and leave the discipline to their daddy. This is the way to attend to the task of being stepmother and this is the way to make a success of your marriage. If you are broad-minded enough to put yourself in the place of these youngsters, see with their eyes and think their thoughts, you won't find this an impossible task.

Remember, they didn't choose you to take their mother's place with them or their father. The very most you can expect of them at first, is toleration. Until they have a chance to observe you at close range, get your number and see how you work, they won't fall over themselves in welcoming you. They want assurance that you are not going to usurp their place with the father. They want to satisfy themselves that you really love him and aren't marrying him for what he has or for what he can do for you. Of course they had rather not have you at all, but if you can come through with what's on their calendar of expectations, the chances are they will be good sports about it.

Practically every stepmother believes she can put it over, win the steps and draw them into the circle with her and their father; otherwise she'd hesitate to undertake the task. What she doesn't figure on is that she has to break down their resistance to her before she can hope to win them, and that she cannot break down that resistance if she permits any impasse to arise between her and any one of them. This is why it's cagey for her to leave the discipline to their father, tote no tales to him and pick no fights.

Only the other day a thoughtful person was commenting on the natural antipathy of adolescent children to their father's remarriage and this was the comment: Biologically they revolt at the thought. Sentimentally they are wounded by it and economically they are frightened. Now that should give any prospective stepmother food for thought. Young children couldn't be expected to recognize their father's need for companionship with one of his own age. They couldn't be expected to understand his reaching out for another wife when they aren't reaching out for another mother. Naturally they think he should be satisfied with them as they are with him. Yet he isn't and that's their luck.

So the stepmother enters the home with all the odds against her and it's not nearly enough for her to be conscientious. She's got to be kindly, careful, tactful and tolerant to overcome the natural antagonism that exists in the hearts of children toward any woman—not her in particular—their father might bring in to take their mother's place and preside over their home. When she succeeds she not only has the satisfaction of winning their love and confidence but she doubly endears herself to her husband.

Miss Chapman, Fiance Honored at Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Evans entertained last evening at a rehearsal party at their home on Club drive honoring Miss Edythe Chapman and her fiance, A. Sydney Williams, of Copenhagen, Denmark.

Assisting Mr. and Mrs. Evans in entertaining were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Hamm, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Rowbotham, and Mr. and Mrs. Ward Wight. Guests included members of the wedding party.

The lace-covered supper table was centred with a blue mirror upon which was placed a miniature model of the S. S. Bremen, the steamer on which the young couple will begin their honeymoon. A low bowl of pastel flowers outlined the mirror and silver candelabra held lighted blue tapers at either end of the artistically decorated table. Silver wedding bells were suspended from the lights by pastel ribbons.

Open House.

Mr. nd Mrs. Everett Estes were hosts at open house at their home on North Hills drive last evening.

A gayly lighted tree, holly and Christmas greens formed the decorations. In the dining room the lace-covered table was adorned with red tapers and fruit.

Mr. and Mrs. Estes' guests were a group of the young married contingent.

Best Cough Remedy Is Easily Mixed at Home

It's So Easy! Makes a Big Saving. No Cooking.

To get the quickest relief from coughs due to colds, mix your own remedy at home. Once tried, you'll never use any other kind of cough medicine, and it's so simple and easy.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. A child could do it. No cooking needed.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of really better medicine than you could buy ready-made for four times the money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick, blessed relief, it has no equal. You can feel it penetrating the air passages in a way that means business. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membranes, and eases the soreness. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Beauty According To You

(Posed by Sigrid Gurie)

By LILLIAN MAE.

There's one problem common to all women—housewives, business girls, wintersports girls, women traveling in winter-fun places. That is the problem of preventing or healing wind-burned and chapped skin.

There is a pink, lustrous, very feminine kind of lotion which you can almost see renewing the velvety smoothness of your skin. It's so soft, creamy and luscious that it's a joy to use—and it has so many uses. Smoothed on as a powder base before going out, it counteracts the drying effect produced by going from overheating houses to bitter out-of-doors. Rubbed on hands, legs and tops of heels just above the shoe line, it prevents ugly chapping and chafing.

If you have already suffered from overdue exposure, spread this lotion on the tender spots and see how quickly it will soothe away windburn, soften frost-nipped or water-roughened skin and give back to dry, drawn faces, hands and arms the moisture so badly needed.

Then, it's an excellent body rub—grand for smoothing goose pimply arms or roughened legs.

Undoubtedly you feel that a preparation which does so many things costs a small fortune, but this one doesn't. And the bottle is one that is designed for easy packing. So if you are going traveling, you'll want to tuck one into your toilet case. After trying the preparation one time, you'll consider it a "must" for all types of weather and climate.

Phone me at my office in The Constitution building for the name of this item and the stores in Atlanta at which it may be purchased. If you do not live in Atlanta, write, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Druid Hills Church Forms Setting For Wise-Perry Wedding Rites

Miss Janice Wise became the bride of Thomas Stanley Perry Jr. last evening at Druid Hills Methodist church, with Dr. John Brandon Peters, pastor of the church, officiating. Mrs. Victor Clark and Haskell Boyter presented a program of appropriate music.

Palms and ferns were banked about the altar and large baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums and seven-branched cathedral candelabra holding lighted white tapers were silhouetted against the foliage. The pews for the families were marked with bows of white tulle and valley lilies.

Ushers were Raymond Clarke, John Morrison, J. Ambrus Thornton, Robert Perry, brother of the groom, and John Winchester.

Miss Olive West was the bride's maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Betty White, Mrs. Berryman Hinson and Mrs. J. Ambrus Thornton. Miss Barbara Perry was junior bridesmaid. They were similarly dressed in gowns of peacock blue slipper satin, featuring fitted bodices, the low neckline of which were caught with clips. They wore shoulder-length veils of tulle caught to their hair by bandeaus of blue flowers and carried arm bouquets of red roses tied with red satin ribbon.

The lovely bride entered with her father, Ralph Edward Wise, by whom she was given in marriage and they were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Larry Trexler, of Knoxville, Tennessee.

The bride wore white satin fashioned with a cowl neck and fitted bodice. Chantilly lace was set in the waistline and gradually widened over the hips and extended into the long train. The tight sleeves were puffed at the shoulders and ended in points over the hands. The long tulle veil, showered with orange blossoms, was caught to her hair with a cap of lace encircled with a bandeau of orange blossoms. The veil was worn by Mrs. Max R. Hall, of New York, formerly Miss Elizabeth Holsembach, of Atlanta, a life-long friend of the bride. The bride's bouquet was of roses and valley lilies, centered with orchids and tied with white satin ribbon.

Mrs. Wise, mother of the bride, were chautreuse velvet and her shoulder bouquet was of purple orchids.

Mrs. Perry, mother of the groom, wore rose lace with a shoulder bouquet of gardinias and valley lilies.

GIANT RUBBER BAND RACE GREAT FUN.

You wouldn't miss a party at the Barretts' for love or money. They know all the new stunts and games—each as lively and jolly as the Giant Rubber Band Race they're doing now.

To stage this hilarious race, all you have to do is to take two rubber bands of elastic, each big enough to encircle two people.

Line up your guests in couples, divide into two teams with an equal number of couples on each, and give the first couple of each team one of your Giant Rubber Bands.

As fast as they can, each couple slips the band over their heads, pulls it off over their feet and passes it to the next pair. As the first line to finish gets ice cream and the losers get bean soup, each team struggles madly to "beat the band."

As your guests come in, lead them mysteriously to a table where you've placed five boxes. Blindfold each guest, ask him to choose a box. If there's a ring in the box he picks, he'll be engaged soon. If there are pennies he'll have money. A stamp says good news; a key, a journey; a thimble, hard work.

Or are your guests slow to mix? Try Letter Carrier. Give everybody an envelope which has two smaller envelopes, one inside the other. Tom Jones sees the first envelope inside the one he received is addressed to Alice Brown. He delivers it and she sees that the next one is for John Smith. By the time the last letter's delivered, the ice has melted, for keeps.

In our 40-page booklet, Games for Good Parties, are many more gay stunts—simple and inexpensive—that will make you the most popular hostess in town.

Send 15c for our booklet, GAMES FOR GOOD PARTIES to Home Institute, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and the NAME of the booklet.

G. S. C. W. Tea.

Mrs. Schley Thompson entertained the G. S. C. W. Alumnae Club of Atlanta and G. S. C. W. girls from the college who are at home for the holidays, with a tea recently at her home, 28 East Shadowlawn avenue. Receiving with Mrs. Thompson were: John Schley Thompson, Mrs. M. L. Wise and Mrs. Marie Anderson.

Mrs. Howard Pattillo and Miss Julie Mae Fillingim poured tea and coffee. Honor guests were Miss Jenkins, president of the G. S. C. W. Alumnae Association, and Miss Lucile Wright, past president of the Georgia State College for Women's Alumnae Club of Atlanta.

Sigma Delta Xi.

HEALTH TALKS

LITTLE LESSONS IN PHYSIOLOGY.
2. Peristalsis.

A schedule of the normal course of food or food residue through the alimentary canal:

7 A. M.—Breakfast.

9:30 to 10 A. M.—Stomach digestion finished, Chyme passes into duodenum, through pylorus or lower gateway of stomach, leaving stomach empty.

11 to 12 A. M.—Chyme is passing from duodenum on through the jejunum into the ileum, the last part of small intestine.

2 P. M.—The food residue or waste—nearly all digestion has been completed, is now ready to pass through the ileo-cecal valve into the colon or large bowel.

6 P. M.—Residue arrives at the first turn in the colon, under the liver, called the hepatic flexure.

2 A. M.—Residue reaches the second turn in the colon, near the spleen, called the splenic flexure.

8 A. M. to Midnight of the Second Day—Residue arrives at the end of sigmoid (S-shaped) part of colon or entrance to the rectum.

Normally none of the residue of a meal is expelled from the rectum until from 18 to 24 hours after the meal is eaten, and tests in many healthy persons have shown that the passage of the food through the alimentary tract may require 40 hours.

Normally the rectum is always empty. The impulse or desire for evacuation is produced by the entrance into the rectum of food residue or waste from the sigmoid or pelvic portion of the colon.

The churning or wormlike movements of stomach and small intestine need not concern us. The peristaltic movements of the large intestine or colon, all automatic and wholly beyond control or regulation by the will or by any medicinal or mechanical agents, are chiefly two or three daily vigorous onward thrusts or mass movements in which the fecal mass or masses are propelled through the colon to the entrance of the rectum. These mass peristaltic movements are more likely to occur shortly after food or drink is taken into the stomach.

As soon as the fecal mass enters the rectum, the distension of the rectum gives rise to a perineal sensation and the desire to defecate. This accounts for the general habit of evacuation after breakfast.

All of these functions, like the regular beating of the heart, being controlled entirely by the autonomic, unconscious, involuntary nervous system, are most efficient when the individual does not watch or attempt to "regulate" or interfere with them.

Since it normally requires 40 to 48 hours for food residue, waste or perhaps a foreign body to pass through the alimentary tract there is no occasion for anxiety if evacuation happens to be delayed for a day or two.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
X-Ray.

What effect would X-ray have on the flesh if used too strong? It was used in treating a skin disease and for taking a picture. (J. S. J.)

Answer—No effect. The effect of overexposure is manifest by the skin. If there was no burn or similar effect, it will have had no effect on the flesh underneath. There is no risk of any untoward effect from the momentary exposure to X-ray for taking a picture.

Healthy Young Woman.

Believe in giving bouquets to the living. We have read your paper 41 years and your column ever since it began. On your suggestion started two years ago taking an iodin ration. My hair is not gray, although all my friends have white hair, and I am 65. It also gives me "pep," and I can accomplish more than others of my age. I eat plain wheat, too, also plenty of vegetables and milk, not much meat, sweets or rich food. (M. E. P.)

Answer—Let's have a new deal. We want 5,000 human guinea pigs with hair beginning to turn gray to try out the iodin ration and see whether it stops the graying of the hair or even, as some correspondents assure us, restores the pristine color to hair that has already turned gray (of course, we believe whatever our readers tell us.) For instructions for taking an iodin ration, send stamped envelope bearing your address. Makes no difference whether you are 15 or 50.

Miss Croft Honors Miss Mary Morris.

Miss Miriam Croft entertained at a tea at her home on Kingsboro road in honor of Miss Mary Morris, popular debutante. Guests were received by the hostess, honor guest, Mrs. H. L. Morris, and Mrs. George Croft, who stood before the mantel banked with palms and ferns.

Mesdames Clyde Watson and Jack Spence, Misses Jane Franklin, Marion Walker, Suzanne Spence, Betty Hatcher and Anna Belle Watson assisted in entertaining. The table in the dining room was decorated with a bowl filled with red carnations and narcissi and red tapers glowed in the candelabra.

Miss Betty Hatcher gave a dinner last evening for Miss Morris at the Ansley hotel dinner-dance, and was assisted in entertaining by Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Arch Horacek and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hatcher, parents of the hostess.

For Orlando Visitors.

Miss Mary Ann Kidd and Mr. and Mrs. C. Preston Burnett, of Orlando, Fla., were central figures at an open house given by their brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Kidd, at their home, 1055 Amsterdam avenue, N. E., recently.

Assisting in entertaining were Misses Lillian May Heptinstall, Charlotte Babb and Ann Kidd, Mesdames Brooks McCrorey and Henry Taylor. Mrs. F. Marian Swanson presided over the coffee service, and Mrs. Allan V. Gray poured tea.

Mrs. Indell Honors Duo of Debutantes.

Mrs. Harry Indell entertained at a beautifully appointed luncheon yesterday at her home on Bolling road in honor of a duo of popular debutantes, Misses Ethel Erwin and Kathryn Barnwell.

Assembling at 11 o'clock, the guests played bridge before luncheon, which was served at a table graced in the center with a silver bowl filled with red roses.

Mesdames William Barnwell, E. A. Erwin and C. A. Broward assisted the hostesses in entertaining.

Your Figure, Madame!

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

FOREIGN PRIMA DONNAS AMERICANIZE THEIR FIGURES.

How to reduce your weight and improve your language: Go to a country where you know the names of only two or three foods! That was the humorous experience of the vivacious Gina Cigna, Italy's latest gift to Metropolitan Opera, on her arrival in this country last winter, and she credits it with the quick loss of 10 pounds.

"I was hungry all the time during those first few weeks here, and all I could order was eggs, fruit, toast and milk—which became very tiresome when repeated for every meal!" But, Madame Cigna insists, the experience was beneficial "because it forced me to improve my English and it made me lose weight very quickly."

During this time, Madame Cigna discovered that America likes its stars streamlined—whether they are in radio, pictures, or in the diamond horseshoe of the Metropolitan, and she continued her diet—"but with sense!" This meant giving up some of those delicious Italian dishes made with potato flour, forcemeat, rich sauce and olive oil, and which are unsurpassed in either quality or calories!

High calorie dishes do not fit in with plans for streamlines, and this famous singer was determined to keep her weight down to American standards. She transferred her preferences to green vegetables, salads, fresh fruits, clear soups and whole grain bread. "A balanced menu is so varied that it can be interesting and easy to follow," declares this streamlined diva.

Madame Cigna is also exercise-minded and she has some new and vigorous exercises which you will like. If you can do them, you are good!

Position: Arms down at sides in back, hands grasping a yardstick near the ends.

Movement: Step backward, one foot at a time, through the hoop formed by the arms and the yardstick. Now, raise the stick in front of the body and high overhead, stretching upward with the body. Then lower the stick behind the back and repeat the exercise three times, gradualy increasing the number. As you become supple, decrease the distance between the hands on the yardstick, making the hoop smaller.

You have to be good to do this.

Another favorite with this determined celebrity was borrowed from her young son, who is in military school.

The position is a horizontal one on the floor, face downward. Your weight is supported by hands and feet, and knees and elbows are straight. Suddenly, give a spring, and bring the body into a squatting position. Keep the arms straight, and jump backward until you are again in horizontal position. This is extremely strenuous work for unconditioned muscles, and once may be enough for the first few days.

Madame Cigna likes these exercises because they can be performed in a small space, but for fun, she likes horseback riding and would be found on the bridle paths every single morning if she could manage the time.

Novel Invitations Are Issued For Party Honoring Bridal Pair

By Sally Forth.

UNIQUE invitations have been issued by Phil McDuffie Jr. to the aperitif party at which he will be host tomorrow from 5:30 to 7:30 o'clock at his Cherokee road home for Catherine Campbell and Randy Hearst, in whose bridal party Phil will act as groomsman. Attractive photographs of the honor guests adorn the top of the invitation, which is in the form of a Christmas card, decorated on the outside with red candles in green holders and a cheery fire glows in the fireplace in the middle of the card.

At the top of the invitation leading from the photographs of Catherine and Randy, green arrows point to the residence located at 7 Cherokee road, where the party takes place. The name of the date of each guest is written in the lower right-hand corner, and "R.S.V.P." is lettered in green in the other corner. Sketches of a cocktail bar and a well-known colored musician who is famous for his pianistic talent, give the guests an idea of the good time to expect at Phil's party.

A floor show presented by professional talent will provide entertainment during the aperitif hours, and assisting the host will be his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip McDuffie, Mr. and Mrs. Morton Campbell, parents of the bride-elect, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Kennedy. Phil's guests will include members of the bridal personnel of Catherine and Randy, who marry on January 12 at Sacred Heart church.

ADDING interest to the brilliant Nine O'Clocks' costume ball on New Year's Eve will be the presence of lovely Eunice Holdnerness, of St. Louis, who arrives Friday to be the guest of her cousin, Laura Maddox. Laura, you remember, has just returned from a visit to Eunice in St. Louis, where she was the toast of society and had more parties planned for her than time would permit.

Eunice, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin E. Holderness, is a debutante this season, her formal presentation having been made at a brilliant ball given by her parents in November. A glowing tribute to her popularity was her selection as one of the four maids for the Veiled Prophets' ball, an annual event which high lighted the fall and winter social calendar in St. Louis. You probably remember seeing her picture in Life and Town and Country, wearing the stunning costume in which she appeared in her role at the ball.

Though she will only remain here through the week end, Eunice will receive a royal welcome from a host of friends made on former visits, and every moment of her stay will be filled with parties planned in her honor.

A FORMER Atlantan, Mrs. E. P. Crenshaw, is among the prominent women recently awarded an orchid by the Birmingham News. Mrs. Crenshaw now makes her home in Calera, Ala., and since taking up residence there has become identified with as many worth-while interests as claimed her attention when she was a beloved and valued citizen of Atlanta.

In qualifying her for the high honor, the News says of Mrs. Crenshaw:

"Mrs. Crenshaw has been a teacher in the public schools, an artist, a member of the U. D. C., and an organizer of garden clubs in the south before such work was fashionable.

"She was first president of the fourth garden club in the south in Atlanta, and received a silver cup in appreciation of her services. Mrs. Crenshaw was a teacher for the American Rose Society for many years, was organizer and vice president of the Georgia Gladiolus Society, and is a charter member of the Georgia Botanical Society. Moving back to Alabama, Mrs. Crenshaw organized and is president of the Calera Garden Club.

"She is now honorary member of the six garden clubs, a lecturer of note on things pertaining to the garden, and a writer on horticulture for magazines and newspapers.

"Welfare work has also taken much of her time. During the World War she received a Red Cross service pin for her work in that organization and a letter from President Wilson for her patriotic work. She is a member of the first organized charity in Atlanta, known as the King's Daughters.

"Mrs. Crenshaw is the wife of Edward Price Crenshaw, of Greenville, Ala., and is the mother of four children."

Cliett–Glocke.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Cliett announce the marriage of their daughter, Fan, to Ernest Glocke, which was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents on East Tenth street on December 25.

MR. AND MRS. WARREN E. FOSTER.

Centering wide social interest was the beautiful wedding ceremony of last evening at St. Luke's Episcopal church, at which Miss Claudia Moore Smaw became the bride of Warren Ellington Foster. The Rev. John Moore Walker, rector of the church, officiated in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives.

The church was effectively decorated with palms, ferns and Easter lilies. Two vases of lilies were placed on either side of the altar and cathedral candelabra held burning white tapers. The pews for the families were marked by clusters of lilies tied with white satin ribbon. Hugh Hodgson, organist, gave a musical program prior to and during the ceremony.

Mrs. Asbury Greene Jr., sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Miss Betty King was maid of honor. The bridesmaids included Mrs. Charles Powell Jr., of Rocky Mount, N. C., and Misses Katherine McMillan and Kitty Butner. Little Gail Greene, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Dr. Charles Powell Jr., of Rocky Mount, N. C.; George Schoen, Jack Winshaw, Harry Foster, Willis McCrary and Joe Bennett were ushers, and the groomsmen were Ralp Kirkley, Oscar Davis, Asbury Greene Jr. and Hatton Smaw Jr.

The maid of honor wore a model of fuchsia moire taffeta with a girdle with tiny covered buttons down the front of the the bodice and the girdle. The matron of honor and bridesmaids wore similar models of turquoise moire taffeta. The attendants carried mixed bouquets of talisman roses, orange and pink snapdragons, tied with talisman-colored ribbon, and wore pearls, the gift of the bride. The flower girl wore a miniature gown in a fuchsia shade and carried a bouquet of valley lilies.

The lovely bride entered with her father, William Hatton Smaw, who gave her in marriage, and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Frank Harrold. She was becomingly gowned in an empire model of white satin fashioned with a drop-shoulder effect with a heart-shaped neckline, puffed sleeves and a fitted full skirt which flared into a train. Her veil, of Duchess lace, which was caught to her dark hair in cap shape, was loaned to her by Mrs. Paul Seydel, for whom it was made in Brussels, Belgium. She carried a bouquet of orchids, gardenias and valley lilies and a lace handkerchief to match her veil, a gift of Mrs. Sydel.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Smaw, parents of the bride, entertained at an informal reception at their home on Palisades road for the wedding party and out-of-town guests. The bride's table was centered with a silver bowl filled with white roses and snapdragons encircled by silver candelsticks holding white tapers.

Mrs. Smaw received her guests in a gown of sage green lace, trimmed with a contrasting green velvet sash, and a corsage of purple orchids. Mrs. Jack Hinshaw, sister of the groom, wore American Beauty satin with a corsage of orchids. Mrs. Willis McCrary, sister of the groom, wore ashes of roses crepe and her flowers were orchids. Mrs. W. G. Sands, aunt of the bride, was gowned in king's blue crepe and she wore orchids.

Miss Margaret Cheshire kept the bride's book, and Mesdames Willis McCrary, Jack Hinshaw, John Carter and Glascock Reynolds assisted in entertaining.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Foster left on their wedding trip to Miami, Fla. Mrs. Foster traveled in a blue woollen suit, trimmed with gray caracul fur, a gray hat and other accessories of gray. Her corsage was of orchids.

Out-of-town guests were Dr. and Mrs. Charles Powell Jr., of Rocky Mount, N. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Sands, of Columbia, S. C.; Harmon Sands, of Birmingham; William D. Sands, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Crane, of Asheville, N. C., and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Dexter Smith, of Tampa, Fla.

Miss Barbara Case Weds Virgil Shutze In New York Today

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Of important social interest is the marriage of Miss Barbara Case, of Atlanta, and Virgil Shutze, of Atlanta, which takes place here today at high noon.

The ceremony will be performed in a suite at the Barbizon Plaza hotel and will be attended by only members of the family and a limited number of friends of the young couple.

The bride, who is a beautiful blonde, will wear a handsome model of beige crepe girdled in brown with an eton jacket of soutache braid. Her hat, shoes and other accessories will be of brown and completing her ensemble will be handsome sables. Her flowers will be shell pink camelias.

Mrs. Case, the bride's mother, will be gowned in a brown crepe spring model. Her has will be of brown antelope trimmed in mink and her flowers will be orchids. Mrs. Edward Brown, of Atlanta, sister of the groom-elect, will wear for the occasion a model of black velvet with hat to match. Her flowers will be orchids.

After the ceremony Mrs. C. C. Case, mother of the bride-elect, entertains at a breakfast at the hotel honoring her daughter and Mr. Shutze. The couple will remain in New York for some time before returning to Atlanta, where they are popular and prominent members of the younger social set.

Miss Sarah Turner And James Ryan Marry at Church

Miss Sarah Turner became the bride of James C. Ryan, of Delavan, Ill., at a beautiful ceremony taking place yesterday morning at the Sacred Heart Catholic church. The Rev. Father John Emmerth officiated and Vincent Hurley, organist, presented a musical program.

Easter lilies, white chrysanthemums and palms and ferns were used as effective decoration. Interspersed among the greenery were cathedral candelabra holding burning white tapers. Clusters of lilies marked the pews for the families.

The ushers were James Delaney, of Miami, Fla., and Robert Johnson, of Selma, Ala., and Miss Jane Turner, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Miss Turner wore a brown sheer wool suit, trimmed with baronduki fur, a brown off-the-face hat and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

The lovely bride entered with her father, Henry Haywood Turner, who gave her in marriage, and they were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Edward O'Brien, of Rockford, Ill. The bride wore a becoming costume suit of cinnamon brown wool with lynx fur panels extending down the front of the three-quarter length coat. Her hat was an off-the-face model of brown velour and her other accessories were brown. She carried a bouquet of orchids.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Ryan left by motor for their wedding trip north. They will reside in Pittsburgh, where the groom is connected with the Westinghouse Electric Company.

Miss Martha Moore Becomes Bride Of Mr. Barron at Church Ceremony

BOLTON, Ga., Dec. 28.—Miss Martha Dean Moore became the bride of Sidney Jackson Barron last evening at a beautiful ceremony taking place at the Collins Memorial church. Rev. R. L. Whitehead, of Hartwell, officiated at 8:30 o'clock in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends of the young couple. Rev. Whitehead read the marriage service from a white satin book which was used at the wedding of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Moore.

The interior of the church was beautifully decorated for the nuptials. The altar was banked with palms and ferns before which was placed three arches in which burned white tapers. On either side of the altar were pedestal baskets filled with Easter lilies. Prior to and during the ceremony a musical program was rendered by Mrs. Mary Griffith Dobbs.

The ushers were Judge Virlyn B. Moore, James M. Moore, James W. Setze Jr. and Edward McDougall. The groomsmen were John Wesley Martin, Chris P. Irby III, Thomas W. Strickland Jr. and Thomas W. Moore Jr.

Miss Aleine Rudisill, of Lincolnton, N. C., was the maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Frances Fields, of Kingston, N. C., and Mesdames Chess Abernathy, of Marietta; Lamar Swift Thomas W. Moore Jr. Miss Lorraine Moore was the junior bridesmaid.

All the attendants were gowned alike in becoming models of yellow slipper satin, fashioned with shirred bodice and off-shoulder neckline. The waistlines were molded and the long full skirts fell in graceful folds and ended with a short train. They carried shower bouquets of talisman roses tied with yellow satin ribbons. The American Beauty roses formed the bouquet carried by the maid of honor.

Entering with her father, Thomas W. Moore, by whom she was given in marriage, the bride was met at the altar by the groom and James Benjamin Barron, who was best man. The bride's beauty was further enhanced by her wedding gown of lustrous white satin fashioned along becoming princess lines. The long skirt was featured by a built-in train and the long sleeves were trimmed with small satin-covered buttons to the elbow. The low square neck was offset by an antique locket and chain, which was the bride's only ornament and which belonged to her grandmother. Her veil of illusion tulle fell in graceful folds over the train from a halo of tiny orange blossoms. The bride carried a shower bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Thomas W. Moore, mother of the bride, was handsomely gowned in a model of rose beige made along becoming princess lines. Her flowers were a shoulder spray of orchids. Mrs. James Benjamin Barron, mother of the groom, was gowned in a beautiful model of blue chiffon. Her flowers were a shoulder spray of orchids. Mrs. Martha Branham Moore, grandmother of the bride, wore a becoming model of black crepe trimmed in silver sequins. Her flowers were gardenias.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Moore entertained at an informal reception at their home for their daughter and Mr. Barron, the guests being limited to members of the wedding party and family.

The bride and groom left for a wedding trip and after January 15 they will reside at 512 North Ashley street, Valdosta. The bride traveled in an ensemble of brown tweed with accessories to match. Her hat was of brown velour trimmed in ostrich feathers.

West End Club Will Give Party

Mr., Mrs. Haverty Honor Miss Akers

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Haverty were hosts at a buffet supper given last evening at their home on Cherokee road as a complimentary gesture to Miss Ida Akers, lovely debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Akers. Sixty members of the unmarried contingent of society were invited to meet the honor guest.

Yuletide decorations, including holly and cedar boughs, poinsettias and red roses, adorned the lower floor of the home. In the living room where the guests were received was a gaily decorated Christmas tree strung with multi-colored lights. The lace-covered table in the dining room held as a centerpiece a silver bowl filled with poinsettias and Easter lilies. Tall red tapers in silver holders completed the appointments.

Mr. and Mrs. Haverty were assisted in entertaining by their daughter, Miss Clare Haverty, and Mr. and Mrs. William Akers.

Mrs. Haverty received her guests wearing a gown of wine-colored velvet. Miss Haverty was gowned in blue metal cloth and Miss Akers chose for the occasion a gown of black net fashioned with ruffled sleeves.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Selling spasms shook the stock market out of its lethargy today and industrial leaders, with steels and motors prominent, toppled 1 to 5 or more points, many to new lows for the past year or longer.

Sporadic efforts to rally the wavering list met with faint response and closing levels were not far above the worst of the day.

Depressing trade reports, especially from the motor and steel fields, coupled with fears the rift between business and the administration is growing, helped to touch off the resumption of yesterday's slide. Year-end tax selling was again an important factor.

Volume picked up sufficiently to put the ticker tape behind for a while. Transfers totaled 2,381,950 shares compared with 1,361,120 the day before. It was the largest aggregate since October 29.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 1.5 points at 42.5. The rail composite lost a full point at 19, a new bottom since 1935.

Further study of Assistant Attorney General Jackson's address in which he denounced monopoly "profiteering" and blamed "big business" for the economic recession led the financial district generally to the conclusion a new "trust-busting" campaign would be inaugurated by Washington soon.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The bond market sank fractions to 4 or more points today, waterlogged by the heaviest liquidation in over two months.

U. S. governments, subjected to pressure as investors backed away from the longer-term issues and favored the short-terms, ended with gains and losses about evenly divided. Some treasury bonds with maturities less than 10 years distant advanced as much as 8-32s, while corresponding declines hit issues falling due later.

The Associated Press average of 20 rail bonds fell .8 of a point, the utility average .5, the industrial .3, and the foreign .1.

Transactions totaled $12,553,500, face value, the largest turnover since October 22 last, and comparing with $8,061,000 Monday. Sales of U. S. governments were $1,790,000, against $540,000 Monday.

HOME LOAN STOCK STILL TAX EXEMPT

Building Shares Unaffected by Intangibles Law.

Shares in federal building and loan associations and those of state chartered building and loan groups continue exempt from taxation under the new intangible tax act, officials of the State Revenue Commission announced yesterday.

In framing the new law members of the general assembly took cognizance of the fact that such associations are organizations banded together for the mutual interest of the shareholders. In the past the shares have been exempt from ad valorem taxation.

It was pointed out that Governor Rivers delayed signing the new intangible tax act until he first had approved the new building and loan act, so there could be no doubt as to the exemption status of the building and loan groups.

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Four cents downward plunge of wheat values took place today mainly owing to month-end selling on a big scale and to tumbles of securities.

A total of almost 5,000,000 bushels of uncompleted Chicago December wheat contracts remained this morning to be settled for, but with no way open to do so after today except by actual delivery of grain. Much enlarged selling to even up accounts for traders anxious to avoid acceptance of prospective immediate heavy tenders of wheat here was a consequence.

Adding momentum to the swing to lower price levels was the fact that European demand for wheat was reported as flat, and that recessions of 1 1-2 cents in Argentine corn values had been substituted for yesterday's sensational skyrocketing.

Cottonseed Oil

and Cottonseed Products

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Cottonseed oil was easier today under increased liquidation and commission house selling, influenced by weakness of the stock market. Final prices were at about the lowest and 10 to 15 points net lower. Sales 168 contracts. Bleachable spot nominal; January closed 7.02, March 7.06, May 7.09, July 7.13.

Refined was unchanged locally at 4.65 to 4.85 for fine granulated with only a moderate withdrawal demand reported, although beet sugar was advanced 10 points in the western territory to 4.75.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Coffee futures broke abruptly today on Brazilian news interpreted to mean abandonment within three years of the 12 milreis export tax and lowering of coffee prices.

Trade, commission houses and European interests sold on the decline, with light short covering the only buying of consequence.

Santos opened unchanged to 3 higher and closed 17 to 19 lower; sales 3,000. Closing quotations: Santos, March 6.28, May 6.08, July 5.96, September 5.94, December 5.87; Rio, March 4.33, May 4.18, July 4.06, September 4.06, December 4.06.

Cost and freight offerings included Santos Bourbon 4s for prompt shipment at from 6.85 to 7.20. Spot market steady. Santos 4s 8½ nominal. Rio 7s 6¼ nominal.

BIRMINGHAM STEPS UP PRODUCTION OF STEEL

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 28.—(AP)—Steel production in the Alabama area will be increased to 63 per cent of capacity next week when operations of the Republic Steel Corporation are stepped up.

Increased business brought an advance this week from 45 to 60 per cent.

AVERAGE PRICE.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 28.—(AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 8.32 cents a pound. The average price for the past 30 market days was 8.12 cents a pound.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.

Atlanta spot cotton closed steady, middling f. o. b. 9.00.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Cotton eased today in sympathy with other markets. March sold off from 8.35 to 8.25 and closed at 8.30 with final prices 1 to 6 points net lower.

Initial advances of 1 to 3 points were the best and were lost early under hedging and selling through commission houses credited to profit taking. Weakness of the stock market and a number of other commodities influenced sentiment. Trading was more active. At the lows, the list showed net losses of 6 to 10 points. A late covering movement accounted for partial recoveries.

Exports today 29,313, making a total of 3,281,819 for the season thus far. Port receipts 40,172; United States port stocks 3,279,537.

COTTON PRICES CLOSE 4-8 POINTS LOWER

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 28.—(AP) Cotton today slipped off approximately 50 cents a bale on active months under selling in sympathy with declining stocks but rallied a point or so in final trading and closed steady, 4 to 8 points net lower.

Port receipts 40,172; for week 92,390; for season 5,751,068. Exports 29,313; for week 44,230; for season 3,301,582. Port stocks 3,273,389. Stock on shipboard at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 109,838; for week 182,820. Spot sales at southern markets 12,043; last year 12,234.

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—Steady liquidation continued throughout the day Tuesday and probably there will be more Wednesday. Most of the tax selling should be out of the way Wednesday and a sharp rally could develop that might carry over the year end.

BEER & CO.—From the strictly short-term viewpoint, the list after five successive days of recession, the last two of particularly sharp setbacks, would seem to be in a position to stage a rally.

THOMSON & McKINNON—Regardless of the ultimate effects the anti-trust policy and tax revision may have on business, their influence has led to considerable discouragement in the stock market.

FENNER & BEANE—In combination with the usual year end influences the violence of the current decline suggests the possibility of a near-by rebound of technical scope with the making of a definite bottom and resumption of intermediate recovery tendencies dependent upon later news factors.

E. A. PIERCE & CO.—Obviously weakness Tuesday represented something more than selling for year end adjustment purposes. Probably the liquidation was a reflection of the renewed uncertainty among investors over the prospects of cooperation between the administration and business. It is patent that the list as a whole is facing another important test with possible results in the balance.

COTTON OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—We look for very little price change until after the turn of the year. However, would continue to take advantage of small recessions to add to long lines.

BEER & CO.—Irregular trading markets are anticipated during remainder of the year.

THOMSON & McKINNON — Some further recession in cotton may be seen unless the trend of the stock market undergoes a change. On further decline, however, we favor the buying side.

FENNER & BEANE—Some further decline is expected unless stock market conditions improve.

E. A. PIERCE & CO.—Small trading markets seem likely over the year end with broadening in activity and further improvement in prices after entering the new year.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO. — Unless further decline in securities, expect dull market over the year end.

'I'm No Sage,' Asserts William Allen White

ROCHESTER, Minn., Dec. 28.—(AP)—William Allen White, famed Kansas editor, today lamented as the one bitterness of his declining years the title "Sage of Emporia."

"I'm no sage," he asserted in an interview, "A sage is a bug-eyed, long-haired creature that has no contact with reality."

White, here for two weeks for an operation, said he would leave for Emporia tomorrow night to "go back to work." He said he had no intention of retiring. He will be 70 years old next month.

GEORGE L. BERRY DIES HERE AT 64

Brother of Bank Official Was Retired Business Executive.

George Lewis Berry, 64, brother of Frank M. Berry, cashier of the First National Bank, died yesterday afternoon in a hospital. He lived at 893 Peachtree street.

Born and reared in Atlanta, Mr. Berry retired four years ago. He was an official of a bed company here. He belonged to the First Presbyterian church.

He leaves, in addition to his brother, his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Thurston MacAulley and Miss Carolyn Elizabeth Berry, both of New York city; two sons, George L. and Julius Eugene Berry, both of Atlanta; another brother, Clayton Berry Sr., and two grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements will be announced by Brandon-Bond-Condon.

GREAT PARIS STRIKE IMPERILS CABINET

Bus, Subway, Water, Gas, Electric and Hospital Workers Walk Out.

PARIS, Dec. 29.—(Wednesday) (AP)—A general strike of Paris public service workers, which started at 5:30 a. m. today, raised a serious threat to the life of Premier Camille Chautemps' People's Front government.

The strike movement embraced bus, subway, water, gas, electric plant and hospital workers in addition to those of the food and trucking industries already on strike.

Tie-up of the capital, which the strikers would effect, threatened to increase the ranks of Chautemps' parliamentary opponents who already have censured him for failing to settle smaller shutdowns.

Municipal water, gas, electric and hospital employes called a walkout last night. The new strikes were in sympathy.

No Sour Grapes For Jamboree Of Produce Men

With the night's entertainment dedicated to the slogan, "let joy be unrestrained," Atlanta wholesale produce dealers will get together at 6 o'clock tonight for their annual dinner and "jamboree smoker."

In the words of Aubrey Milam, chairman of Atlanta convention committee, it's going to be the "greatest fight on gloom ever witnessed in the history of the universe." And, he adds, it's going to be a stag affair.

Milam promises "no speechmaking."

"There's going to be a lot of talking, but positively no speeches," he declared, adding that the purpose of the annual affair is to furnish produce men of Atlanta an opportunity to get together and have a good time.

2 FILLING STATIONS ROBBED BY BANDITS

Holdups Within 10 Minutes' Time Net $37.

Two neatly-dressed young white men in a muddy car bearing out-of-state license plates held up and robbed two gasoline stations of a total of $37 within 10 minutes early last night. The bandits escaped.

The first holdup occurred at about 10:30 o'clock when the bandits drove into a station at 590 North Highland avenue, N. E. After obtaining a quart of oil, one of the men drew a pistol and took $22 from the attendant, Walter Harvin.

The second holdup occurred at a station at 210 Peters street, S. W., after the bandits obtained five gallons of gasoline. The victim was C. W. Sealey, from whom $15 was taken.

LEAGUE DRAFTING WAR DENUNCIATION

Britain Is Principal Backer of Declaration.

GENEVA, Dec. 28.—(AP)—League of Nations leaders were said tonight to be preparing for adoption of a declaration by the League council strongly condemning war, basing their action particularly upon the Chinese-Japanese conflict.

This declaration, it was stated, probably will be approved at the council session opening January 17, with Great Britain as the principal backer.

According to information in League quarters, the draft resolution declares that armed hostilities in any part of the world inevitably would affect the tranquility of the whole world, which has a vital interest in quick restoration of peace.

GAIN IN PROFIT SHOWN BY MONTGOMERY WARD

CHICAGO, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Montgomery Ward & Company reported today net profit for the nine months' period ended October 31 totaled $15,287,874, after the tax on undistributed earnings, compared with $12,977,442, the corresponding 1936 period.

This was equivalent to $2.73 a common share, compared with $2.61 a share on a smaller amount of stock outstanding a year ago.

Third quarter net profit after surtax totaled $6,238,230, compared with $5,875,580, the corresponding period last year.

DR. H. L. FLYNT DIES; DENTIST 28 YEARS

Former Southern Dental Teacher Moved to The Rock 3 Years Ago.

Dr. Harry L. Flynt, retired Atlanta dentist, died early yesterday morning at his home in The Rock, near Thomaston, Ga., following a paralytic stroke Monday night. He was 62.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the chapel of Stephens' Funeral Home, Thomaston. Burial will be in the Barnesville cemetery.

Practiced Here 28 Years.

Dr. Flynt practiced here for 28 years prior to his retirement 10 years ago, on advice of physicians. He came here as a young man and graduated from the Southern Dental College, afterwards serving for a time on the faculty of the college. He was owner of considerable Atlanta real estate.

Born in Culloden, Ga., Dr. Flynt had lived at 1050 Ponce de Leon avenue seven years after his retirement and then moved to The Rock with his wife, who was the former Miss Nell Marchman, of The Rock.

Dr. Flynt was active in the Druid Hills Methodist church and was on the board of stewards for a number of years.

He was a Mason and a member of the Capital City Club, the Piedmont Driving Club and the Shrine.

Sister in Atlanta.

He had no children. In addition to his wife, he leaves two sisters, Miss P. A. Flynt, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Crowder Danielly, of Jackson, Miss; and two brothers, Walter J. Flynt, of Jacksonville, and Vernon Flynt, of The Rock.

Pallbearers for the funeral this afternoon include Russell Bridges Sr., Dr. Paul Key, Dr. W. C. Dabney and Dr. E. A. Crudgington, all of Atlanta; J. J. Flynt, of Griffin; J. C. Collier, of Barnesville; Cliff Middlebrooks, of Norman Park; Rob Middlebrooks, of Ashepoo, S. C., and Roy Stephens, of Thomaston.

MRS. E. MITCHELL LAST RITES TODAY

Prominent Thomasville Woman Killed in Crash.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Dec. 28. (AP)—Mrs. Emmett Mitchell, 50, prominent local woman, was killed in an auto-truck collision near here last night.

Others in the car were her husband, Mrs. Fred Smith, of Thomasville, and Major and Mrs. H. T. Holt, of Athens. They received minor injuries.

Funeral services have been arranged for Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of her son, Fondren Mitchell, in Thomasville, the Rev. T. F. Callaway and the Rev. Robb White Jr. will officiate.

Interment will be at Laurel Hill cemetery here.

A prominent and beloved resident, Mrs. Mitchell had hundreds of warm friends here and her death came as a tragic shock to this entire section.

RETIRED JUSTICE WILL SERVE AGAIN

Vandevanter To Act Tuesday in New York Case.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—(AP)—Justice Willis Vandevanter, who retired from the supreme court la t June, will temporarily return to active service as a trial judge ir this district next Tuesday.

Justice Vandevanter, whose retirement stirred a furore at the height of the supreme court reorganization controversy, was assigned to his new post by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes at the request of Judge John C. Knox, presiding jurist of the United States district court here.

Justice Vandevanter is expected to preside over the trial of Philip H. Philbin, New York stock broker and big-game hunter, accused of using the mails to defraud in connection with the sale of Atlas Tack stock.

The government charged investors in the stock lost almost $1,000,000 when the stock collapsed after alleged "wash" sales and high-pressure salesmanship had boosted its price skyward.

W. S. DENTON, 26, DIES; SON OF LORD MAYOR

BALTIMORE, Dec. 28.—(AP)—W. S. Denton, 26, son of Lord Mayor William Denton, of Liverpool, died in the Johns Hopkins hospital today.

Remember That Night

By Margaret Gorman Nichols

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

When a theatrical company disbands in Harriston a young actress deserts her six-month-old baby. John and Hetty Malare adopt her and name her Karen. Her foster-parents dead when she is 20, she quits her dress shop job to go to New York to realize her ambition to be an actress. Jerry Forbes, whose uncle owns the Harriston Bank, begs her to marry him, then wishes her luck saying he'll be waiting "if you need me." In New York, Roxanne Dell, who sings on a hotel roof, is her neighbor. After Karen sees the famous Brenda Bond in Philip Ashley's new play, she drops her handbag containing all her money in the lobby. A handsome man returns it. He is Philip Ashley. He takes her to a party to meet Brenda Bond. She overhears a woman's remark about Ashley's picking up girls while Lilyan Kane is in London and leaves. Philip apologizes as he drives her home; she knows she loves him. Bill McGrath, Roxanne's fiance, disappears from a ship and Karen sings for her to save her job while she goes to Bill's parents. Philip takes Tommy Nolting, playboy, to the roof. After a stormy scene, Marion Leland breaks her engagement to Tommy. He asks Karen to marry him; instead she tells Marion that Tommy really loves her and Marion elopes with him. Philip, who goes to London, had arranged with Bernie Tappen, Broadway producer, to give Karen a small part, and asked Tommy to take her to Tappen. The show soon closes. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XVII.

Wearing a new black net frock, Roxanne came out of the bedroom. She had tried to be cheerful and encouraging.

Karen said, "I've been everywhere. There's nothing else to do. Did I tell you Marion called and said she was sorry?" She tried to smile. "I was a meteor that flashed across Broadway, the fastest meteor on record. You look nice, Roxanne."

"You're not going back on the roof, are you? If you do, you'll be stuck there. You won't have the courage to leave again." She sat beside Karen on the divan. "I don't know much but I do know you've got everything. You are in a slump now. But think of a lot of famous people who were told they couldn't paint or act or write. That didn't stop them! You had one foot on the ladder and you're going to hold on until you get the other foot on. The first couple rungs are the hardest."

When she left, Karen continued to sit quietly, hearing only the ticking of the little clock in the room. Where was Philip tonight? Was he dancing in a glamorous London place with lovely Lilyan Kane?

Karen looked around at the ugly room and then at herself. Her black slippers were worn from walking. There was a hole in her stocking. Her nails were untended and one had broken today. How unlovely she was! How unlovely were her surroundings! All her fine dreams had brought her to sitting in an ugly room alone, wearing a dress two years old, and near to tears. Where were the glamour and triumphs she had been so certain would be hers? Where was the love in which Aunt Hetty had told her she would be happy and faithful?

Getting up, she put on her brown tweed coat and small green felt hat and went out. No longer could she bear to think of Philip and her failure. Perhaps people on the street or the shop windows would divert her. But beautiful clothes in shop windows only made her think, "I'd like so much to be beautiful for Philip the next time he sees me." Melancholy swept over her in a rush. She thought, "I'd like to run away from loving Philip and from being a failure. But I can't run away from either."

Philip had been in England for several weeks. And though much had happened to him in his life, he would never forget his sensation on seeing Lilyan after their weeks of separation. Driving out to the picturesque country house she and her father had taken, he had arrived in mid-afternoon and Lilyan had opened the door. And before she spoke, before he touched her or kissed her, he knew that he no longer loved her. Holding her in his arms briefly before they went in to see her father, he had and anger, not with Lilyan but felt shaken with disappointment with himself.

She was as lovely as he remembered her. She was as lovely as when he had believed he loved her. The green frock she wore that day brought out the dark red lights in her hair and made her soft eyes that changed color the shade of her frock. She had been so happy to see him she had cried a little and then they had gone in to see her father.

Seeing him, a sick old man, Philip had felt worse at his discovery, knowing that Owen Kane thoroughly approved of a marriage between Lilyan and him. He called Philip, "My boy," and said, "My physican tells me I'll be in shape to travel in a few weeks. England is fine but I want to get home."

And Lilyan and Philip had gone into the garden.

"It's been so long!" Lilyan cried. "Let me look at you, darling!" But suddenly her eyes were puzzled and a little frightened. "Do you still love me, Philip? You—you haven't changed your mind about us? We've been away from each other a long time and I though perhaps. . . ."

He ached. Should he tell her? He couldn't! Perhaps this awful lack of feeling would pass and he would find he still cared. He could not hurt her. She had been through a difficult time. Moreover, he was afraid of what a shock might do to her father. And so there was nothing for him to do except pretend that it was as it had been before she left New York.

He smiled. "Do you think distance and time would change my feelings, Lilyan?"

Her voice was a little breathless. "I didn't know," she said. Then, "Father is so much better. We'll be married any time you like, Philip. I think Father would like us to be married as soon as possible."

That had been weeks ago. Tonight in a London hotel (Lilyan and her father had moved to town and had a suite on the floor below) he stood before the window and smoked a cigaret and tried to face his problem honestly.

There was but one thing to do and that was to marry Lilyan. The past weeks had been the most miserable he had ever spent and though he had been close many times to telling her that time and distance had changed his feelings, he lacked the courage. Her love for him, complete and unselfish, shamed him.

He thought, "I've got to go through with it! She isn't to blame. In New York I asked her to marry me, begged her to marry me." But there was small comfort in knowing that Lilyan would make him a splendid wife.

Later that evening at a party he said as they were dancing, "don't you think it would be a better idea to wait until after the play opened before we are married? I'll have that off my mind and we can take a long honeymoon."

Beautiful in white lace, she looked up and smiled sweetly.

"Anything you say, Philip. But let's sail quite soon. Yes, I would prefer being married at home—in church."

He could not tell her that he had always said he would never be married in church. He remembered saying to Brenda quite gaily once, "If ever I do get married, the wedding will be quiet and unpretentious and a chartered plane will take us on a honeymoon. That's my idea of the proper way to get married—up in the clouds actually as well as emotionally!" now, he thought, there would be weeks of preparation.

A long letter from Tommy came the following day. What was Tommy up to now, Philip wondered. His mouth amused, he opened it and read Tommy's glowing account of his elopement. Then he read. "You didn't do Karen such a big favor after all. I felt like a heel, taking the credit of taking her to Bernie Tappen. The play has closed. It was pretty bad. Karen got a line or so from the press. Maybe I'm crazy, but I think that any girl who wants to be an actress as much as she does must have the goods. Now she's out of a job."

He asked about Lilyan and concluded, "I guess you'll be joining the younger married set soon. Boy, there's nothing like it!"

Philip did not hesitate. He went directly to the telephone and called Brenda Bond in New York.

"Philip?" she asked over the Atlantic. "Nothing is wrong, I hope. Did you get me out of bed to tell me you and Lilyan are married?" She laughed. "If so, then I give you my blessings, dear, but please let me go to sleep again."

He put his mouth close to the telephone and spoke in a deep, clipped, clear tones, asking occasionally, "Can you hear me? Are you getting this?" and being assured by Brenda that she was hearing almost perfectly. He talked a long time. When he asked how much the call had cost and was told, he made no comment. It was worth it.

Hearing a low, friendly voice say, "This is Brenda Bond," Karen's eyes were instantly wide and excited. Roxanne put down a glass of orange juice and listened, frowning.

Brenda said, "I heard about your unfortunate experience in the Tappen play. But you must learn to expect such things, my dear. They happen to all of us. One of my plays closed after the first night. I'd like you to come to see me tomorrow evening, Karen. Come for dinner. I think what I have to offer to you will interest you." She laughed quietly. "I haven't forgotten you, you see."

UNCLE RAY'S Corner

CHURCHES OF THE PROPHET.

"There is no god but Allah, and Mohammed is his prophet!"

That is what the Moslems (or Mohammedans) say, and teach their children to say. Sixteen million people in Egypt are classed as members of the faith, and only about a million belong to other religions.

One of my fellow travelers had a talk on the desert with some Moslem camel drivers.

A Mohammedan Mosque.

"What do you think of Mohammed?" one of the drivers asked.

"I think he was the greatest man who ever lived," the traveler replied.

I do not think he meant that. If the same question were asked of me, I might reply, "I think Mohammed is the best-known man ever born in Arabia."

Mohammed certainly is better known than any other Arabian. Born in Mecca, he grew up to preach what he believed to be the truth. During his lifetime, he met some success, but far greater success has come since his death. More than 200,000,000 people now believe in the famous prophet.

To visit a Moslem church (or "mosque") is not so simple as to go into a Christian church. People of other faiths are not allowed to enter a mosque if a service is going on, and it is not easy to do so at any other time.

"What would happen if you did go into a mosque during a service?" I asked my guide, who is a Copt, not a Moslem.

"I think they would kill me," he replied.

In his company, I rode in a taxi to a mosque. I almost got inside, but not quite—that is, I got as far as an open doorway. There we were halted. There was no service at the moment, but people were going inside to make ready for one. I saw perhaps a dozen men take off their shoes, and step over the door sill to enter the mosque. Women were also going in, but by a different entrance. I peeped inside, and saw one or two people bowing down—just as in Christian churches some persons pray before the regular service starts.

By going to a government office, I obtained a permit to enter a mosque. My dragoman says the one I went to is the finest in all Egypt, and that it cost $10,000,000 to build.

No one was praying in the mosque when we got there, and the men at the doorway were quite willing to let us pass when we showed them the permit. We were given canvas slippers to put over our shoes. Inside we saw the empty niche which shows the faithful which way to face when they bow toward Mecca. We also saw golden writing about two feet high in a line running around the walls of the mosque. The words were taken from the Koran.

TARZAN UNDER FIRE No. 63 By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Doc, of course, did not understand Gulm's order to his followers, but he soon saw the result. Six of the lesser priests started up the side of the ravine with the agility of apes, to pursue him and seize him, to kill him if they could not capture him . . .

. . . Tarzan, too, was playing the unenviable role of quarry in the harrowing drama at the garrison town where he had escaped prison. He circled to avoid the soldiers who were intent on recapturing him, but now another detachment dashed up to close the circle.

The soldiers believed that he had become utterly mad with panic, because he headed straight for the point where the armed men were thickest. But the purpose of his strange action soon became apparent when, to the astonishment of on-lookers, he sprang into a tree.

The tree-lined avenue offered a direct path to the jungle, and Tarzan sped like the wind through that leafy terrace toward freedom's goal. But the soldiers recovered quickly from their amazement. Rifles cracked; bullets whistled and clipped through the trees!

ATLANTAN PLEADS GUILTY IN SLAYING

Invalid Wheeled Into Los Angeles Courtroom in Surprise Move.

Reclining in a wheel chair, Worth Clements, 37, former Atlantan, yesterday pleaded guilty in Los Angeles superior court to the slaying last October 9 of Mrs. Lucille Register Campbell, 26, bride of three days.

Clements was wheeled into the courtroom in a surprise move by authorities. Superior Judge Samuel S. Blake ordered immediate taking of testimony to determine the degree of murder before pronouncing sentence.

Had Worked Here.

Clements was employed 20 years in a cigar store in the Hurt building. He left his job five months before the tragedy, going to Miami. He then returned to Atlanta and lived at a downtown hotel a month before the shooting.

Since the murder of Mrs. Campbell, also a former Atlantan, Clements has been confined in the hospital ward of Los Angeles county jail, recovering from two bullet wounds in the chest. Police said he attempted to kill himself after shooting Mrs. Campbell.

Coast police also quoted Clements as saying "he couldn't stand to see his sweetheart married to someone else." Three days before the murder, Miss Register had been married at Tia Juana, Mexico, to Wayne Campbell, 32.

Divorced in January.

Clements formerly lived here with his wife on Highland avenue and on Ponce de Leon avenue. He was divorced last January. Shortly after the murder, police released a letter Mrs. Campbell had written Clements, in which she spoke of "rough stuff not getting them anywhere."

According to police, Clements pleaded with Mrs. Campbell to accompany him to a railroad station, as he had agreed to leave town after she sought police protection. As they sat in a car, he shot her once through the head and then turned the gun on himself.

Stanley Register, eight, brother of the dead woman, whom Clements was reported to have adopted in Miami, witnessed the shooting.

AIR 'BATTLESHIPS' SCOUT OVER OCEAN

Soar in 'Dawn Patrol' Seeking Mythical Enemy.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 28.—(UP) The navy sent up its "flying battleships" to scout the seas for a mythical enemy today in a new phase of secret operations which soon may involve all fighting units of the force on the Pacific coast.

Huge twin-motored bombing planes took off from San Diego bay in a "dawn patrol" flight which naval officials emphasized was "not unusual." Heretofore, only destroyers had participated in the current maneuvers.

On January 3, larger fighting units will swing into action. Heavy dreadnoughts and bulky cruisers will proceed to San Clemente island, halfway between San Pedro and San Diego, for target practice.

EX-KING ALFONSO'S SON SERIOUSLY ILL IN CUBA

HAVANA, Cuba, Dec. 28.—(UP)—The Count of Covadonga, son of ex-King Alfonso of Spain, was seriously ill tonight at his hotel apartment with a leg abscess, complicated by hemophelia.

The former heir to the Spanish throne had come here for final proceedings in the "mutual consent" divorce suit filed by him and his second commoner wife, Marta Rocafort.

News of Gate City Told in Paragraphs

Three Atlantans were among five who passed the DeKalb county bar examination December 15, it was learned yesterday from DeKalb courthouse officials. They were Byron E. Hilley, Ben W. Brannon and Douglas Dennis. Others were Harold N. Waddell, of Brookhaven, and John Braswell, of Decatur.

Monthly meeting of the board of stewards of Grant Park M. E. church will be held after prayer services tonight.

W. W. Gaines will address the Men's Bible Class of the Capitol Avenue Baptist church at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning, it was announced yesterday. A talk will also be given by W. A. Lynch, teacher of the class.

John W. Hammond, secretary of the Georgia senate, has almost recovered from a three-week illness, it was learned yesterday. Hammond visited his office at the capitol for the first time since he was stricken with influenza. He has been confined in a Macon hospital.

Dance and entertainment under auspices of Hapeville city employes will be held at Black Rock Country Club from 8 until 12 o'clock tonight.

HUNTERS MISSING

Three Sought as Boat Is Found Partly Sunk.

UNION, S. C., Dec. 28.—(UP)—Three men, all married and having families, were missing tonight after a hunting trip on the Broad river, near Neal Shoals.

They are Fred Sanders, 52, overseer of the weaveroom at the Union Mills; his son, Vell D. Sanders, 25, a meat cutter at the Union Mills store, and Douglas Ivey, 35, a textile worker at the mills.

A partly submerged boat, believed to have been one in which they went down the river duck hunting, was found by searchers today. This led to the belief the men had drowned.

TWO ARRESTED IN RAID ON LIQUOR, BUG COUNTS

Lottery and liquor charges sent two negroes to Fulton Tower early last night, following a raid on a house at 5 Brown's alley by Deputy Sheriffs W. L. Moore and S. G. Davies.

The officers said they found two and a half pints of whisky and several lottery books in the Brown's alley home of one of the negroes, Larry Samuel, 52. The other negro arrested in the house was listed as Benny Evans, 28, of 549 McDaniel street.

Both men were held under $200 bonds on the liquor charges, and $1,000 bonds on the lottery charges.

SON OF LEGION CHIEF KILLED ACCIDENTALLY

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Dec. 28.—(UP)—Ralph Braren, 12-year-old son of Walter Braren, local American Legion commander and member of the police force, was killed accidentally late today while hunting near here.

He was shot when a gun a younger cousin was handing to him was discharged.

In Memoriam

In memory of our dear wife and mother who passed away one year ago today.
A light is from our household gone,
A voice we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.
Some may think you are forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more;
But in memory you are with us,
As you always were before.
S. H. BEAM SR., AND CHILDREN.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our devoted husband, father and grandfather, Mr. Wilburn Shade, who passed away one year ago today, December 29, 1936.
It was a sad and dreary day
When God called you away;
We loved you truly and dear,
To us you will always be near.
